
।। विद्या विमयेन ज्ञोकते ।। SHETH T. J. EDUCATION SOCIETY'S

SHETH NANJIBHAI KHIMJIBHAI THAKKAR THANAWALA COLLEGE OF COMMERCE & SHETH JAYANTILAL TRIBHOVANDAS THANAWALA COLLEGE OF ARTS

Kharkar Ali, Thane (W) - 400 601 A Linguistic Minority Institute, Recognized under 2(f) and 12(b) of the UGC act 1956 Tel.: 25431119, Website : www.nktdegreecollege.org Email:- nkttdg@yahoo.co.in

Re-Accredited by NAAC with CGPA 2.62, B+ Grade (3rd Cycle) ISO 9001: 2015 Certified

Dr. DILIP M. PATIL M.Sc. Ph.D. PRINCIPAL

To whomsoever it may concern

I hereby declare that the information mentioned under 3.3.1 (Number of research papers published per teacher in the Journals on UGC care list during last five years) is true to the best of my knowledge.

incipal

VISION - COMMITED AND PERSUASIVE EFFORTS TOWARDS HOLISTIC EDUCATION.

Sheth T.J.Education Society's Sheth N.K.T.T. College of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T.College of Arts,Thane(W)

3.3.1 Number of research paper published per teacher in the Journals on UGC care list during the last five years.

3.3.1.1 Number of research papers in the Journals notified on UGC CARE year wise during the last five years.

Sr.No.	Name of the Author	Title of the Paper
1	Dr. M. B. Patil	Empirical Study: Role Played by SBI In Financial Inclusion
2	Dr. H.A. Chande	Evaluation Of the Role of Thane Municipal Corporation In City's Sustainable Development: Review Of The Differences In The Willingness To Pay Across Various Wards Of Thane City
3	Dr. H.A. Chande	Evaluation Of The Role Of Thane Municipal Corporation In City's Sustainable Development: Review Of Existence Of Proximity To Ecological Goods And Services And Willingness To Pay Of Residents
4	Mr. N. N. Varade	Analytical Study Of Applied Multi-Resolution Statistics On Graph Structured.
5	Dr. D.P. Sawant	Porter's Diamond In Tourism Industry In Sindhudurg- A Study
6	Prof. Dr. Himanshi Mansukhani	Employability Skills In Higher Education: Promoting Online Courses For Global Reach
7	N. N. Varade	A Study of Modern Sparse Estimation Analysis in Applied Statistics Lasso Penalty
8	Dr. P.A.Shah	Covid-19 Setback of World Economy
9	Dr. H.A.Chande	Use of public private partnership and collaborative approach for sustainable development by urban local body: a case study of TMC
10	Dr. H.A.Chande	A Study of Effect On Productivity And Mental Health of Employees Due to 'Work From Home'Arrangement in Mumbai Metropolitan Region During Covid 19 Pandemic
11	Dr. D.P. Sawant	Improvement in the share of tourism industry in the economic growth of Ratnagiri district of maharashtra- an overview
12	Dr.D.P.Sawant	Changing Role of Tourism Industry in Sindhudurg District of Maharashtra:A Case Study
13	Dipalee Mulmule	Critical Analysis of Effects of Marriage Between NRI and Indian Girl In The Light of The registration of NRI Bill,2019

2017 - 2022

Vision: Committed And Persuasive Efforts Towards Holistic Education.

PRINCIPAL SHETH T.J. EDUCATION SOCIETY'S SHETH N.K.T.T. COLLEGE OF COMMERCE & SHETH J.T.T. COLLEGE OF ARTS, THANE (W)

14	Dipalee Mulmule	Right to Make Living Will-A Path For Availing Right To Die With Dignity
15	Dr. M. Bagchi	The Self in Indian Social Milieu- Understanding Female Adolescence Crisis and its Underlying Identities in a Selected Indian Movie
16	Ms.MuktaMagalvedekar	Corporate Social Responsibility of TATA Steel Company in Sports and Environment
17	Aditi Mone	A Study on Impact of Pre-placement Training on the Recruitment Process
18	Dr.Mahesh Patil	Recent Trends in Service Sector
19	Dr. H.A. Chande	Consumers Buying Preferences Of Health-Related Safety Products Across The Demographic Factors During Covid Pandemic
20	Dr. H.A. Chande	Causes And Effects Of Migration: A Case Study Of Thane City
21	Dr. H.A. Chande	A Study Of Consumers Preferred Payment Methods Pre And Post Covid 19 Outbreak In Thane City
22	Dr. H.A. Chande	Small- Scale Businesses By Women Entrepreneurs In Thane City: A Study
23	Dr. H.A. Chande	Problems Of Women Entrepreneurs In Thane City: A Study
24	Dr. H.A. Chande	A Study Of Preferred Payment Methods Of Consumers Since The Outbreak Of Covid- 19 Pandemic Across The Demographic Factors In Thane City
25	Dr.Dhanashree Sawant	Impact Of Covid 19 On The Tourism Industry In India:An Overview
26	Dr.Mahesh Patil	E-Commerce And Entrepreneurship
27	Dipalee Mulmule	An Analysis Of Impact Of Covid-19 Pandemic On Mental Health Of Undergraduate Students
28	Dipalee Mulmule	An Analysis Of Awareness Among Legal Practitioners On Legal Issues In Nri Marital Disputes
29	Geetanjali B.Chiplunkar	Impact Of Global Economic Slowdown On Indian Automobile Sector
30	Saummya Rai	A Study On Impact Of Social Media On Buying Behaviour Of Young Minds
31	Dr. D.P. Sawant	Blended Teaching Learning System, A New Option For Education System In Post Covid Period- A Case Study Of Thane City Colleges
32	Dr. H.A. Chande	A Study Of Consumer Behaviour Towards Buying Of Necessities And Non- Necessities During Covid-19 Outbreak
33	Dr. H.A. Chande	A Study Of Affordability Of Consumers During Covid Pandemic And Impact Of Gender On Buying Decisions Of Consumers

Vision: Committed And Persuasive Efforts Towards Holistic Education.

PRINCIPAL SHETH T.J. EDUCATION SOCIETY'S SHETH N.K.T.T. COLLEGE OF COMMERCE & SHETH J.T.T. COLLEGE OF ARTS, THANE (W)

ISSN 2319-2429

Management Guru: Journal of Management Research

A Journal Approved by UGC (University Grants Commission) Under the Category of "Social Sciences All" Sl.No : 616 Journal No. 45007 Vol. V | Issue No. 11 | December 2017 | Thane | Monthly Journal | Annual Subscription ₹ 2500/-

Middle Level Management of Sudha Dairy Organization and Administration of MGNREGA Emerging Marketing Trends in Indian Lubricant Industry Deposits Mobilization by Banks in India Employee Motivation in Current Business Scenario Growing Brand Culture in India Job Satisfaction- A Conceptual Framework Mergers & Acquisitions of Banking Sector in India Opportunities and Challenge of Food Processing Industry in India Infrastructural development in Konkan Recent Development of Human Resource Management Role of NABARD in Poverty Alleviation SWOT Analysis of Indian Railways Virtual Currencies

INDEX

Sr. No.	Title and Author's Name	Page No.
1	Deposits Mobilization by Banks in India
	Dr. Ramashish Purvey
2	Influence of Pricing and Non Pricing Strategies on Consumer	6
	Behaviour with Special Reference to Consumer Durables: A Study of North Karnataka
	Paramanand Dasar, Dr. S. G. Hundekar
3	A Study on Organization and Administration of MGNREGA	14
	Vivek Kumar
4	Empirical study : Role played by SBI in financial inclusion [2011-	19
	2015]
	Dr. Mahesh Baburao Patil
5	A Study on Middle Level Management of Sudha Dairy	22
	Dr. Dhirendra Kumar
6	Emerging Marketing Trends in Indian Lubricant Industry	26
	Duraisamy R. Kamaraj
7	Rural Development - A Conceptual Framework	35
	Dr. Priyatam Kumar
8	Growing Brand Culture in India	40
	Dr. Jyoti Sharma, Sarthak Sharma
9	Recent Development of Human Resource Management	45
	Madhurendra Kumar
10	Banking Sector Reforms in India	51
	Dr. Ratnakar Rana
11	Role of NABARD in Poverty Alleviation	56
	Dr. Bikesh Kumar Singh
12	Impact of Demonetization on Various Sectors and Society of India	61
	Dr Jasvinder Singh Bhatia
13	Job Satisfaction- A Conceptual Framework	70
	Alka Ranjana
14	Employee Motivation in Current Business Scenario	75
	Sony Kumari
15	SWOT Analysis of Indian Railways	79
	Dr. Pankai Kumar
16	Women's Ignominy: A Study of the Problem Encountered by Women	86
10	in Politics
	Suiu S. Guiar
17	Concept and Theories of Motivation: An Analysis	93
17	Dr. Audhash Raiak
	DI. Awanash Najar
		1

The information and views expressed and the research content published in this journal, the sole responsibility lies entirely with the author(s) and does not reflect the official opinion of the Editorial Board, Advisory Committee and the Editor in Chief of the Journal "AJANTA". Owner, printer & publisher Vinay S. Hatole has printed this journal at Ajanta Computer and Printers. Jaisingpura, University Gate, Aurangabad, also Published the same at Aurangabad.

Printed by

Ajanta Computer, Near University Gate, Jaisingpura, Aurangabad. (M.S.) Published by:

Ajanta Prakashan, Near University Gate, Jaisingpura, Aurangabad. (M.S.) Cell No. : 9579260877, 9822620877, Ph.No. : (0240) 2400877, 6969427. E-mail : ajanta1977@gmail.com, www.ajantaprakashan.com

AJANTA - ISSN 2277 - 5730 - Impact Factor - 5.2 (www.sjifactor.com)

VOLUME - VII, ISSUE - 1 - JANUARY - MARCH - 2018 AJANTA - ISSN 2277 - 5730 - IMPACT FACTOR - 5.2 (www.sjifactor.com)

So CONTENTS OF ENGLISH PART - I

Sr. No.	Name & Author Name	Page No.
11	Evaluation of the Role of Thane Municipal Corporation in City's	80-86
	Sustainable Development: Review of the Differences in the Willingness to Pay Across Various Wards of Thane City
	Dr. (Ms.) H. A. Chande	1.1.1.1.1
12	Emerging Trends in Management Accounting	87-93
	Mr. Shahu D. Ovhal
13	Benefits of Yoga and Meditation in Emotional, Mental and Physical	94-99
	Health of Students
	Miss. Archana Oza	1.3
	Dr.Leena Muralidharan
14	Addressing Gender Gap in Playgrounds: An Exploratory Study	100-106
	Dr. Sudnya Mahimkar*	1.1.1
	Dr. V. A. Gokhale
15	Impact of Demonetization in India	107-114
	Mr. Vinay Jadav
Sec. 2	Dr.Neela Nair
16	GST & Indian Economy	115-120
	Dr. A. R. Wagdao	and the state
17	Impact of Heavy Metal, Cadmium on Protein Metabolism in	121-130
	Freshwater Fish Oreochromis Mossambica
	Shaikh Nusrat Jahan	1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1.
	Nisar Shaikh	and the second
18	India's Relations with Pakistan, 1947-65	131-134
	Dr. C. C. Chaudhari	100.110
19	Influences of Demographic Variables on Employee Engagement in	135-143
	the Telecom Sector
1211	Dr. Archana Shrivastava	144.148
20	Portrayal of Women in Indian Cinema: A Journey for Identity	144-140
	Mrs. Pratima Chavan	172.4
	Ms. Anuja Thube	149-154
21	Sanction of Passive Euthanasia - New EKA in Indian Legar Jurisprudence
	Mrs. Dipalee B. Withindray

П

INI Registration No. MAHENG/2012/47953

Sharayu Prakashan Honours

Prin. Dr. V.S. Adigal

Prin. Dr. V.S. Adigal (6" August 1961) holds degrees of B.A. (Economics), M.A. (Economics) from Shivati University, Kolhapur & Ph.D (Rural Economics) from Mumbal University.

He started his career as a Lecturer in 1986 with B.E. Society's S.G.M. College of Commerce & Economics (1986 - 1997), shifted to Kirti College in 1997 and remained till 2008. Along with these two above institutions he remained as a visiting lecturer in the renowned institutions at Mumbai like Lala Lajpat Rai College of Commerce, Lala Lajpat Rai Institute of Management, Government Law College, Hinduja College of Commerce, Jai-hind College, J.M. Patel College of Commerce & Economics, Oriental Institute of Management.

At the collegiate level, he has a rich experience of 31 years of UG and PG teaching in Arts, Commerce and Management courses. He served as HOD from 2002 -2008 in the subject of Economics at Kirti College managed by Deccan Education Society. Currently he holds the position of Principal and HOD in (Business Economics), at Manjunatha College of Commerce, Thakurli (East). Though he was born in a very remote rural area in a lower middle class family, he has risen to the heights through his hardship and dedication, where he believes in the philosophy of "Work is Worship".

Under his direction, with all infrastructural facilities, the extension of College building construction was completed, where the His Excellency K Shankarnaryanan, Governor of Maharashtra inaugurated the College building. Under his leadership as a Principal could bring many laurels to the institution by introducing self financing courses like BMS, BAF, BBI and Post Graduate centre i.e. M.Com. He also succeeded in bringing Research Centre in the subject of Business Economics. He has added number of optional subjects at Degree and Junior College Level As a result the strength of the entire college (degree and junior) has risen sharply.

Under his direction, college got accredited by NAAC autonomous institution, Bangalore with 'B' Grade CGPA score of 2.70 in first cycle. It also gives an immense pleasure and pride moment to share the information that under his loadership the University of Mumbai recognised the NSS unit and awarded as the "Best NSS Unit"

He also succeeded in bringing Permanent Index Number from HSC Board and also Permanent Affiliation from University of Burded the also added one more feather in the cap by bringing the institution under 2f and 12b of USC Act. 1306 which has resulted into Immense change in the functioning of the institution.

He has been invited and Chief Guest by many institutions on different occasions and also by Voluntary

ISSN 2319-2429

SHARAYU PRAKASHAN

B-7/501, Vijay Park, Kasarvadavli, Ghodbunder Road, Thane(W) 400 615 Mobile:- +91 9967357415 / +91 7506707761 Email: sharayu1954@gmail.com Website www.mngtouru.com

anuary

12, Ji

Issue

>

Vol.

Guru: Journal of Management Research

lanagement

: Management Guru: Journal of Management Research

International Journal

A Journal Approved by UGC (University Grants Commission) Under the Category of "Social Sciences All" SL. No: 616 Journal No. 45007

Vol. V | Issue No. 12 | January, 2018 | Thane | Monthly Journal | Annual Subscription ₹ 2500/-

- 1. Impact of Celebrity Brand Endorsements on Brand Image and Product Purchases of the Soft Drink Product
- 2. Non-Performing Assets (NPAs) in Indian Commercial Banks
- 3. Behavioural Safety Culture in India: From Compromise to Compliance (Learnings from 10 Success Cases)
- 4. Corporate Governance Reporting A Compliance Norm?
- 5. Agricultural Finance in India: A Case Study of Central Bank of India
- 6. Can Mergers & Acquisitions Remove the IIIs of Banking Sector in India?
- 7. Employment Programs for Rural Development in India
- 8. Empowerment of Rural Youth through Skill Development Programs in India
- 9. Role of Microfinance in Empowering Woman Especially In Rural Area
- 10. Human Resource Management in the Indian Banking Sector
- 11. Evaluation of the role of Thane Municipal Corporation in City's Sustainable Development: Review of Existence of Proximity to Ecological Goods and Services and Willingness to Pay of Residents
- 12. Implication of Wage Guarantee-MGNREGA Administration and Achievement
- 13. Consumer Buying Behaviour: A Conceptual Study
- 14. Marketing Mix of Banking Industry
- 15. Recent scheme and programs for rural Development in India
- 16. Role of Women Entrepreneurship in Development of Small Scale & Cottage Industries in India
- 17. Technological Changes in the Indian Banking Industry
- 18. Women Empowerment through SHGs and Microfinance
- 19. Absenteeism and Productivity in Public Sector
- 20. Emerging Issues and Challenges for HRM in Public Sector Banks
- 21. Human Resource Management in Commercial Bank: A case study of Punjab National Bank
- 22. Status of Food Processing Industry in Bihar
- 23. Economic Impact of Diary Development Programme in Bhagalpur District Bihar
- 24. Role of Dairy Co-operatives In Rural Economic Of Bihar
- 25 बैंकिज क्षेत्र की चुनौतियाँ, समाधान एवं महिलाओं का समावेशन

www.mngtguru.com

ISSN 2319-2429

"Management Guru: Journal of Management Research" January, 2018, Vol. V, Issue 12 ISSN 2319-2429

Evaluation of the role of Thane Municipal Corporation in City's Sustainable Development: Review of Existence of Proximity to Ecological Goods and Services and Willingness to Pay of

By Dr (Ms) H.A.Chande Associate Professor and Head Department of Economics Sheth N.K.T.T. College of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts, Thane, Maharashtra

State (Mobile: 9969567437, email: chandeheena@gmail.com)

L INTRODUCTION

Unprecedented urbanization in India is posing the challenge. To tackle the problem of environmental deterioration and to achieve effective environmental management in India, the 74th Constitutional Amendment Act (CAA) 1992 was passed. It has ushered in a new era of urban governance and environmental management in India.

In this context, the present study makes an attempt to review the innovative methods followed by Thane Municipal Corporation (TMC) - an Urban Local body (ULB) for the Sustainable Development of city of Thane, Maharashtra, India, and also attempts to review the relation between Existence of Proximity to Ecological Goods and Services and level of Willingness To Pay (WTP) for the infrastructure goods and services provided to them by TMC.

п. RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

2.1 Objectives

To discern WTP of residents' for the infrastructure goods and services provided to them by • TMC.

To evaluate relation between WTP of the people for the infrastructure goods and services . provided to them by TMC and their Existence of Proximity to Ecological Goods and Services . 2.2 Hypothesis

WTP is positively related to the existence of proximity to ecological projects

2.3 Data Collection and Analysis

Primary as well as secondary data sources were used for the study. A structured questionnaire and direct survey method was used to collect responses of 705 residents from all nine wards of the city using stratified random sampling. Secondary data sources like websites and reports were also referred. To analyze resident responses frequency tables were obtained using SPSS for existence of proximity and WTP of residents'. Chi square, ANNOVA and Pearson's correlation were used to analyse data.

MEASURES FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT UNDERTAKEN BY TMC III. TMC works in proactive mode for addressing sustainable development issues in TMC area.

78

ANALYTICAL STUDY OF APPLIED MULTI-RESOLUTION STATISTICSON GRAPH STRUCTURED

VARADE NITIN KUMAR NARAHARI

RESEARCH SCHOLAR, OPJS UNIVERSITY, CHURU, RAJASTHAN DR. SUDESH KUMAR

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, OPJS UNIVERSITY, CHURU, RAJASTHAN

ABSTRACT

Spectral graph theory is undoubtedly the most favored graph data analysis technique, both in theory and practice. It has emerged as a versatile tool for a wide variety of applications. Statistical data analysis plays a major role in discovering structural and functional imaging. The goal here is to identify, ideally early on, which regions in the brain show abnormal variations with a disorder. To make the method more sensitive, we rely on a multi-resolutional perspective of the given data. Since the underlying imaging data (such as cortical surfaces and connectomes) are naturally represented in the form of weighted graphs which lie in a non-Euclidean space, we introduce recent work from the harmonics literature to derive an effective multi-scale descriptor using wavelets on graphs that characterize the local context at each data point. Using this descriptor, we demonstrate experiments where we identify significant differences between AD and control populations using cortical surface data and tractography derived graphs/networks.

KEYWORDS: Multi-Resolution, statistics, Graph Structured, wavelets on graphs,

INTRODUCTION

The representation of an image at multiple resolutions is fundamental to a broad spectrum of approaches in computer vision and image processing [1]. Ideas based on the Laplacian of Gaussians and Wavelets drive various applications like interest point detection, matching/registration, texture analysis, compression and denoising. Interestingly, while such multi-resolution concepts are central to image registration in Neuroimaging, their use in (the downstream) statistical analysis of brain imaging data (except perhaps spherical harmonics [2]) has been limited. The defacto analysis is performed at a single (given) resolution and based on the univariate intensity measurement at each voxel. For example, we may perform statistical hypothesis testing at a specific voxel across a cohort of images of disparate groups (diseased/healthy) and check if it is statistically different across groups; by repeating the test at every voxel we obtain disease affected 'regions'. Such techniques broadly fall under "Voxel based analysis" (VBA). Frequently, VBA is adapted with little modification to statistical analysis tasks which involve brain meshes as well as brain connectivity graphs/networks. This work investigates new models which may offer improvements in this graph structured data regime.

UGC Approval Number 63012

Our paper is inspired from the observation that statistical inference on signals/functions may be more meaningful using multivariate descriptors that characterize the local context around each measurement location rather than a single univariate measurement, as in VBA. This intuition is very similar to Scale Space theory [3] — what we investigate and present here are analogous ideas when the underlying data are not images, instead graphs structured data like meshes and connectivity. Specifically, if the domain of the image can be represented as a regular grid lattice, for multi-resolution analysis, we can easily write the wavelet expansion and proceed with the analysis of the data. Instead, many recent brain imaging datasets contain data that live in a non-Euclidean space, for example cortical thickness on brain surfaces from Freesurfer [4] or tractography derived connectivity measures from diffusion tensor imaging (DTI) [5]. In such settings, it is problematic to perform Wavelet analysis since the domain has arbitrary structure. The main contribution of this work is to show using three interesting applications, how one can adapt recent results from the harmonic analysis literature [6] to derive representations and improve statistical power for common brain image analysis pipelines involving graph-structured data.

Fundamentals of Statistical Spectral Graph Analysis

1. Graph Correlation Density Field

At the outset, it is not even clear what the natural starting point for developing a coherent statistical description of spectral graph analysis is. For reasons which will be clear a little later, we introduce the concept of 'Graph Correlation Density Field' (or in short GraField) – a crucial tool for our analysis that will allow cross-fertilization between algorithmic and statistical modeling culture. GraField is a bivariate step kernel over the unit square that provides a unified way to study the structure of graphs in the frequency domain by completely characterizing and compactly representing the 'affinity' or 'strength' of ties (or interaction) between every pair of vertices in the graph. Curious readers might be wondering whether our approach has an analogous time series counterpart where spectral analysis is related to the autocorrelation function (ACF) by a Fourier transform (Wiener–Khinchin theorem). The answer is yes. In the similar spirit, we will show (in the next section): classical Laplacian graph spectrum can be interpreted as raw (not smoothed) nonparametric estimator of the Fourier transform of GraField.

Definition 1. For given discrete graph G of size n, the piecewise-constant bivariate kernel function $C : [0, 1]^2 \rightarrow R+ \cup \{0\}$ is defined almost everywhere through where u = F(x; X), v = F(y; Y) for $x, y \in \{1, 2, ..., n\}$ and degree sequence induced graph mass functions

$$\mathscr{C}(u,v;\mathcal{G}_n) = \frac{p(Q(u;X),Q(v;Y);\mathcal{G}_n)}{p(Q(u;X))p(Q(v;Y))}, \quad 0 < u,v < 1,$$
(1)

$$p(x;X) = \sum_{y=1}^{n} A(x,y)/N, \quad p(y;Y) = \sum_{x=1}^{n} A(x,y)/N, \text{ and } p(x,y;\mathcal{G}) = A(x,y)/N$$

N with Q(u; X) and $Q(v_i Y)$ are the respective quantile function

Theorem 1.GraField defined in Eq. (1) is a positive piecewise-constant kernel satisfy

$$\iint_{[0,1]^2} \mathscr{C}(u,v;\mathcal{G}) \, \mathrm{d} u \, \mathrm{d} v = \sum_{(i,j) \in \{1,\dots,n\}^2} \iint_{I_{ij}} \mathscr{C}(u,v;\mathcal{G}) \, \mathrm{d} u \, \mathrm{d} v = 1,$$

Where,

$$I_{ij}(u,v) = \begin{cases} 1, & \text{if } (u,v) \in (F(i;X), F(i+1;X)] \times (F(j;Y), F(j+1;Y)] \\ 0, & elsewhere. \end{cases}$$

Note 1. The bivariate step-like shape of the GraField kernel is governed by the (piecewiseconstant left continuous) quantile functions Q(u; X) and Q(v; Y) of the discrete measures p(x; X) and p(y; Y). As a result, in the continuum limit (as the dimension of the graph $n \rightarrow \infty$), the shape of the piecewise-constant discrete C approaches to a "continuous field" over unit interval.

Motivation 1. As a toy-example, consider the following adjacency matrix of a social network representing 4 employees of an organization where the weights reflect number of communication (say email messages or coappearances in social events etc.). Our interest lies in understanding the strength of association between the employees i.e., Strength(x, y) for all pairs of vertices. Looking at the matrix A (or equivalently based on histogram Graphon estimator p(x, y; G) = A/N with $N = \sum_{x,y} A(x, y) = 22$) one might be tempted to conclude that the link between employee 1 and 2 is the weakest one as they have communicated only twice, whereas employee 2, 3 and 4 constitute strong-ties as they have interacted more frequently. Now here is the surprise. It turns out that (i) Strength(1, 2) is twice that of Strength(2, 3) and Strength(2, 4); also (ii) Strength(1, 2) is 1.5 times of Strength(3, 4)! To understand the paradox compute the vertex-domain empirical GraField kernel matrix (Definition 1) with (x, y)th entry N·A(x, y; G)/d(x)d(y)

$$A = \begin{pmatrix} 0 & 2 & 0 & 0 \\ 2 & 0 & 3 & 3 \\ 0 & 3 & 0 & 3 \\ 0 & 3 & 3 & 0 \end{pmatrix}$$

$$\mathscr{C}_n = \begin{pmatrix} 0 & 22/8 & 0 & 0\\ 22/8 & 0 & 22/16 & 22/16\\ 0 & 22/16 & 0 & 22/12\\ 0 & 22/16 & 22/12 & 0 \end{pmatrix}$$

This toy example is in fact a small portion (with members 1, 9, 31 and 33) of the famous Zachary's karate club data, where the first two members were from Mr. Hi's group and the remaining two were from John's group1. The purpose of this illustrative example is not to completely dismiss the adjacency or empirical graphon based analysis but to caution the practitioners so as not to confuse the terminology "strength of association" with "weights" of the adjacency matrix – two are very different objects. Existing literature use them interchangeably without paying much attention. As a first step towards exploratory graph data analysis we recommend looking at both the traditional adjacency matrix (or Graphonbased) network plot and also the degree of association plot, as shown in the Fig.1 for the Karate club data. It is important to emphasize that higher edge-weight do not necessarily translates into stronger association. The crux of the matter is: Association does not depend on the raw edge-density, it is a "comparison edge-density" that is captured by the GraField.

Karate GraField

Figure 1: Graphon and GraField network display for the karate club data set

2.Karhunen-Lo´eve Representation of Graph

We define the Karhunen-Lo'eve (KL) representation of a graph \mathcal{G} based on the spectral expansion of its Graph Correlation Density function $\mathcal{C}(u, v; \mathcal{G})$. Schmidt decomposition of C yields the following spectral representation theorem of graph.

Theorem 2. The square integrable graph correlation density kernel $\mathscr{C}: [0,1]^2 \to \mathbb{R}_+ \cup \{0\}$ of two-variables admits the following canonical representation

$$\mathscr{C}(u,v;\mathcal{G}_n) = 1 + \sum_{k=1}^{n-1} \lambda_k \phi_k(u) \phi_k(v),$$
⁽²⁾

where the non-negative $\lambda 1 \ge \lambda_2 \ge \cdots \ \lambda n-1 \ge 0$ are singular values and $\{\phi k\}k\ge 1$ are the orthonormal singular functions $h\phi j$, $\phi kiL^2[0,1] = \delta jk$, for j, $k = 1, \ldots, n-1$, which can be evaluated as the solution of the following integral equation relation

$$\int_{[0,1]} [\mathscr{C}(u,v;\mathcal{G}) - 1] \phi_k(v) \, \mathrm{d}v = \lambda_k \phi_k(u), \qquad k = 1, 2, \dots, n-1.$$
(3)

Definition 2. Any function or signal $y \in \mathbb{R}$ n defined on the vertices of the graph $y: V \mapsto \mathbb{R}$ such that $||y||^2 = \sum_{x \in V(\mathcal{G})} |y(x)|^2 p(x; \mathcal{G}) < \infty$, can be represented as a linear combination of the Schmidt bases of the correlation density matrix \mathscr{C} . Define the generalized graph Fourier transform of y

$$\widehat{y}(\lambda_k) := \langle y, \phi_k \rangle = \sum_{x=1}^n y(x)\phi_k[F(x;\mathcal{G})].$$

This spectral or frequency domain representation of a signal, belonging to the square integrable Hilbert space L^2 (G) equipped with the inner product allows us to construct efficient graph learning algorithms. As $\{\phi k\}$'s are KL spectral bases, the vector of projections onto this basis function decay rapidly, hence may be truncated aggressively to capture the structure in a small number of bits.

$$\langle y, z \rangle_{L^2(\mathcal{G})} = \sum_{x \in V(\mathcal{G})} y(x) z(x) p(x; \mathcal{G}),$$

Definition 3. The entropy (or energy) of a discrete graph G, is defined using the Parseval relation of the spectral representation

Entropy(
$$\mathcal{G}$$
) = $\iint_{[0,1]^2} (\mathscr{C} - 1)^2 \, \mathrm{d}u \, \mathrm{d}v = \sum_k |\lambda_k|^2.$

This quantity, which captures the departure of uniformity of the C, can be interpreted as a measure of 'structure' or the 'compressibility' of the graph. This entropy measure canbe used to (i) define graph homogeneity; (ii) design fast algorithms for graph isomorphism. For homogenous graphs the shape of the correlation density field is flat uniform over unit square. The power at each harmonic component, as a function of frequency, is called the power spectrum of the graph.

Preliminaries: Continuous Wavelets Transform

The Wavelet transform is conceptually similar to the Fourier transform [7]. While the Fourier bases are localized in frequency only, wavelets can be localized in both time and frequency. The traditional construction of wavelet transform requires a mother wavelet function ψ s,a(x)=1s ψ (x-as) defined by two parameters, the scale s and translation a. The mother wavelet $\psi_{s,a}(x)$ is a localized oscillating function at a with finite duration acting as a local support controlled by s. The terms $\psi_{s,a}(x)$ at multiple scales are used to approximate a signal using a wavelet expansion, moreover, they form band-pass filters in the frequency domain.

Using ψ , the wavelet transform of a signal f(x) is defined as a projection of f onto the wavelet bases as

$$Wf(s,a) = \langle f, \psi \rangle = 1 s \int f(x) \psi * (x-as) dx$$
(1)

yielding wavelet coefficient $W_f(s, a)$ at scale s and at location a, where ψ^* is the complex conjugate of ψ . Such a transform is invertible, that is where C_{ψ} is the so-called admissibility condition constant. Unlike the single set of sin() basis in the Fourier transform, wavelet transforms have many possible basis functions depending on their shapes and use. The wavelet transform above is not directly applicable when the domain is arbitrarily structured, such as graphs. Next, we review how an analogue of the wavelet transform can be defined on graphs.

$$f(x)=1C\psi \iint Wf(s,a)\psi s,a(x)dads$$
(2)

Wavelets in Arbitrary Structured Domain

The basic idea in defining a Wavelet transform on graph is to obtain a wavelet basis using spectral graph theory concepts. We describe this construction below. A graph $G = \{V, E, \omega\}$ is defined by vertex set V, edge set E and edge weights ω , which may be given as a $N \times N$ adjacency matrix $A = \{a_{ij}\}$ when 8V8 = N. Here, a_{ij} gives the connection weight between the *i*th and *j*th vertices, i.e., the edge weight ω_{ij} . A (diagonal) degree matrix D has at the *i*th diagonal, the sum of all the edges connected to the *i*th vertex. From these two matrices, a graph Laplacian L is defined as L = D - A. The matrix L is positive semi-definite, therefore, has ordered eigenvalues $0 = \lambda_0 \leq \lambda_1 \leq \ldots \leq \lambda_{N-1}$ and corresponding eigenvector χ . Using the $\{\lambda_i; \chi_i\}$ pairs, the forward and inverse graph Fourier transformation is defined as

$$f^{(l)} = \langle \chi l, f \rangle = \sum n = 1 N \chi l * (n) f(n), and f(n) = \sum l = 0 N - 1 f^{(l)} \chi l(n)$$
(3)

Then, the spectrum of the Laplacian corresponds to the frequency domain, where scales are defined over band-pass filters g() which are dual representation of wavelets. From the scaling property of the Fourier transform, scales can be defined with g() in the frequency domain. Using , we construct spectral graph wavelets by applying band-pass filters at multiple scales and localizing it with an impulse function as, where m and n are vertex indices on the graph. Now, the wavelet coefficients of a function f(n) can be easily obtained by the inner product of the wavelets and the given function, which finally defines spectral graph wavelet transform (SGWT). The coefficients obtained from the transformation yield the Wavelet Multiscale Descriptor (WMD) as a set of wavelet coefficients at each vertex n for each scale s as which is a multi resolution descriptor defining local context at each vertex n on the graph [8, 9].

$$\psi s, n(m) = \sum l = 0N - 1g(s\lambda l)\chi l * (n)\chi l(m)$$
(4)

$$Wf(s,n) = \langle \psi s,n,f \rangle = \sum l = 0N - 1g(s\lambda l)f^{(1)}(l)\chi l(n),$$
(5)

$$WMD_{f}(n) = \{W_{f}(s, n) | s \in S\}$$
(6)

CONCLUSION

In this paper, we demonstrated how a multi-resolutional framework based on Wavelets can help facilitate statistical analysis of (brain image-derived) graph structured representations. We show via various experiments on surface and signal smoothing on brain surfaces, statistical analysis on cortical thickness on surfaces and brain connectivity, that statistical power can be improved with only minor changes in the analysis design (i.e., involves substituting univariate tests with their multivariate versions). Our results strongly suggest that higher sensitivity can be obtained in many of these applications with only a small additional computational load.

REFERENCES

[1] Lowe D. Object recognition from local scale-invariant features. ICCV. 1999;2:1150–1157. [Google Scholar]

[2] Chung MK, Dalton KM, Davidson RJ. Tensor-based cortical surface morphometry via weighted spherical harmonic representation. TMI. 2008 Aug.27(no. 8):1143–1151. [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[3] Lindeberg T. Scale-space theory: A basic tool for analyzing structures at different scales. Journal of Applied Statistics. 1994;21(no. 1-2):225–270. [Google Scholar]

[4] Fischl B. FreeSurfer. NeuroImage. 2012;62(no. 2):774–781. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[5] Hagmann P, Cammoun L, Gigandet X, et al. Mapping the structural core of human cerebral cortex. PLoS Biology. 2008;6(no. 7):e159. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[6] Hammond D, Vandergheynst P, Gribonval R. Wavelets on graphs via spectral graph theory. Applied and Computational Harmonic Analysis. 2011;30(no. 2):129–150. [Google Scholar]

[7] Mallat S. A theory for multiresolution signal decomposition: the wavelet representation. IEEE Trans. on PAMI. 1989;11(no. 7):674–693. [Google Scholar]

[8] Kim WH, Singh V, Chung MK, et al. Multi-resolutional shape features via non-euclidean wavelets: Applications to statistical analysis of cortical thickness. NeuroImage. 2014;93:107–123. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[9] Kim WH, Pachauri D, Hatt C, et al. Wavelet based multi-scale shape features on arbitrary surfaces for cortical thickness discrimination. NIPS. 2012:1250–1258. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[10] Reuter M, Rosas H, Fischl B. Highly accurate inverse consistent registration: A robust approach. NeuroImage. 2010;53(no. 4):1181–1196. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[11] Harary F. Graph Theory. Addison-Wesley; 1969. [Google Scholar]

[12] Kim WH, Adluru N, Chung M, et al. Multi-resolutional brain network filtering and analysis via wavelets on non-euclidean space. MICCAI. 2013 Springer;:643–651. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[13] McKhann G, Drachman D, Folstein M, et al. Clinical diagnosis of AD report of the NINCDS-ADRDA work group under the auspices of Dept. of Health and Human Services task force on AD. Neurology. 1984;34(no. 7):939–939. [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[14] McKhann G, Knopman D, Chertkow H, et al. The diagnosis of dementia due to AD: Recommendations from the NIA-Alzheimers Association workgroups on diagnostic guidelines for AD. Alzheimer's & Dementia. 2011;7(no. 3):263–269. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

[15] Varentsova A, Zhang S, Arfanakis K. Development of a high angular resolution diffusion imaging human brain template. NeuroImage. 2014;91:177–186. [PMC free article] [PubMed] [Google Scholar]

୨୦୦୦ CONTENTS OF PART - I 🔗

Sr No	Name & Author Name	Page No.
51, 140.	E Resource Awareness Amongst College Teachers
14	Mr. Ashok Vasant Mahadik
15	Growth Potential of Inland Water Transport in India	98-102
15	Ritu Chakraborty
16	Operational Research - A Global Requisite	103-109
10	Meghana Vyas
	Dr. Swati Desai
17	Conserving Urban Landscapes - A Case Study of Greater Mumbai	110-115
17	Charlotte Braganza
18	A Qualitative Study of Social and Mental Health Status in Certain Slums of	116-121
10	the Central Suburbs of Mumbai
	Usha P. Oomman
19	Environmental Economic Perspective of Noise Pollution in	122-126
	Mumbai - A Major Environmental Concern
	Dr. Rani Tyagi
20	The Role of MIS in Decision Making in Public and Private Limited	127-134
	Organization of Mumbai Region
	Prof. Nirav Rashmikant Goda
21	Performance of Public Sector Enterprises Comparative Study	135-142
	(Before and after disinvestment)
	Ms. Sodabibi A. Farooqui
	Mr. Raju Savkare
22	A Paradigm Shift in Handling of Human Resource Management	143-146
	Dr. Neha Sanjay Jagtiani
23	Digital Education: Opportunities for India to Participate in the	147-148
	Studying and Teaching Process Globally
	Dr. Ashish S. Hattangdi
24	Porter's Diamond in Tourism Industry in Sindhudurg - A Study	149-156
	Ms. Dhanashree Sawant

Porter's Diamond in Tourism Industry in Sindhudurg - A Study

PART - I

Ms. Dhanashree Sawant

Asso. Prof. Dept. of Economics, Sheth NKTT College of Arts & Commerce, Thane.

Introduction

Tourism industry has been one of the fastest growing industries of the world. It has been contributing to economic development and reducing income inequalities. In India tourism industry can generate income as well as reduce income inequalities and regional imbalances. Many regions of India possess natural beauty as well as historic visual appeal, which could be basis for regional competitive advantage. However, India is still experiencing difficulty in getting the advantages from tourism business. This paper explores the competitive advantage in tourism in Konkan region using Porter's diamond model.

Objective

The objective of the paper is to understand the application of Porter's diamond model to Tourism industry in Sindhudurg district of Konkan region.

Hypothesis

The study hypothesize that the Porter's Diamond model is applied to the tourism cluster in Sindhudurg.

Research Methods

The study has used both primary and secondary sources for data collection. A survey of tourists, tourism based firms and local people through the separate questionnaires. The collected information is analyzed to verify the application of Porter's five conditions in tourism industry in Sindhudurg.

Scope and Limitations

The scope of the study is to understand the five conditions given by Porter Diamond model to the tourism industry in Sindhudurg district. The study has randomly selected few famous tourist spots of the district for primary source of data. Depending on the willingness of the tourists and business firms, the interviews are conducted to collect the required information from residential hotels. Small shops, restaurants, tours and travel companies.

Review of Literature

Porter (1990)¹ enumerates the ways that firms create and sustain competitive advantage in global industries which provides the necessary foundation for understanding the role of the home nation in the process. He understands that the economies of scale, technological leads and differentiated products create the conditions for trade, and the nations whose firms gain them in an industry are able to export. He therefore proposes the

Peer Reviewed Referred and UGC Listed Journal (Journal No. 47100)

AN INTERNATIONAL MULTIDISCIPLINARY HALF YEARLY RESEARCH JOURNAL ISSN 2279 - 0489

GENIUS

IMPACT FACTOR / INDEXING 2017 - 4.954 www.sjifactor.com

The information and views expressed and the research content published in this journal, the sole responsibility lies entirely with the author(s) and does not reflect the official opinion of the Editorial Board, Advisory Committee and the Editor in Chief of the Journal "GENIUS". Owner, printer & publisher Vinay S. Hatole has printed this journal at Ajanta Computer and Printers, Jaisingpura, University Gate, Aurangabad, also Published the same at Aurangabad.

Printed by

Ajanta Computer, Near University Gate, Jaisingpura, Aurangabad. (M.S.) Published by:

Ajanta Prakashan, Near University Gate, Jaisingpura, Aurangabad. (M.S.) Cell No.: 9579260877, 9822620877, Ph.No.: (0240) 2400877, 6969427. E-mail: ajanta1977@gmail.com, www.ajantaprakashan.com

GENIUS - ISSN 2279 - 0489 - Impact Factor - 4.954 (www.sjifactor.com)

Volume - VI - Issue - II - February - July - 2018 GENIUS - ISSN - 2279 - 0489 - IMPACT FACTOR - 4.954 (www.sjifactor.com)

Solution CONTENTS OF PART - IV

Ŀ

•

a		Page No.
Sr. No.	Name & Author Name	1-5
1	Issues, Challenges & Remedies of Global Higher Education with References to Employability
	Huma Naz	6-11
2	FDI in Higher Education Scope and Opportunities
	Dr. Prof. Husain Ali Dattoo	12-18
3	Mismatch between the Skills, Knowledge and Attributes of Ordenation
•	the Demands of the Labour Market in Emerging Economics	a la como de
	Mr. Ramsagar B. Yadav	19-24
4	Employability Skills in Higher Education: Promoting Online	States of States
	Courses for Global Reach
	Dr. Himanshi D. Mansukham	25-31
5	ICT - A Ladder to Bridge the Gap between Education and Employ domay
	Laila Patel
	Dhvani Rathod	32-35
6	Remedies on Global Education with Respect to Employability
	Ms. Manisha Shinde	36-43
7	A Study on Awareness about Digital Responsibility among	50 10
	Youth from Thane City
	Ms. Archana Kedar Prabhudesai	11.19
8	Foreign Direct Investment and its Impact on Higher	44-49
	Education in Indian Context
	Dr. Mahavir N. Sadavarte	50.50
9	Status of Higher Education in India	50-56
	Mr. Kulkarni P. V.
	Mr. Birajdar S. B.
10	Indian Youth from Education to Employment	57-62
	Mrs. Albina Joshi
11	Skill Baded Education: A Backbone of Future Development of India	63-66
	Jige Sansipan Babasaheb
12	Skill Based Education with Reference to Trends and Issues in India	67-72 .
	Manojkumar J. Shah
13	Skill-Based Legal Education	73-77
	Prof. Vinod N. Patil
	The address of the second s

Ι

4. Employability Skills in Higher Education: Promoting Online Courses for Global Reach

Dr. Himanshi D. Mansukhani

Asstt. Professor, Dept. of Accountancy Sheth NKTT College of Commerce and J T T College of Arts, Thane, (W) Maharashtra

Abstract

Employability is an emerged concept in unemployment and labour markets. Part of the Problem of youth employability is the relevance of acquired knowledge, skills and educational and training qualifications to current labour market opportunities. This paper focuses the concept of promoting online courses for working careers and skills needed to become a globally recognized employee. An approach of accreditation towards higher education is explained and highlighted the importance of accreditation in Indian institutions. The development skills available in India which are needed to enhance the employability in global market are projected.

Keywords: Working careers, employers, perception, accreditation and global market.

Introduction

Higher education is very important for a developing country like India and it is encouraging to increasing human development. Higher education in India has experienced phenomenal expansion since independence. India has produced scientists, engineers, technologists, doctors, teachers and managers who are in great demand all over the world. Now it is one of the top ten countries in our industrial and technological capacity, because of the significant contribution of manpower and tools provided by higher education, especially, technical education. India has already entered into the era of knowledge explosion. It has proved its tremendous potential by its performance in nuclear and space domains. Higher Education provides opportunities to the people to reflect on the critical social, cultural, moral, economic and spiritual issues facing humanity. Higher education provides specialized knowledge and skilled persons for national development. In next few decades, India will have world's largest set of young people. While the correlation between people and higher education is not up to the mark.

Education is an essential tool for achieving sustainability. Education creates human capital which is the core of economic progress and assumes that the externalities generated by human

A Study of Modern Sparse Estimation Analysis in Applied Statistics Lasso Penalty

¹Varade Nitin Kumar Narahari & ²Dr. Sudesh Kumar

¹Research Scholar OPJS University Churu Rajasthan ²Associate Professor OPJS University Churu Rajasthan

ARTICLE DETAILS	ABSTRACT
Article History Published Online: 13 March 2019	The paper proposes a new covariance estimator for large covariance matrices when the variables have a natural ordering. Using the Cholesky decomposition of the inverse, we impose a banded structure on the Cholesky factor, and select the bandwidth adaptively for
Keywords Sparse Analysis, applied statistics, large covariance matrices, optimization problem, algorithm.	each row of the Cholesky factor, using a novel penalty we call nested Lasso. This structure has more flexibility than regular banding, but, unlike regular Lasso applied to the entries of the Cholesky factor, results in a sparse estimator for the inverse of the covariance matrix. An iterative algorithm for solving the optimization problem is developed. The estimator is compared to a number of other covariance estimators and is shown to do best, both in simulations and on a real data example. Simulations show that the margin by which the estimator outperforms its competitors tends to increase with dimension.

1. Introduction

Estimating covariance matrices has always been an important part of multivariate analysis, and estimating large covariance matrices (where the dimension of the data p is comparable to or larger than the sample size n) has gained particular attention recently, since high-dimensional data are so common in modern applications (gene arrays, fMRI, spectroscopic imaging, and many others). There are many statistical methods that require an estimate of a covariance matrix. They include principal component analysis (PCA), linear and quadratic discriminant analysis (LDA and QDA) for classification, regression for multivariate normal data, inference about functions of the means of the components (e.g., about the mean response curve in longitudinal studies), and analysis of independence and conditional independence relationships between components in graphical models. Note that in many of these applications (LDA, regression, conditional independence analysis) it is not the population covariance itself that needs estimating, but its inverse Σ^{-1} , also known as the precision or concentration matrix. When p is small, an estimate of one of these matrices can easily be inverted to obtain an estimate of the other one; but when p is large, inversion is problematic, and it may make more sense to estimate the needed matrix directly.

Sparsity in the inverse is particularly useful in graphical models, since zeroes in the inverse imply a graph structure. Banerjee et al. (2006) and Yuan and Lin (2007), using different semi-definite programming algorithms, both achieve sparsity by penalizing the normal likelihood with an L1 penalty imposed directly on the elements of the inverse. This approach is computationally very intensive and does not scale well with dimension, but it is invariant under variable permutations. When a natural ordering of the variables is available, sparsity in the inverse is usually introduced via the modified Cholesky decomposition

$\Sigma^{-1} = T^{\top} D^{-1} T.$

Here T is a lower triangular matrix with ones on the diagonal, D is a diagonal matrix, and the elements below diagonal in the ith row of T can be interpreted as regression coefficients of the ith component on its predecessors; the elements of D give the corresponding prediction variances.

FIG. 1. The placement of zeros in the Cholesky factor T : (a) Banding; (b) Lasso penalty of Huang et al.; (c) Adaptive banding

(1)

2. Methods for penalized estimation of the Cholesky factor

For the sake of completeness, we start from a brief summary of the formal derivation of the Cholesky decomposition of Σ^{-1}

Suppose we have a random vector $X = (X_1, \dots, X_p)^\top$, with mean 0 and covariance Σ . Let $X_1 = \varepsilon_1$ and, for j > 1, let where ϕ_{jl} are the coefficients of the best linear predictor of X_j from X_1, \ldots, X_{j-1} and $\sigma_j^2 = \text{Var}(\varepsilon_j)$ the corresponding residual variance. Let Φ be the lower triangular matrix with *j*th row containing the coefficients ϕ_{jl} , $l = 1, \ldots, j - 1$, of the *j*th regression (1). Note that Φ has zeros on the diagonal. Let $\varepsilon = (\varepsilon_1, \ldots, \varepsilon_p)^{\top}$, and let $D = \text{diag}(\sigma_j^2)$ be a diagonal matrix with σ_j^2 on the diagonal. Rewriting (1) in matrix form gives where I is the identity matrix. It follows from standard regression theory that the residuals are uncorrelated, so taking covariance of both sides of (2) gives

$$X_j = \sum_{l=1}^{j-1} \phi_{jl} X_l + \varepsilon_j,$$

$$\varepsilon = (I - \Phi)\mathbf{X},$$

(2)

$$D = (I - \Phi) \Sigma (I - \Phi)^{\top}.$$
Letting $T = I - \Phi$, we can now write down the modified Cholesky decompositions Σ and Σ^{-1}

$$\Sigma = T^{-1} D(T^{-1})^{\top}, \qquad \Sigma^{-1} = T^{\top} D^{-1} T.$$
(3)

Note that the only assumption on X was mean 0; normality is not required to derive the Cholesky decomposition.

The natural question is how to estimate the matrices T and D from data. The standard regression estimates can be computed as long as $p \le n$, but in high dimensional situations one expects to do better by regularizing the coefficients in T in some way, for the same reasons one achieves better prediction from regularized regression [Hastie et al. (2001)]. If p>n, the regression problem becomes singular, and some regularization is necessary for the estimator to be well defined.

The negative log-likelihood of the data, up to a constant, is given by

$$\ell(\Sigma, \mathbf{x}_1, \dots, \mathbf{x}_n) = n \log |\Sigma| + \sum_{i=1}^n \mathbf{x}_i^\top \Sigma^{-1} \mathbf{x}_i$$
$$= n \log |D| + \sum_{i=1}^n \mathbf{x}_i^\top T^\top D^{-1} T \mathbf{x}_i.$$

The negative log-likelihood can be decomposed into $$\ell(\Sigma, \mathbf{x}_1, \ldots, \mathbf{x}_n) = \sum_{j=1}^{P} \ell_j(\sigma_j, \phi_j, \mathbf{x}_1, \ldots, \mathbf{x}_n),$$

Where,

$$\ell_{j}(\sigma_{j}, \phi_{j}, \mathbf{x}_{1}, \dots, \mathbf{x}_{n}) = n \log \sigma_{j}^{2} + \sum_{i=1}^{n} \frac{1}{\sigma_{j}^{2}} \left(x_{ij} - \sum_{l=1}^{j-1} \phi_{jl} x_{il} \right)^{2}.$$
(5)

(4)

Minimizing (4) is equivalent to minimizing each of the functions ℓ_j in (5), which is in turn equivalent to computing the best least squares, fit for each of the regressions (1).

Huang et al. (2006) proposed adding a penalty to (4) and minimizing

$$\ell(\Sigma, \mathbf{x}_1, \dots, \mathbf{x}_n) + \lambda \sum_{j=2}^{p} P(\phi_j),$$
⁽⁶⁾ where the penalty P on the entries of $\phi_j = (\phi_{j1}, \dots, \phi_{j,j-1})$ is

.

$$P(\phi_j) = \|\phi_j\|_d^d,$$
(7)

and $\|\cdot\|_d$ is the L_d vector norm with d = 1 or 2. The L₂ penalty (d = 2) does not result in a sparse estimate of the covariance, so we will not focus on it here. The L_1 penalty (d = 1), that is, the Lasso penalty, results in zeros irregularly placed in T as shown in

Figure 1(b), which also does not produce a sparse estimate of Σ^{-1} . Again, minimizing (6) is equivalent to separately minimizing

$$\ell_j(\sigma_j, \phi_j, \mathbf{x}_1, \dots, \mathbf{x}_n) + \lambda P(\phi_j),$$
_{With} $P(\phi_1) = 0.$
⁽⁸⁾

We propose replacing the L_1 penalty $\lambda \sum_{l=1}^{j-1} |\phi_{jl}|$ with a new nested Lasso penalty,

$$J_{0}(\phi_{j}) = \lambda \left(|\phi_{j,j-1}| + \frac{|\phi_{j,j-2}|}{|\phi_{j,j-1}|} + \frac{|\phi_{j,j-3}|}{|\phi_{j,j-2}|} + \dots + \frac{|\phi_{j,1}|}{|\phi_{j,2}|} \right),$$ where we define 0/0 = 0. The effect of this penalty is that if the *l*th variable is not included in the *J*th regression $(\phi_{jl}=0)$, then all the subsequent variables (I – 1 through 1) are also excluded, since giving them nonzero coefficients would result in an infinite penalty. Hence, the j th regression only uses $k_j \leq j-1$ closest predecessors of the jth coordinate, and each regression has a different order ki.
⁽⁹⁾

However, the nested Lasso penalty is of independent interest and may be used in other contexts, for example, for group variable selection. To address the scaling issue in general, we propose two easy modifications of the penalty (9):

$$J_{1}(\phi_{j}) = \lambda \left(\frac{|\phi_{j,j-1}|}{|\hat{\phi}_{j,j-1}^{*}|} + \frac{|\phi_{j,j-2}|}{|\phi_{j,j-1}|} + \frac{|\phi_{j,j-3}|}{|\phi_{j,j-2}|} + \dots + \frac{|\phi_{j,1}|}{|\phi_{j,2}|} \right),$$
(10)
$$J_{2}(\phi_{j}) = \lambda_{1} \sum_{t=1}^{j-1} |\phi_{j,t}| + \lambda_{2} \sum_{t=1}^{j-2} \frac{|\phi_{j,t}|}{|\phi_{j,t+1}|},$$
(11)

.

3. Numerical results

In this section we compare adaptive banding to other methods of regularizing the inverse. Our primary comparison is with the Lasso method of Huang et al. (2006) and with nonadaptive banding of Bickel and Levina (2007); these methods are closest to ours and also provide a sparse estimate of the Cholesky factor. As a benchmark, we also include the shrinkage estimator of Ledoit and Wolf (2003), which does not depend on the order of variables.

Simulation data: Simulations were carried out for three different covariance models. The first one has a tri-diagonal Cholesky factor and, hence, a tridiagonal inverse:

$$\Sigma_1: \phi_{j,j-1} = 0.8; \qquad \phi_{j,j'} = 0, \qquad j' < j-1; \qquad \sigma_j^2 = 0.01$$

The second one has entries of the Cholesky factor exponentially decaying as one moves away from the diagonal. Its inverse is not sparse, but instead has many small entries:

$$\Sigma_2: \phi_{j,j'} = 0.5^{|j-j'|}, \qquad j' < j; \qquad \sigma_j^2 = 0.01.$$

Both these models were considered by Huang et al. (2006), and similar models were also considered by Bickel and Levina (2007). In both Σ_1 and Σ_2 , all the rows have the same structure, which favors regular non-adaptive banding.

To test the ability of our algorithm to adapt, we also considered the following structure:

$$\Sigma_3: k_j \sim U(1, \lceil j/2 \rceil); \qquad \phi_{j,j'} = 0.5, \qquad k_j \le j' \le j - 1;$$

$$\phi_{j,j'} = 0, \qquad j' < k_j; \qquad \sigma_j^2 = 0.01.$$

Here $U(k_1, k_2)$ denotes an integer selected at random from all integers from k₁ to k₂. For moderate values of p, this structure is stable, and this is what we generate for p = 30 in the simulations below. For larger p, some realizations can generate a poorly conditioned true covariance matrix, which is not a problem in principle, but makes computing performance measures awkward. To avoid this problem, we divided the variables for p = 100 and p = 200 into 3 and 6 independent blocks, respectively, and generated a random structure from the model described above for each of the blocks. We will refer to all these models as Σ_3 .

The structure of Σ_3 should benefit more from adaptive banding.

For each of the covariance models, we generated n = 100 training observations, along with a separate set of 100 validation observations. We considered three different values of p: 30, 100 and 200, and two different distributions: normal and multivariate t with 3 degrees of freedom, to test the behavior of the estimator on heavy-tailed data. The estimators were computed on the training data, with tuning parameters for all methods selected by maximizing the likelihood on the validation data. Using these values of the tuning parameters, we then computed the estimated covariance matrix on the training data and compared it to the true covariance matrix.

There are many criteria one can use to evaluate covariance matrix estimation, for example, any one of the matrix norms can be calculated for the difference (L_1 , L_2 , L^{∞} , or Frobenius norm). There is no general agreement on which loss to use in which situation.

$$\Delta_{\mathrm{KL}}(\boldsymbol{\Sigma}, \, \hat{\boldsymbol{\Sigma}}) = \mathrm{tr}(\hat{\boldsymbol{\Sigma}}^{-1}\boldsymbol{\Sigma}) - \ln|\hat{\boldsymbol{\Sigma}}^{-1}\boldsymbol{\Sigma}| - p.$$

(12)

Another popular loss is the entropy loss for the covariance matrix, which was used by Huang et al. (2006). The entropy loss is the same as the Kullback–Leibler loss except the roles of the covariance matrix and its inverse are switched.

The results for the normal data and the three models are summarized in Table 1, which gives the average losses and the corresponding standard errors over 50 replications. The NA values for the sample appear when the matrix is singular. The J_0 penalty has been omitted because it is dominated by J_1 and J_2 .

In general, we see that banding and adaptive banding perform better on all three models than the sample, Ledoit–Wolf's estimator and Lasso. On Σ_1 and Σ_2 , as expected, banding and adaptive banding are very similar (particularly once standard errors are taken into account); but on Σ_3 , adaptive banding does better, and the larger p, the bigger the difference. Also, for normal data the J₂ penalty always dominates J₁, though they are quite close.

TABLE 1 Multivariate normal simulations for models Σ_1 (banded Cholesky factor), Σ_2 (nonsparseCholesky factor with elements decaying exponentially as one moves away from the diagonal) and Σ_3 (sparse Cholesky factor with variable length rows).

			0	,
р	Sample	Ledoit-Wolf	Lasso	J_1	J_2	Banding
			Σ1
30	8.38(0.14)	3.59(0.04)	1.26(0.04)	0.79(0.02)	0.64(0.02)	0.63(0.02)
100	NA	29.33(0.12)	6.91(0.11)	2.68(0.04)	2.21(0.03)	2.21(0.03)
200	NA	90.86(0.19)	14.57(0.13)	5.10(0.06)	4.35(0.05)	4.34(0.05)
			Σ_2
30	8.38(0.14)	3.59(0.02)	2.81(0.04)	1.42(0.03)	1.32(0.02)	1.29(0.03)
100	NA	18.16(0.02)	16.12(0.09)	5.01(0.07)	4.68(0.06)	4.55(0.05)
200	NA	40.34(0.02)	32.84(0.11)	9.88(0.06)	9.28(0.06)	8.95(0.06)
			Σ_3
30	8.68(0.12)	171.31(1.00)	4.62(0.07)	3.26(0.05)	3.14(0.06)	3.82(0.05)
100	NA	945.65(2.15)	35.60(0.71)	11.82(0.13)	11.24(0.12)	14.34(0.09)
200	NA	1938.32(3.04)	118.84(1.54)	23.30(0.17)	22.70(0.16)	29.50(0.14)

To test the behavior of the methods with heavy-tailed data, we also performed simulations for the same three covariance models under the multivariate t3 distribution (the heaviest-tail t distribution with finite variance). These results are given in Table 2. All methods perform worse than they do for normal data, but banding and adaptive banding still do better than other methods.

Because the standard errors are larger, it is harder to establish a uniform winner among J1, J2 and banding, but generally these results are consistent with results obtained for normal data.

p	Sample	Ledoit-Wolf	Lasso	J_1	J_2	Banding
			Σ_1
30	30.33(0.65)	9.22(0.65)	7.60(0.74)	4.32(0.21)	3.68(0.19)	4.22(0.60)
100	NA	58.24(2.61)	38.99(1.44)	15.58(0.78)	13.85(0.72)	13.74(0.72)
200	NA	139.21(3.02)	111.62(2.73)	31.45(1.80)	28.22(1.71)	27.95(1.70)
			Σ_2
30	30.33(0.65)	6.20(0.15)	8.44(0.20)	5.91(0.24)	5.21(0.22)	5.23(0.24)
100	NA	24.37(0.67)	31.92(0.83)	21.76(0.76)	18.87(0.71)	19.33(0.85)
200	NA	50.40(1.41)	64.28(1.98)	44.58(2.00)	38.46(1.75)	39.81(1.98)
			Σ3
30	30.77(0.74)	199.73(4.32)	14.48(0.40)	11.47(0.44)	11.57(0.47)	11.69(0.39)
100	NA	1061.54(12.62)	82.05(1.47)	43.38(1.14)	45.01(1.13)	42.78(1.04)
200	NA	2182.54(21.29)	182.82(9.51)	87.5(2.75)	91.25(2.79)	85.65(2.49)

TABLE 2 Multivariate t3 simulations for models $\Sigma_1, \Sigma_2, \Sigma_3$

4. Conclusion

The study presented a new covariance estimator for ordered variables with a banded structure, which, by selecting the bandwidth adaptively for each row of the Cholesky factor, achieves more flexibility than regular banding but still preserves sparsity in the inverse. Adaptive banding is achieved using a novel nested Lasso penalty, which takes into account the ordering structure among the variables. The estimator has been shown to do well both in simulations and a real data example. Zhao et al. (2006) proposed a related penalty, the composite absolute penalty (CAP), for handling hierarchical structures in variables. However, Zhao et al. (2006) only considered a hierarchy with two levels, while, in our setting, there are essentially p - 1 hierarchical levels; hence, it is not clear how to directly apply CAP without dramatically increasing the number of tuning parameters. The theoretical properties of the estimator are a subject for future work. The nested Lasso penalty is not convex in the parameters; it is likely that the theory developed by Fan and Li (2001) for non-convex penalized maximum likelihood estimation can be extended to cover the nested Lasso (it is not directly applicable since our penalty cannot be decomposed into a sum of identical penalties on the individual coefficients). However, that theory was developed only for the case offixed p, $n \to \infty$, and the more relevant analysis for estimation of large covariance matrices would be under the assumption $p \to \infty$, $n \to \infty$, with p growing at a rate equal to or possibly faster than that of n, as was done for the banded estimator by Bickel and Levina (2007). Another interesting question for future work is extending this idea to estimators invariable under variable permutations.

References

- ADAM, B., QU, Y., DAVIS, J., WARD, M., CLEMENTS, M., CAZARES, L., SEMMES, O., SCHELLHAMMER, P., YASUI, Y., FENG, Z. and WRIGHT, G. (2002). Serum protein fingerprinting coupled with a pattern-matching algorithm distinguishes prostate cancer from benign prostate hyperplasia and healthy men. Cancer Research 62 3609– 3614.
- ANDERSON, T. W. (1958). An Introduction to Multivariate Statistical Analysis. Wiley, New York. MR0091588 BANERJEE, O., D'ASPREMONT, A. and EL GHAOUI, L. (2006). Sparse covariance selection via robust maximum likelihood estimation. In Proceedings of ICML.
- BICKEL, P. J. and LEVINA, E. (2004). Some theory for Fisher's linear discriminant function, "naive Bayes," and some alternatives when there are many more variables than observations. Bernoulli 10 989–1010.
- MR2108040 BICKEL, P. J. and LEVINA, E. (2007). Regularized estimation of large covariance matrices. Ann. Statist. To appear.
- DIGGLE, P. and VERBYLA, A. (1998). Nonparametric estimation of covariance structure in longitudinal data. Biometrics 54 401–415.
- DJAVAN, B., ZLOTTA, A., KRATZIK, C., REMZI, M., SEITZ, C., SCHULMAN, C. and MARBERGER, M. (1999). Psa, psa density, psa density of transition zone, free/total psa ratio, and psa velocity for early detection of prostate cancer in men with serum psa 2.5 to 4.0 ng/ml. Urology 54 517–522.

- 7. FAN, J., FAN, Y. and LV, J. (2008). High dimensional covariance matrix estimation using a factor model. J. Econometrics. To appear.
- FAN, J. and LI, R. (2001). Variable selection via nonconcave penalized likelihood and its oracle properties. J. Amer. Statist. Assoc. 96 1348–1360. MR1946581
- FRIEDMAN, J., HASTIE, T., HÖFLING, H. G. and TIBSHIRANI, R. (2007). Pathwise coordinate optimization. Ann. Appl. Statist. 1 302–332.
- 10. FU, W. (1998). Penalized regressions: The bridge versus the lasso. J. Comput. Graph. Statist. 7 397–416. MR1646710
- FURRER, R. and BENGTSSON, T. (2007). Estimation of high-dimensional prior and posterior covariance matrices in Kalman filter variants. J. Multivariate Anal. 98 227–255. MR2301751
- HASTIE, T., TIBSHIRANI, R. and FRIEDMAN, J. (2001). The Elements of Statistical Learning. Springer, Berlin. MR1851606
- HUANG, J., LIU, N., POURAHMADI, M. and LIU, L. (2006). Covariance matrix selection and estimation via penalised normal likelihood. Biometrika 93 85–98. MR2277742
- JOHNSTONE, I. M. (2001). On the distribution of the largest eigenvalue in principal components analysis. Ann. Statist. 29 295–327. MR1863961
- 15. JOHNSTONE, I. M. and LU, A. Y. (2007). Sparse principal components analysis. J. Amer. Statist. Assoc. To appear.

- LEDOIT, O. and WOLF, M. (2003). A well-conditioned estimator for large-dimensional covariance matrices. J. Multivariate Anal. 88 365–411. MR2026339
- MARDIA, K. V., KENT, J. T. and BIBBY, J. M. (1979). Multivariate Analysis. Academic Press, New York. MR0560319
- PANNEK, J. and PARTIN, A. (1998). The role of psa and percent free psa for staging and prognosis prediction in clinically localized prostate cancer. Semin. Urol. Oncol. 16 100–105.
- POURAHMADI, M. (1999). Joint mean-covariance models with applications to longitudinal data: Unconstrained parameterisation. Biometrika 86 677–690.
- MR1723786 SMITH, M. and KOHN, R. (2002). Parsimonious covariance matrix estimation for longitudinal data. J. Amer. Statist. Assoc. 97 1141–1153. MR1951266
- STAMEY, T., JOHNSTONE, I., MCNEAL, J., LU, A. and YEMOTO, C. (2002). Preoperative serum prostate specific antigen levels between 2 and 22 ng/ml correlate poorly with post-radical prostatectomy cancer morphology: Prostate specific antigen cure rates appear constant between 2 and 9 ng/ml. J. Urol. 167 103–111

PUBLICATION CERTIFICATE

This publication certificate has been issued to

~~~~

Dr. Pallavi Shah

For publication of research paper titled

COIVD -19 - Setback of world Economy

Published in Purakala with ISSN 0971-2143 (9)

Vol. 31 Issue 9 Month April Year 2020

Impact Factor 5.60

The journal is indexed, peer reviewed and listed in UGC Care.

Dh.

Editor

Note: This eCertificate is valid with published papers and the paper must be available online at https://www.purakala.com/index.php/0971-2143
ISSN: 0971-2143

(UGC Care Journal)

Vol-31-Issue-09-April-2020

COIVD -19 – Setback of World Economy

Dr.Pallavi Shah

Sheth NKTT College, Thane

ABSTRACT

The deadly virus which emerged from the city of Wuhan, China has been sweeping the entire nations & economies off its feet. Death rates are catastrophic in European countries, people are dying like flies. In midst of the chaos of death, no one is particularly bothered about the financial crisis that is impending once the COVID threat is abolished. Saving the economy is considered as a battle for another day. This paper would try to highlight on key indicators which the Indian economy should consider during the lockdown to mitigate the impact of the Financial Emergency.

KEYWORDS - COVID, Financial Emergency, lockdown, virus.

Objectives –

- i. To study the impact of the COVID 19 outbreak on global economy.
- ii. To analyse measures to rebound from the financial and economic turmoil caused by the COVID 19 outbreak.

COIVD -19 – SETBACK OF THE WORLD ECONOMY.

It could be said that India was well prepared for the viral outbreak and took decisive steps to mitigate the health and hygiene of the population. Thus, it could save lakhs of lives in the process. But when it comes to shutting all the doors of trade and commerce, it has suffered a heavy setback. Financial crisis not only started in the month of march post lockdown; it could be traced back to Financial Year 2019-20 when the GDP had dipped to 5% mark. Irrespective of the clear world indicators, somewhat we were caught surprised in the stage of lockout; supply chains were not channelized, gap demand and supply equilibrium were not filled & the sudden lock down has brought the economy to a sudden standstill. The financial predictors have suggested that theeconomy would bounce back from present 5% GDP growth rate to 8% by mid-2020; but that dream has been shattered.

(UGC Care Journal)

ISSN: 0971-2143

Vol-31-Issue-09-April-2020

With the magnitude of the infectious states are rising, new hotspots being identifies, some of the anti-social elements causing havoc, gross negligence towards lockdown, hospitals & nursing units being sealed due to staff catching up with corona infection – the recovery time of the disease is said to be 3 to 6 months from the date. (with the recurring / relapsing nature of the viral attack still unknown) Economy is in as worse shape as it could be since the Financial Crisis state of 1969 or 2007.

In the recent times we had seen a paradigm shift of revenue generation of services surpassing that of manufacturing & in the era of outsourcing, where in service-oriented industry was supposed to be immortal & unaffected by changes; we are observing disturbing consequences. Manufacture industry is in total shut down, but service industry is also not in pretty good shape. People are hesitant to order online. E-commerce has a negative revenue slope. Life essential good purchased online are being frowned upon due to several health and hygiene factors. Home delivery from restaurants is at lowest possible working capacity. All the wheels of the economy are now frozen.

| GLOBAL | GDP GROW | VTH FOREC | ASTS in Q -1 : | as per CCC # |      |
|---------------|----------|-----------|----------------|-------------------------|------|
| *             | 2019     | 2020      | 2020           | 2021                    | 2022 |
|               |          | (Q1)      | (Q3)           |                         |      |
| US            | 2.3      | -1.3      | -5.2           | 6.2                     | 2.5  |
| Europe        | 1.2      | -2.0      | -7.3           | 5.6                     | 3.7  |
| Germany       | 0.6      | -1.9      | -6.0           | 5.6                     | 3.3  |
| France        | 1.3      | -1.7      | -8.0           | 4.3                     | 4.5  |
| Spain         | 2.0      | -2.1      | -8.8           | 5.1                     | 4.3  |

Page | 346

(UGC Care Journal)

Vol-31-Issue-09-April-2020

| UK    | 1.4     | -2.0 | -6.5     | 6.0 | 3.2 |
|-------|---------|------|----------|-----|-----|
| China | 6.1     | 2.9  | 1.2      | 7.4 | 4.7 |
| India | 5.3     | 3.6  | 1.8      | 7.5 | 6.5 |
|       |  |      |   |     |     |

Source – S&P Global Economics & Oxford Economics

- Credit Conditions Committee

* - Fiscal year ending in March

As seen in the diagram above, the economy is seen to be sinking in the year 2020, while the 2021 is not sufficient enough to offset the economic loss contracted in the previous year. The momentum change in the economy only could be observed to be rising in the year 2022. Since the off year 2019, the shut down year 2020; burden of productivity is huge on the year of 2021 & final settling of the dust of all the losses would be accounted for with slight little profit in the year 2022.

The world economy would face a change of weight from advanced economies to the developing economies. Under developed countries have a huge advantage to grab the spill overs from the developed countries. Due to the logistical embargoes trans-Atlantic & trans-Pacific Southern European countries & Asia-Pacific regions are facing a lot of unemployment crisis. Ports like Dubai, Singapore, Italy etc are in total lockdown. Not a single cargo ship is being docked or leaving from these places.

In European Union, most of the countries have called for prolonged lockdowns, with no likely exit strategy. The free European market has also been shut down with countries barricading entry points. This would affect economy in a longer spectrum and in linear way with reference to the investment decisions. Also, the countries earning their bread and butter on tourism would be affected. Oil prices are dropping, world is being set for a greater marginal recession, exports are at standstill killing custom duties for the government; all these factors contribute towards lack of confidence of the public on the governments.

(UGC Care Journal)

ISSN: 0971-2143

Vol-31-Issue-09-April-2020

The next problem in the list becomes that of unemployment and the pampering of the trapped unemployed migrants & students. Logistics & transport routes are sealed which has hampered the moment of the migrants to get back to their domicile state. They are added burden on the respective state governments. Tough the government is not complaining, but the resource scarcity could be felt for the permanent residents of the state. Government is bound to provide them food & shelter in addition to basis necessities along with weekly unemployment wages & other subsidies to encourage them to stay in the refugee camps. The monetary and non-monetary benefits are result of rising encouragement amongst the refugees.

Some investment firms are of the opinion that taking advantage of the virus several Asset Management Firms are rising to the opportunity to build op reserves in the money markets, stocking up commercial papers, margin calls & leveraging liquid asset at 30 - 60% below their market values.

But even 3 months in the outbreak, no sign of 2007 financial crisis are being observed. Sub-prime loans / mortgage / assets are still in good books. They are not being casted out as tentative non-performing assets. Uncertainty relating to equity, debt instruments and exposures to subprime risk had caused a lot of panic amongst the investors. We had seen a flush of withdrawals from capital markets even at the loss of 20 - 80% of the invested values.

CONCLUSION -

Even if the risk of the downfall and the likely recovery from the pandemic remains a big IF; the global market seems to be quite immune to the overall chaos. The market trajectory seems to be unidirectional; the spectrum and the volume of the transactions is relatively unpredictable – market will recover is a hope all the market analysts have predicted. Still a lot of risk are to be considered –

- i. Normal household buying behaviour post lockdown.
- ii. Normal health & psychology after the nullification of threat.
- iii. Quick and easy recovery from PTSD.
- iv. No rebounding of COVID 19.

(UGC Care Journal)

ISSN: 0971-2143

Vol-31-Issue-09-April-2020

*** *

- v. Alternate scenarios for extension of lockdown.
- vi. Designing a Road Map for recovery.

References –

| https://www.journals.elsevier.com/research-in-international-business-and-finance/call-for-   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| papers/responding-to-the-covid-19-crisis                                                     |
| https://www.rsm.global/india/insights/consulting-insights/research-paper-key-financial-      |
| reporting-implications-covid-19-and                                                          |
| https://www.journals.elsevier.com/finance-research-letters/call-for-papers/special-issue-on- |
| covid-19                                                                                     |
| https://research.stlouisfed.org/publications/economic-synopses/2020/03/30/economic-          |
| realities-and-consequences-of-the-covid-19-pandemicpart-i-financial-markets-and-             |
| monetary-policy                                                                              |
| https://www.spglobal.com/en/research-insights/featured/economic-implications-of-             |
| coronavirus                                                                                  |
| https://www.spglobal.com/ratings/en/research/articles/200402-credit-faq-the-ratings-         |
| process-and-the-covid-19-pandemic-11415143                                                   |
| https://www.spglobal.com/ratings/en/research/articles/200318-covid-19-coronavirus-related-   |
| public-rating-actions-on-non-financial-corporations-to-date-11393186                         |
| https://www.researchgate.net/publication/340236487_Spillover_of_COVID-                       |
| 19 impact on the Global_Economy                                                              |
|                                                                                              |

Studies in Indian Place Names. (UGC Care Journal)

ISSN: 2394-3114 Vol-40-Issue-54-March-2020

Use of Public Private Partnership and collaborative approach for Sustainable Development by Urban Local Body: A case study of Thane Municipal Corporation.

Dr. H. A. Chande

Associate Professor and Head, Department of Economics, Sheth N.K.T.T. College of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts, Thane, Maharashtra

ABSTRACT

Environmental management has emerged as a major worldwide concern. To analyze the interface between economics, ecology and institutions, the trade-off between growth and ecological balance and to evolve an appropriate strategy for the management of natural resources is thus important. 74th Constitutional Amendment Act (CAA) 1992 has ushered in a new era of urban governance and environmental management in India, with important role assigned to Urban Local Bodies. Development should involve a local approach, with the participation from various stakeholders. Present study attempts to identify the areas where participatory approach and collaborative management prevails in Thane city for attainment of Sustainable Development.

1. INTRODUCTION

The world is currently exploring the concept of sustainable development. The goals that society pursues change over time. This makes economic growth, somewhat a moving target. It is a fundamental challenge for the humanity to ensure simultaneously an improved standard of living and better quality of environment. This challenge can be met only through a paradigm shift in the process of planning and implementing of various development projects. It should involve a local approach, with the participation from various stakeholders. Such an approach to development can further environmental sustainability and development in the urban areas. Present study attempts to identify areas where participatory approach and collaborative management prevails in Thane city.

2. REVIEW OF LITERATURE

Kundu et. al. (1999) in their paper have emphasized on prevalence of wide disparities in urban basic amenities in the nineties. Privatization, partnership arrangements and promotion of community-based projects have emerged as the only options for undertaking investments in basic amenities due to resource crunch in the government. However, this is likely to accentuate the disparity in the levels of amenities across the size class of urban settlements.

As discussed in the paper by Ghodke (2000) to finance infrastructure, choice is to be made between public and private sector funding. For small local bodies a concept of pooled financing is advocated as prevalent in US, and applied successfully by TNUDF. To extend the existing concept and work without the state as an intermediary is suggested. The concept is also tested for the ULBs in Ahmednagar District of Maharashtra.

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY 3.

Profile of the study region: Thane city

The city of Thane is one of Maharashtra's major industrial town and the district headquarters. The National Decennial Census 2011 pegged the population of the city at 18,18,872. The geographical jurisdiction of the Thane city spreads over an area of 128.23 sq. km. The area is governed by TMC.

4 17/2020 Vol. 40 No. 54 (2020) National Conference on Initian Economy: Contemporary Issue and Challenges J Studies in Indian Place Names (SIPN) with ISBN 2394-3114 is UGC Care listed journal

About Journal

Studies in Indian Place Names (https://archives.npsindia.org/index.php/sipn) (SIPN) with ISSN 2394-3114 is UGC Care listed journal for research publication. SIPN considers review and research articles related to Social Science and Humanities: Arts and Humanities, Physical Education, Library Science, History, Anthropology, Management, Commerce, Home Science, Sociology, Hotel Management, Tourism, Mass Communication, Accounting, Education, Economics, Law, Philosophy, Finance, Political Science, Visual Arts, Performing Arts, English. Science: Engineering (All Branches), Psychology, and Architecture, Geography and Geology, Agricultural, Biological Sciences, Environmental Science, Ecology, Archaeology, Biodiversity and Conservation, Entomology, Health Science: Medicine and Dentistry, Nursing and Allied Health Science, Ayurveda.

On behalf of Studies in Indian Place Names (https://www.studiesinindianplacenames.com/), I would like to extend my regard to all fellow researchers and scholars and wish prosperity in their field. Published by: The Place Names Society of India (https://www.npsindia.org/), NPS India

Send papers for publication to editor@npsindia.org (mailto.editor@npsindia.org)

National Conference on Indian Economy: Contemporary Issue and Challenges

Organised by Department of Economics, Parle Tilak Vidyalaya Association's Mulund College of Commerce, Mumbai and sponsored by Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) on 29th February 2020

Principal

Dr. Sonali Pednekar

Convener

Dr. Shivaji Pawar

Organizing Secretary

Dr. Arjun Lakhe

Published: Mar 13, 2020

Articles

PD2

Digitalisation of Health Care in India: Initiatives and Challenges (https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/article/view/6862)

107

1-5 Winayak Vijay Joshi, Nitin Pawar, Swapna Acharya

https://archives.tpnaindia.org/index.php/sign/issue/verw139

| <pre>% PDF</pre>                                                                                                                         | " Dr. Koel Roy Choudhury                                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                     |
| Use of Public Private Partnership and coDevelopment by Urban Local Body: A case s(https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/ | llaborative approach for Sustainabletudy of Thane Municipal Corporation./article/view/6887) |
| 153-157                                                                                                                                  | 🐸 Dr. H. A. Chande                                                                                  |
| % PDF                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                     |
| A study of Economic Exploitation at Workpla(https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/                                           | ace of Rag- Pickers in Thane District/article/view/6888)                                        |
| 158-163                                                                                                                                  | 📽 Dr. Pramila D'Souza                                                                               |
| % PDF                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                     |
| A Study of Formal Interventions in Strengthenirits Effectiveness among Ur(https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/         | ng Customer Protection Movement andban Co-Operative Banks/article/view/6890)                |
| ■ 164-170                                                                                                                                | 📽 Dr. Rajashri S. Deshpande                                                                         |
| % PDF                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                     |
| A Study on Perception of Customers towards Ma                                                                                            | dern Banking Services of Dublic Sector                                                              |
| Banks with Special R(https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/                                                                  | Reference to MumbaiVarticle/view/6892)                                                          |
| 171-175                                                                                                                                  | 醟 Rajendra B. Vare                                                                                  |
| % PDF                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                     |

Vol. 40 No. 54 (2020): National Conference on Indian Economy: Contemporary Issue and Challenges | Studies in Indian Place Names

A Study on Role of Foreign Trade in Economic Growth of India, A Time Series Analysis (https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/article/view/6893)

176-185

S PDF

📽 Dr. Anil R. Chougule

5/7

2020

A 147-152

A Study on Upliftment of Rural Women through MGNREGA in Kanyakumari District, Tamilnadu (https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/article/view/6894)

186-193 🚰 Dr. A. Mahesh Kumar1, , Dr. Upendra A Tiwari2 , Prof. Sunita K Poojari3 S PDF

An Analysis of Skill Competency Required by Youth for Start-Up Business in Mumbai https://archives.tpnsindia.org/index.php/sipn/issue/view/139

PUBLICATION CERTIFICATE

This publication certificate has been issued to

Dr. Ms. H.A.Chande

For publication of research paper titled

A study of effect on productivity and mental health of employees due to 'work from home' arrangement in Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR) during COVID-19 Pandemic

Published in Purakala with ISSN 0971-2143 (9)

Vol. 31 Issue 9 Month April Year 2020

Impact Factor 5.60

The journal is indexed, peer reviewed and listed in UGC Care.

Editor

Note:This eCertificate is valid with published papers and the paper must be available online at https://www.purakala.com/index.php/0971-2143

Purakala (UGC Care Journal)

ISSN: 0971-2143 Vol-31-Issue-09-April-2020

A Study of Effect on Productivity and Mental Health of Employees due to 'Work from Home' Arrangement in Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR) during COVID-19 Pandemic

Dr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande

Associate Professor and Head, Department of Economics Sheth N.K.T.T. College of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts Thane, Maharashtra

Introduction

Pneumonia of unknown cause detected in Wuhan in Hubei province, China was first reported to the WHO Country Office in China on 31st December 2019. The outbreak was declared a Public Health Emergency of International Concern on 30th January 2020 by WHO and on 11th March 2020, WHO declared the novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak -a global pandemic.

The first case of the Coronavirus pandemic in India was reported on 30th January 2020, originating from China. As on 8th April 2020, Ministry of Health and Welfare confirmed a total of 5,194 cases, 402 recoveries (including 1 migration) and 149 deaths in the country. On 23rd March, Chief Minister of Maharashtra announced that borders of all the districts will be closed, and a strict curfew will be implemented state-wide. On 24th March, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced a complete nationwide lockdown, starting from midnight for 21 days affecting the entire 1.3 billion population of India.

Under lockdown and curfew there prevails uncertainty. People feel restless and stressed. Uncertainty might also connect to uncertainty about other aspects of our lives. Lockdown and curfews have led to work from home arrangement for major part of working population.

In present paper, researcher attempts to study effect of COVID-19 Pandemic on employees' productivity and mental health due to 'work from home' arrangement in Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR). MMR is spread over 4355 sq km consisting of 8 municipal corporations, 9 municipal councils, along with more than1000 villages in Thane and Raigad District.

Objectives

- 1. To study effect on productivity of employees due to 'work from home' arrangement
- 2. To study effect on mental health of employees due to 'work from home' arrangement

Hypothesis

1. There is adverse effect on employees' productivity due to 'work from home' arrangement during COVID-19 Pandemic.

Page | 239

Copyright @ 2020 Authors

SHODH SANCHAR BULLETIN JOURNAL OF ARTS, HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

AN INTERNATIONAL MULTIDISCIPLINARY QUARTERLY BILINGUAL PEER REVIEWED REFEREED RESEARCH JOURNAL

Ref. No. SSB/2020/SI-31

Date : 20-08-2020

ISSN - 2229 - 3620

SPECIAL ISSUE - 1

Certificate of Publication

Dr. Dhanashree Pramod Sawant

Associate Professor Department of Economic Sheth NKTT College, Thane

TITLE OF RESEARCH PAPER

Improvement in the Share of Tourism Industry in the Economic growth of Ratnagiri District of Maharashtra- An Overview

This is certified that your research paper has been published in Shodh Sanchar Bulletin, Volume 10, Issue 39, July to September 2020

i Chief SHODH SANCHAR BULLETIN BILINGUAL INTERNATIONAL RCH JOURNAL, LUCKNOW

CHIEF EDITORIAL OFFICE

 448 /119/76, KALYANPURI THAKURGANJ, CHOWK, LUCKNOW -226003 U.P. Cell.: 09415578129, 07905190645

E-mail : serfoundation123@gmail.com

Website : http://seresearchfoundation.in | http://seresearchfoundation.in/shodhsancharbulletin/

ISSN- 2394-5125

VOL 7, ISSUE 14, 2020

CHANGING ROLE OF TOURISM INDUSTRY IN SINDHUDURG DISTRICT OF MAHARASHTRA- A CASE STUDY

Dr. (Ms.) Dhanashree Pramod Sawant

Associate Professor, Dept. of Economics, Sheth NKTT Collegeof Commerce & Sheth JTT College of Arts, Thane

Received: 14 March 2020 Revised and Accepted: 8 July 2020

ABSTRACT: Tourism industry is the fastest growing industry all over the world. Many countries in European continent, UAE and South Asian region have been developing the tourism business since few years. Indian tourism industry is also growing well. Maharashtra government has declared Sindhudurg district as 'Tourist District' in1997. Considering the natural factor conditions in Sindhudurg, it can be stated that there is much potential for the growth of tourism activity in the district. The study is based on the objective to understand the changes taking place in the tourism industry in Sindhudurg and to analyze the role of tourism industry on economic growth in Sindhudurg. The study hypothesizes that the Growth and changes in tourism industry in Sindhudurg have helped the regional development of Konkan. The study overviews the surveys, reports and other related publications and analyses with the help of simple statistical methods. It is concluded that the changes in the tourism industry have contributed to the increase in the share of tourism in the district income of Sindhudurg. This has helped to attain the economic growth of the district and so the regional development in Konkan.

KEYWORDS: Tourism related activities, tourism district, tourism policy and regional development.

I. INTRODUCTION

Governments of many countries have recognized the importance of tourism in economic development with the falling employment opportunities in traditional regions on account of advent of technologies and migration of the young to the cities. Among the fast-growing business activities, the tourism industry has occupied a fair position in terms of employment and foreign exchange earning throughout the world as well as India. Available data on tourism indicated that around 9% of the people in the economy are employed in this sector. The foreign exchange earnings from this sector were 5931 million US dollars in 2005-06. India is blessed with a wide and diverse climatic condition, culture, history, beautiful coastline. There is much scope for medical tourism, religious tourism, agro tourism and so on in our country.

Maharashtra government has declared Sindhudurg district as 'Tourist District' in1997. The report by Tata Consultancy stated that, out of 50 tourist spots, 22 needed to be developed with priority. Owing to globalization and other economic reforms initiated by the government, the region earns a good amount of foreign exchange for the exports of famous Alphonso mango, cashew nuts and fishes. Other sources of livelihood are fisheries, dairying and poultry. Industrial activities are mainly supported by Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation (MIDC) estate. Food processing and fruit processing activities also run of a big scale in the region. Means of transportation consist of western and central railways in Thane district, and Konkan railways in other three districts of Konkan. Prior to Konkan Railways, the district depended on state transport buses and other private transport means. The region has NH-7 roadway passing through different districts of Konkan. In earlier times the region also had seaways running between Mumbai and Goa, which was used by Konkan region as an airport at Ratnagiri but it is not used for commercial purpose. Foreign tourists make use airport at Dabolim in Goa, which is near Sindhudurg district. Considering the natural factor conditions in Sindhudurg, it can be stated that there is much potential for the growth of tourism activity in the district. Similarly, with new policy of tourism, the tourism can fetch an increasing share in the district income and employment.

II. OBJECTIVES

1. To understand the changes taking place in the tourism industry in Sindhudurg.

2. To analyze the role of tourism industry on economic growth in Sindhudurg

000000000

PUBLICATION CERTIFICATE

This publication certificate has been issued to

Mrs. Dipalee B. Mulmulay

For publication of research paper titled

Critical analysis of Effects of Marriage between NRI and Indian Girl in the Light of The registration of Non-Resident Indian Bill 2019

Published in Purakala with ISSN 0971-2143 (9)

Vol. 31 Issue 9 Month April Year 2020

Impact Factor 5.60

The journal is indexed, peer reviewed and listed in UGC Care.

DN Tiwari

Editor

Note:This eCertificate is valid with published papers and the paper must be available online at https://www.purakala.com/index.php/0971-2143

******

Critical Analysis of Effects of Marriage between NRI and Indian Girl in ### the Light of the Registration of Non-Resident Indian Bill 2019

Mrs. Dipalee B. Mulmulay Assistant Professor – Business Law Department Sheth T.J. Education Society's Sheth N. K. T. T College of Commerce and Sheth J. T. T. College of Arts, Thane dipaleem@gmail.com

Abstract

When an Indian girl marries with Non-resident Indian (hereinafter referred as NRI), She has many dreams for her marital life. But many times it happens that her dreams break into pieces. The main reason behind this is that the NRA abandons her, abuses her, desserts her. And she is left with no other alternative than to return to India. After returning to India, her legal battle starts. However, unfortunately she falls under the purview of private international law. Moreover, personal laws of both the countries are involved. And the civil laws of foreign countries, specially in the field of marriage and divorce, are far more lenient than Indian laws. Therefore she falls prey to those laws and Indian laws can-not come to her rescue because there is no comprehensive law which will specifically deal with the marriage of Indian girl with an NRI. Recently central government has drafted a bill relating to NRI marriages which is referred in the paper. However, this bill is not comprehensive. So hardly it can give any justice to such Indian girls. This paper is a sincere attempt to deal with the issue and suggest some possible solutions.

Introduction

Non-resident of India, Popularly known as NRI and increasing percentage of Indian girls marrying to NRIs is a big problem of today before India. Non-resident of India is a person who is Indian Citizen but is staying outside India. Indian girls and their parents are very much interested in getting married within NRI. However this can be a big trap. Neither Indian girls nor their parents are aware that if the marriage does not work successfully, then even if the marriage

Peer Reviewed Referred and UGC Listed Journal An International Multidisciplinary Quarterly Research Journal

150 9001-2008 OMS

ISO 9001:2008 QMS ISBN / ISSN

ISSN - 2277 - 5730 Volume - IX, Issue – I, January - March - 2020

Impact Factor 2019 - 6.399 (www.sjifactor.com)

Is Hereby Awarding This Certificate To

Prof. Dipalee Mulmulay

In Recognition of the Publication of the Paper Entitled

Right to Make Living will - A Path for Availing Right to Die with Dignity

Ajanta Prakashan, Jaisingpura, Near University Gate, Aurangabad. (M.S.) 431 004 Mob. No. 9579260877, 9822620877 Tel. No.: (0240) 2400877, ajanta5050@gmail.com, www.ajantaprakashan.com

Editor : Vinay S. Hatole

PUBLICATION CERTIFICATE

This publication certificate has been issued to

Ms. Manoshi S Bagchi

0

0000

For publication of research paper titled

The Self in Indian Social Milieu- Understanding Female Adolescence Crisis and its Underlying Identities in a Selected Indian Movie

Published in Purakala with ISSN 0971-2143 (9)

Vol. 31 Issue 9 Month April Year 2020

Impact Factor 5.60

The journal is indexed, peer reviewed and listed in UGC Care.

ph. time

Editor

Note: This eCertificate is valid with published papers and the paper must be available online at https://www.purakala.com/index.php/0971-2143

*************

CERTIFICATE OF INDEXING (SJIF 2018)

The continues and the second

International Journal of Advance & Innovative Research (1555, 244, 174)

The Lorenz has been positively evaluated in the SHE hyperbolic Master Lester-Lorenzes

SILL A DIVISION OF DISCOVER 1

| Rajvi P. Dodhia, Ansari Rahmatullah Wahid and Dhavno Bhausaheb Rajondra                                                                                                                                    |           |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| A STUDY ON IMPACT OF DIGITAL AND SOCAIL MEDIA USE AND VIEWING ON CHILDREN.                                                                                                                                 | 212-216   |
| Prof. Vijay Vishwakarma Nikita Ravindra Pagare, Vaishnavi Subhash Nirmale                                                                                                                                  |           |
| IMPACT OF AMENDMENTS IN LAWS ON ENVIRONMENT FOR WOMEN: A STUDY WITHREFERENCE TO STUDENTS, TEACHERS AND NON-TEACHING STAFF OF S.M. SHETTYCOLLEGE OF SCIENCE, COMMERCE AND MANAGEMENT STUDIES, POWAI | 217 – 220 |
| Puru Gokhale and Prof. Nidhi Chandorkar                                                                                                                                                                    |           |
| HUMAN RESOURCE ACCOUNTING AND ITS IMPACT ON EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONSWITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO PALGHAR & BOISAR COLLEGES                                                                                | 221 – 227 |
| Anshu Tiwari                                                                                                                                                                                               |           |
| CORPORATE RESTRUCTURING-MODERN MANTRA OF SURVIVAL                                                                                                                                                          | 228 - 233 |
| Zarmin Momin, Rajvi Dodhia Pooja Shetty and Mansi Naik                                                                                                                                                     |           |
| CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY OF TATA STEEL COMPANY IN SPORTS ANDENVIRONMENT                                                                                                                         | 234 - 237 |
| Mukta A Mangalvedhekar                                                                                                                                                                                     |           |
| ROLE OF FORENSIC ACCOUNTING IN FRAUD INVESTIGATION                                                                                                                                                         | 238 - 239 |
| Gajra Namrata Navinchandra                                                                                                                                                                                 |           |
| PERCEPTION OF PEOPLE TOWARDS PROMOTIONAL & EXPANSION STRATEGIESADOPTED BY GOVERNMENT OF INDIA WITH REGARDS TO DIGITAL PAYMENT SERVICES                                                                 | 240 - 246 |
| Aman Birendra Singh                                                                                                                                                                                        |           |
| DIGITALIZATION OF BANKING SECTOR WITH RESPECT TO VOICE RECOGNITIONSYSTEMS                                                                                                                              | 247 - 254 |

International Journal of Advance and Innovative Research Volume 7, Issue 1 (XVII): January - March, 2020

CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY OF TATA STEEL COMPANY IN SPORTS AND ENVIRONMENT

Aukta A Mangalvedhekar

Assistant Professor, Accountancy, NKTT College, Thane (West)

ABSTRACT

India has a long history of business involvement in social causes for national development such as donations to charity, services to the community and enhancing employee welfare. The study aims at understanding the concept corporate social responsibility and the main provisions of Companies Act 2013 and with reference to CSR activities of TATA Steel Company in Sports and Environment. The study hypothesizes that the TATA Steel Company's CSR activities in sports and environment are satisfactory. The research paper is completely based on secondary data. For the purpose of research, secondary data has been collected from relevant books, Annual reports of companies and related web sites. It has been found that the TATA steel company has provided an excellent infrastructural facility which, has helped in creating an atmosphere for sports promotion and also created champions who have made the country proud. The company has its carbon accounting system (Moni CA) for monitoring and benchmarking CO2 emission performance. My study found that public sector companies are not only more aware about CSR but consciously taking many initiatives in tackling various social problems more appropriately.

Keywords: Social responsibility, sports infrastructure and environment protection.

INTRODUCTION

O

1

When the company is incorporated under the act, the company is vested with distinct legal persons and exists independent of its members. But the company's legal existence is not merely to earn maximum profit, but it is a rather legal device for the attainment of any social or economic goal and to a large extent it is also responsible for the society. This brings us to the concept of corporate social responsibility (CSR) as many companies derive wealth from society, create wealth for society and earn profit by dealing with the wealth for society. Thus in the large perspective, it is the society that actually gives permission to business to operate in society and earn money.

India has a long history of close business involvement in social causes for national development such as denotions to the contract to the contract of the cont

27°C Haze

APPROVED UGC CARE ISSN - 2229 - 3620 HODH SANCHAR BULLET JOURNAL OF ARTS, HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

**********************

05

and a set and and and and and and any and any and any and and any and

Certificate of Publication

Ms. Aditi PramodMone

Assistant Professor Sheth NKTT College of Commerce and JTT college of ArtsGanpatJairamKharkar Ali Marg, Behind Collector Office, Kharkar Alley, Thane West, Thane, Maharashtra 400601

TITLE OF RESEARCH PAPER

A study on Effectiveness of Pre-placement training on Recruitment process.

This is certified that your research paper has been published in Shodh Sanchar Bulletin, Volume 10 Issue 37 January to March 2020

Date : 24-02-2020

or in Chief SHODH SANCHAR BULLETIN BILINGUAL INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH JOURNAL, LUCKNOW and and a star and and and and and and and and a

CHIEF EDITORIAL OFFICE

448 /119/76, KALYANPURI THAKURGANJ, CHOWK, LUCKNOW -226003 U.P., Cell.: 09415578129, 09415141368, 09161456922 | E-mail : dr.vinaysharma123@gmail.com Website : http://www.seresearchfoundation.in | http://www.seresearchfoundation.in/shodhsarita

**********************************

ISSN - 2348-2397 APPROVED UGC CARE

SHODH SARITA Vol. 7, Issue 26, April to June 2020 Page Nos. 184-187

AN INTERNATIONAL BILINGUAL PEER REVIEWED REFEREED RESEARCH JOURNAL

Analysis of Effectiveness of Pre – Placement Training on Recruitment Process.

Aditi Pramod Mone***

ABSTRACT

The primary aim of graduation courses is to make students industry ready. All colleges and education institutes are always trying to develop and enhance the skills of graduate students in reference to make them ready to take the real time challenges. Along the syllabus and other soft skills development, it has become important to groom them for placement. Many graduates as well as post graduate lack in skills required for encashing the job opportunity, resulting into failure of at very starting steps of recruitment process. So, to provide students with an insight to business world and what are minimum expected industry standards for hiring any candidate along with good academic record. Many organizations under their corporate social responsibility have taken initiative to groom students through their tie ups with different colleges in Thane region by providing them training and making them ready for the recruitment process. This process includes Soft skill training, technicaltraining, resume writing, interview skills, group discussion etc.

Key Words: Pre-placement training, Recruitment process, CSR

Research objective

To study the importance of pre placement training.

To analyse the impact of placement grooming sessions on students.

To test effectiveness of pre placement training in recruitment process

Locale of Study

Research was conducted with the students of colleges from than eregion

Research Methodology

For purpose of data collection 82 respondents are surveyed and for studying the effectiveness of pre placement study on students.

Findings of the Research.

Considering the responses given by respondents I have found that majority of students have experience rise in their confidence level, improved communication and presentation skills

INTRODUCTION

Training is an integral part of any professional. Training presents an opportunity to expand man's knowledge. It helps in overcoming weakness and strengthen the existing skills. Training enable people to perform their task in better way. It boosts selfconfidence, motivates morale of a person and generate leadership quality in a person. Different training is given to employees at different levels. The following training methods are used For the training of skilled workers and operators-Specific job training programmes, Technical training at a training with live demos, Internship training, Training via the process of rotation of job, on the job training etc. Trainings are also given to college students in the area of soft skill development, group discussion etc.

In my article I have focused on effectiveness of preplacement training on recruitment process.

Placement training recruitment play a very vital role in student's life. The pre-placement training is the basic building stone for enhancing the transferable and life skills for the successful career. The Grooming and training sessions are arranged for the candidates so that their chances of selection increase. Hence every institution not only guide students to choose right career but also train students and motivate them to perform well in the recruitment process. Such pre placement trainings are conducted by in house trainer as well as experts from industry by building network with companies who either provide internship training or class room training.

| *Assistant Professo | r, Sheth NKTT College of A | Arts and JTT College of Commen | rce, Kharkar Ali, Thane West          |
|---------------------|----------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| Vol. 7 🗰 Issue 26 🕷 | April to June 2020         | SHODH SARITA 184               | QUARTERLY BI-LINGUAL RESEARCH JOURNAL |

Literature Review

Giannationio and Hurley (2002) have presented a study on "Executives insights into training practices". Over 1100 human resource training executives responded to a 41 survey concerning their perceptions of the training issues their companies are facing the role of training in their organization the skills training employees should possess, and the substantive training knowledge that graduates of training programmes should be able to demonstrate results suggest the most important issues facing training executives today is managing the change Executives felt that it has been extremely important for the professionals to be able to create a recruitment program in today's labour market. The result of this research provides several implications for the design and the delivery of training educational programme.

"Relationships between prior experience of training, gender, goal orientation and training attitudes" by Anupama Narayan and Debra Steele-Johnson (2007), Relationships were examined between prior experience with training, goal orientation, gender and training attitudes. Participants (n = 165) had a minimum of six months of work experience. Results from regression analysis indicated that masteryapproach goal orientation had a beneficial effect on training attitudes for men but not for women. In addition, prior experience with training had a beneficial effect on training attitudes, and women had more favorable attitudes than men. The results provide initial evidence that gender moderates goal orientation effects in training contexts

Objectives of Pre placement Training is:

To identify need and expectation of the companies and bridge the gap between the fresher's and industry for recruitment process.

To boost the confidence of students and overcome stage fear.

To Assist students in planning their career

To guide students in overcoming weakness.

To make them ready for recruitment process.

Pre-placement Training includes

Personality development

Communication and vocabulary

Resume preparation and email writing.

Group discussion

Interview skills

Aptitude test

Foreign language

Personality development, is a method of developing necessary characteristics that make up your overall personality. To achieve anything we need to use our potential fullest and understand the interferences that are preventing us from doing so. Pre placement training sessions focuses on behavioural training by counselling students and motivating them in overcoming their weakness and highlighting their strength. They also help students in changing their mind-set towards any obstacle/fear etc.

The way the candidate speaks in front of the interviewer decides his future. If he communicates in a strong, confident and impulsive manner his chances are high to get selected for the job.Personality is enhanced by having a good communication skill. Here when I say communication it includes both verbal as well as non-verbal. Under these training session the train students on how to speak confidently, how to put front their points in the group discussion effectively, which words are nit to be used at the time of interview etc. The trainer also focuses on improving vocabulary skills of students by giving them list of words that the student may overcome at during interview like CTC, probationary period etc. Just having a good verbal communication is not enough to get a job, your body language also plays a vital role. Students are also groomed on their body language so that their personality looks impressive.

Vol. 7 * Issue 26 * April to June 2020

Resume is a tool of marketing yourself, it outlines your skills qualification, background to the potential employer. Hence drafting a resume effectively is most important. Students are trained on how to write resume meticulously, comprehensively etc.

Recruitment process also includes aptitude test, such test are conducted to assess the potential and ability of candidate suitable for doing a job. Students are trained on numerical ability, psychometric test, language proficiency test etc. through lectures and mock test for practice sessions. Internship training also forms a part of pre placement training here students are given on job training for certain period viz 45 days, 60 days etc. interns are given exposure to the real workplace environment, and if the intern performs well he is also absorbed by the company.

Methodology

The methodology used for present research is Sampling, Questionnaire and in depth interview. A sample of 82 respondents on the basis of stratified random sampling. In depth interviews are carried out with HR representative of 5 organizations.

Results

There were few basic questions asked to respondents; which highlighted the key elements about the pre placement training sessions.

When few questions were asked to students regarding the effectiveness of training session of 82 respondents 78 respondents have found the sessions effective. When respondents were asked about the getting placed at 70 respondents out of 82 were placed in less than 3 interviews sessions. When respondents were asked regarding the relevance of the training content to current working culture 64 respondents have responded in favor of the relevance with current workplace while 18 have not found it as relative.

When students were asked about in what way the session was helpful? 30% respondents were of opinion that session helped them in boosting confidence. 10% of the respondent have got clarity about to represent themselves as an asset during interview. 43% respondents were successfully able to crack the interview. 17% respondents were of opinion that this session have helped them developing overall personality.

When HR representative of the companies were asked about the candidates who have appeared for recruitment process 3 out of 5 representative were of the opinion that the candidates were confident, groomed, and knowledgeable.

When open ended question regarding suggestion for improvement of training session were asked to the respondents 48 respondents out of 82 were of opinion that the session should also contain at least 15 days of industrial training as it will give immediate exposure, which will enrich the session effectiveness.

For understanding the effectiveness of training mean value of 82 respondents is 4.19 which is close to 4. It means the average response was "Very Good". In case of orientation given during the training session mean of responses of 82 respondents was 3.78 which is close to 4. It indicates the average response was "Agree". For Enhancement of Skills, mean value of 82 respondents is 4.23 which are close to 4. It clearly savs that the average response was "Very Good". The mean value for boosting of self-confidence; of 82 respondents was 4.67 which is close to 5. So here average response was "Excellent". In case of grooming mean value of 82 respondents was 4.17 which is close to 4. It means the average response was "Very good". The overall impact of the training session as per the mean value of 82 respondents is 4.20 which is close to 4. This clearly states that the average response in "Very Good".

The table indicates of pre-placement t 82 respondents.

| dents.Table: Mean                    | uitment b             | <ul> <li>Pre placement Training manual by KotMahindra Bank.</li> <li>https://vivekanandgroup.com/pre-placemetraining-program/</li> </ul> |
|------------------------------------------|-----------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| EffectivenessOrientation             | M ean4.193.78 | <ul> <li>https://www.gurukulgroup.com/Gurukul_PrelcementTrainingDetails</li> </ul>                                                            |
| Skill enhancementBoosting of confide | 4.23                  | <ul> <li>http://www.aimt.edu.in/placements/pr</li> </ul>                                                                                           |
| GroomingOverall Impact               | 4.174.20          |                                                                                                                                                    |

Analysis.

The Research work thus elaborates that the effectiveness of training session as per the responses of respondent is Excellent. The course orientation was also very good. As per the response of respondent for skill enhancement is Excellent which strongly affirms that the trainees have developed the skills that are required to get through the recruitment process.

The next parameter based on boosting of confidence has scored 4.67 points which signifies that the respondents have marked in as excellent. The next mean 4.17 indicate that the trainees are groomed in an effective way. The overall impact for the session is very good i.e. it have trainees are overall satisfied by the sessions and are now ready for going through recruitment process.

Conclusion

The present research work highlights that such session have a very positive impact on students as it has provided an opportunity to overcome their weakness and strengthen their skills. This session have guided students in accomplishment of their dream by giving a booster dose at the very entry level of their career. The sessions were so interactive that each and every student in a class would willingly participate in every activity. Sessions have trained students in overcoming their stage fear. Students find it easy to cark aptitude test and personal interview round. Students have also found the relevance of content of training session with their current workplace. Thus seeking a better placement plays a vital role in creating a great career and recruitment is the very first step to your long lasting career.

References

- Training manual by Technoserve a NGO by Citi Group.
- tak
- ent-
- Pla
- re-

AARHAT PUBLICATION & AARHAT JOURNAL'S

108, Gokuldham Park, Dr. Ambedkar Chowk, Near T.V. Tower, Badlapur (E)-421503. Email ID: aarhatpublication@gmail.com • Phone: 9822307164 Website: www.aarhat.com

CERTIFICATE OF PUBLICATION

This is to certify that, Mr./Mrs/Dr.

PROF (DR.) MAHESH BABURAO PATIL

has contributed a paper as author/co-author to Electronic International Interdisciplinary Research Journal ISSN 2277-8721.Volume–IX, Issues– II March - April 2020 under the Title Recent Trends In Service Sector.

The Editor in chief and The Editorial Board appreciate the Intellectual Contribution of the author/co-author

PRAMILA THOKALE Managing Editor

aarhat/amierj.cert/2020/17

www.aarhat.com

Inspira-

Journal of Commerce, Economics & Computer Science(JCECS)

(A National Quarterly Peer Reviewed Refereed Journal) Vol.07 | No.03 | July - September, 2021

Journal of Inspira Research Association

Indexing Status: Inspira - JCECS is Indexed and Included in:

COSMOS Foundation & Electronic Journal Library EZB, Germany || Directory of Journals Indexing (DOJI) International Institute of Organized Research (I2OR) || Global Society for Scientific Research (JIF) International Accreditation and Research Council (IARC) || Research Bible || Academic Keys International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) || Open Academic Journals Index (OAJI) Directory of Research Journal Indexing (DRJI) || International Scientific Indexing (ISI) Journal Factor (JF) || General Impact Factor (GIF) || Scientific World Index (SCIWIN) International Innovative Journal Impact Factor (IIJIF).

ISSN 2319 - 8508 AN INTERNATIONAL MULTIDISCIPLINARY HALF YEARLY RESEARCH JOURNAL

GALAXY LINK

Volume - X

Issue - I

November - April - 2021-22

English / Marathi Part - I

Peer Reviewed Refereed and UGC Listed Journal Journal No. 47023

ज्ञान-विज्ञान विमुक्तये

IMPACT FACTOR / INDEXING 2019 - 6.571 www.sjifactor.com

* EDITOR *

Assit. Prof. Vinay Shankarrao Hatole M.Sc (Math's), M.B.A. (Mkt), M.B.A (H.R), M.Drama (Acting), M.Drama (Prod & Dirt), M.Ed.

✤ PUBLISHED BY <

Aurangabad. (M.S.)

VOLUME - X, ISSUE - I - NOVEMBER - APRIL - 2021-22 GALAXY LINK - ISSN 2319 - 8508 - IMPACT FACTOR - 6.571 (www.sjifactor.com)

🌮 CONTENTS OF ENGLISH PART - I 🛷

| S. No. | Title & Author                                                                                                                                                    | Page No.                                                                                                       |
|--------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 12     | Impact of the TPACK Application Suite on Technological Proficiency ofPre-Service Teachers in Medchal-Malkajgiri District of Telangana StateSayam Deepathi | 70-76                                                                                                          |
| 13     | The Impact of COVID-19 on Sports & Physical ActivityDr. N. N. Lokhande                                                                                        | 77-81                                                                                                          |
| 14     | Image Processing with Machine Learning Proving to be Helping Toolfor Detection and Cure of Skin DiseasesDiwane Rohit Bhausaheb                            | 82-86                                                                                                          |
| 15     | Dr. Shahaji Shivaji Chandanshive                                                                                                                                  | 10.00                                                                                                          |
| 15     | Dr. Sulbha B. Mule                                                                                                                                                | 87-92                                                                                                          |
| 16     | Wildlife, Social Environment, and Human Predicament in R. K. Narayan's, Tiger for Malgudi                                                                  | 93-97                                                                                                          |
|        | Dr. G. VenugopalMrs. Shilpa Shendge                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                |
| 17     | The International Conflict and Political Violence andTerrorism in the Middle East                                                                             | 98-103                                                                                                         |
|        | Sadiq Ali Mohammed Al-Ahdal                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                |
| 18     | Aravind Adiga's Last Man in Tower: Impact of Globalizationon Materialistic Society                                                                            | 104-107                                                                                                        |
|        | Virendra Patle                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                |
|        | Dr. Hitendra B. Dhote                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                |
| V      | Consumer's Buying Preferences of Health-Related Safety ProductsAcross the Demographic Factors During Covid Pandemic                                           | 108-114                                                                                                        |
| 20     | Need of Library Automation and Internet Connecticity A Giving Law                                                                                                 | Service and                                                                                                    |
|        | Dr. Balajirao Dhakne                                                                                                                                              | 115-119                                                                                                        |
|        | IVI. IN. Borse                                                                                                                                                    | The second s |

П

OF ADVANCED RESEARCH IN COMMERCE MANAGEMENT & SOCIAL SCIENCE (IJARCMSS)

ISSN: 2581-7930

Impact Factor 5.880

An International Quarterly Peer Reviewed Refereed Journal Vol. 04 | No. 03(II) | July - September, 2021

Indexing Status UARCMSS to Indexed and Included in: (SMD)) Foundation & Electronic Journal Library EZB, Clemental Indexed Institute of Disparsive Research (ICOP) () Clemental Impact Factor (GIF) Concerns of Research Journal Indexempt02, (c) International Scientific Indexing (ISN)

| 36.      | ECONOMIC CONSEQUENCES OF CRYPTO CURRENCY IN INDIARamesh K.V.                                                                                     | 239-248 |
|----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| 37.      | FACTORS INFLUENCING EMPLOYEE RETENTION IN UTTARAKHANDTRANSPORT CORPORATIONDr. Bhanu Pratap Singh & Sumit-Kumar Singh                         | 249-256 |
| 38.      | IMPACT OF COVID-19 PANDEMIC CRISIS ON MICRO, SMALL, AND MEDIUM-SIZED ENTERPRISES EMPLOYMENT IN INDIAMrs. Preeti Singh & Dr. Pradyumna Sharma | 257-266 |
| 39.      | IMPACT OF E-BANKING ON TRADITIONAL BANKING SERVICESDigvijaysinh R.Gohil & Dr. Chandreshbhai L. Usadadiya                                         | 267-271 |
| 40.V | GAUSES AND EFFECTS OF MIGRATION: A CASE STUDY OF THANE CITYDr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande                                                                  | 272-274 |
| 41.      | PERFORMANCE OF INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SECTOR INDEX IN INDIA:PRE & POST COVID-19 LOCKDOWNMr. S. Vevek & Dr. S. Sivaprakkash                   | 275-280 |
| 42.      | AN EMPIRICAL ANALYSIS OF THE EFFECTS OF FOREIGN DIRECTINVESTMENT ON ECONOMIC GROWTH IN CHINA AND INDIADr. Prathima V                         | 281-288 |
| 43.      | EMERGING TRENDS AND PATTERNS OF PUBLIC EXPENDITURE ONELEMENTARY EDUCATION IN INDIA: AN ECONOMIC ANALYSISSanjay Kumar                         | 289-297 |

***

ISSN 2277 - 7539 (Print) Impact Factor - 5.631 (SJIF)

Excel's International Journal of Social Science & Humanities

An International Peer Reviewed Journal

November - 2021 Vol. I No. 20

EXCEL PUBLICATION HOUSE AURANGABAD

About Excel Publication

The Philosophy:

Excel's International Journal of Humanities and Social Science (EIJHSS) is an open access, peerreviewed and refereed journal published by Excel Publication House India. The main objective of EIJHSS is to provide an intellectual platform for the international and Indian scholars. EIJHSS aims to promote interdisciplinary studies in humanities and social science.

Submissions should indicate an understanding of the relevant literature and the contribution of the submissions to this body of research. Empirical articles should have an appropriate methodology and be able to relate their findings to the existing literature. Methodological articles must attempt to show how they further existing theory.

The review process: The review process followed by Excel Journal is systematic and thorough. Articles submitted to the journal are initially screened by the editor for relevance and overall quality as judged by the concepts, presentation of methodology and findings. Inappropriate or weak submissions are not forwarded for a formal review. Those considered appropriate are submitted to a double blind review process.

Potential contributors: Every research-oriented individual and institution, and every research student, faculty working anywhere in the world is invited to explore fruitful connections with Excel Publication.

| Contents                                                                                                                   |    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 1) A study of consumers' preferred payment methodsprand post Covid 19 outbreak in Thane cityDr. (Ms.) H.A. Chande         | 01 |
| 2) Effect of Nutrient Dense Supplement and EducationaModule on Nutritional Status of Children Living inSlum Areas         | 1  |
| Poonam Ajay Singh                                                                                                                 | 06 |
| 3) The Miniatures (Folk Art) of RajasthanMs. Gaytri                                                                           | П  |
| 4) Critical Analysis of Untouchable by Mulk Raj AnandMr. Rupash                                                               | 15 |
| 5) Supporting Women to Create and Sustain SHGsDr. Rekha Kumari                                                                | 20 |
| 6) Emotional Intelligence [EI] and its CompetenciesProf. Naveed – Us– Sahar                                                   | 24 |
| 7) Impact of Globalisation on Developing Countriesand IndiaMadhukar Laxman Hiwale                                         | 31 |
| 8) Investigating the Relationship Between OperatingCosts and Firm Profitability Using Longitudinal Datafrom Indian Hotels |    |
| Dr. Sayyad Abdul Aziz Maheboobsab                                                                                                 | 41 |
| 9) Conflict Between The Detective And His Opponent InThe Select Novles Of Agatha ChristieDr. Sayed I.G.                   | 51 |
| 10) A Study of CSR and Human rights in IndiaMadhukar Laxman Hiwale                                                            | 62 |
| 11) A Study of Insurance Sector in IndiaDr. Mohammed Abdul Raffey                                                             | 68 |
| 12) Woman Empowerment in IndiaDr. Gajanan Mudholkar                                                                           | 81 |
| 13) Value Education: The contribution of PhilosophyProf. Dr. Vijay Shedage                                                    | 87 |

|         | ii                                                                                                                                 |               |
|---------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------|
| 1       | <sup>3</sup> E-CONTENT LEARNING MATERIAL FOR NORMAL ACHIEVERS ATSECONDARY SCHOOL LEVELDr. Darsana B.G.              | 81-8          |
| 1.      | 4 SMALL-SCALE BUSINESSES BY WOMEN ENTREPRENEURS IN THA                                                                             | ANE 84-8      |
|         | Dr. (Ms.) H.A. Chande                                                                                                              |               |
| 15      | A STUDY OF UNDERPRICING OF INITIAL PUBLIC OFFERINGS (IPO'Kamal Kumar & Dr. Ravindra Kumar Katewa                               | S) 87-9       |
| 16      | FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT OF INDIAN AUTOMOBILEINDUSTRY: A COMPARATIVE REVIEWPankaj Grover & Prof. Dr. M. L. Agarwal | E 92-9        |
| 17      | A STUDY ON FARMERS SUICIDES IN WAYANAD WITH SPECIALREFERENCE TO SULTAHN BATHERY TALUKSafeera M                             | 96-10         |
| 18      | RECENT VOGUE AND PROGRESS OF INDIAN PSB'sDr. N. P. Singh & Ramveer                                                             | 109-11        |
| 19      | EFFECTIVE MEASURES IN MANAGING WORKING CAPITALCOMPONENTS TO PROSPER ENTREPRENEURS: A STUDYDevesh Pal                       | 115-11        |
| 20      | ROLE PLAYED BY DIRECT SELLING INDUSTRY IN THE GROWTH OF                                                                            | 119-121       |
| 14      | Dr. Kamal Kanwar Rathore                                                                                                           |               |
|         | SPECIAL ECONOMIC ZONES AND EMPLOYMENT GENERATIONDr. Priyadarshini Sharma & Dr. Rameshwar Jat                                   | 122-125       |
| 2       | ESG AND EVA: EMERGING, DEMANDING & COMMANDING FIRM'SEVALUATORS GLOBALLY-A PERSPECTIVE IN INDIAN CORPORATECONTEXT           | 126-130       |
| 3 -     | THE SELELESS ACTIONS: YOGA FOR THE INTEGRATION OF                                                                                  |               |
| F       | PHYSICAL AND MENTAL QUALITIESDr. Akhilesh Kumar Mishra                                                                         | 131-136       |
| TV  | RANSFORMATIONAL LEADERSHIP AND PSYCHOLOGICALVELLBEING: EXPLORING THE CONNECTION                                                | 137-142       |
| A       | kansha Gautam & Dr. Pooja Jain                                                                                                     | in the second |
| DG      | IRE NEED OF WATER GOVERNANCE FOR INDIA'S ECONOMIC                                                                                  | 143-148       |
| D       | r. Geetanjali Shrivastava, Ms. Neelakshi Arora & Dr. Neeta Vaydande                                                                | alexander !!  |
| EID | FFECT OF RISING INFLATION ON INDIAN ECONOMYr. Satish V. Tewani                                                                 | 149-153       |
| डि      | ज़िटलाइज़ेशनः अवसर और चुनौतियाँ (फार्मा क्षेत्र में एक अध्ययन)                                                                     | 154-158       |

ISSN: 2231-167X (Print) Impact Factor 6.280

Inspira-

Journal of Modern Management & Entrepreneurship (JMME)

A National Quarterly Peer Reviewed Refereed Journal Vol.11 | No.03 | July-September, 2021

Journal of Inspira Research Association

1

Indexing Status: Inspira-JMME is Indexed and Included in: COSMOS Foundation & Electronic Journal Library EZB, Germany || Directory of Journals indexing (DOJI) International Institute of Organised Research (I2OR) || Global Society for Scientific Research (JIF) International Accreditation and Research Council (IARC) || Research Bible || Academic Keys International Society for Research Activity (ISRA) || Open Academic Journals Index (OAJI) Directory of Research Journal Indexing (DRJI) || International Scientific Indexing (ISI) Journal Factor (JF) || General Impact Factor (GIF) || Scientific World Index (SCIWIN) International Innovative Journal Impact Factor (IIJIF).

| 10 | WHAT DOES GLOBALIZATION MEAN IN INDIAN CONTEXT?                                                                       | 41-43      |
|----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 11 | A STUDY ON OPPORTUNITIES & CHALLENGES FOR INTERNETBANKING IN INDIA                                                | 44-51      |
|    | Prof. Dashrath Bhiku Bhoite & Dr. Kishor Shankar Nikam                                                                |            |
| 12 | LIFE INSURANCE SECTOR: STATUTORY DISCLOSURE PRACTICES                                                                 | 52-55      |
|    | Dr. C.P. Kulshreshtha & Dr. R. K. Katewa                                                                              |            |
| 13 | EFFECTIVENESS OF SELF-LEARNING MULTIMEDIA PACKAGE FORENHANCING ACHIEVEMENT OF INTELLECTUALLY SUPERIORSTUDENTS | 56-58      |
|    | Dr. Darsana B.G.                                                                                                      |            |
| 14 | ROBLEMS OF WOMEN ENTREPRENEURS IN THANE CITY: A STUDY                                                                 | 59-62      |
| V  | Dr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande                                                                                                  | 17 Million |
| 15 | DEVELOPMENT AND VALIDATION OF A TIME MANAGEMENTINSTRUMENT TO ASSESS WOMEN'S EMPOWERMENT                           | 63-67      |
|    | Dr. Prathima V                                                                                                        |            |
| 16 | ENVIRONMENT ACCOUNTING: THE ACCOUNTING FOR THE NATURE                                                                 | 68-72      |
|    | Md. Ejaz Ahmad                                                                                                        |            |
| 17 | A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF PERFORMANCE EVALUATION OF IFFCOAND KRIBHCO                                                 | 73-76      |
|    | Priyanka C. Kathiriya & Dr. Urvashi J. Devmurari                                                                      |            |
| 18 | EFFECTS OF ECO-FRIENDLY CONCEPT IN INDIAN HOSPITALITYSECTOR                                                       | 77-80      |
|    | Priyanka Kagra                                                                                                        |            |
| 19 | FISCAL & MONETARY SYSTEM AND PRICES DURING MUGHALPERIOD                                                           | 81-84      |
|    | Rita Sharma                                                                                                           |            |
| 20 | ROLE OF NBFCs IN HEALTHCARE SECTOR DEVELOPMENT IN INDIA                                                               | 85-87      |

ii

ISSN: 2581-9925 Impact Factor 6.340

OF EDUCATION, MODERN MANAGEMENT APPLIED SCIENCE & SOCIAL SCIENCE (IJEMMASSS)

A bi-lingual Multidisciplinary Quarterly Peer Reviewed Refereed Journal Vol. 03 | No. 03(III) | July-September, 2021

Indexing Status: IJEMMASSS is Indexed and Included in: COSMOS Foundation & Electronic Journal Library EZB, Germany International Scientific Indexing (ISI) || General Impact Factor (GIF)
| 20 | RELEVANCE OF LEADERSHIP QUALITIES OF GANDHIJIDr. Purnima Sharma                                                                                                  | 132-13  |
|----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| 21 | IMPORTANCE OF ECO-FRIENDLY CONCEPT IN INDIAN HOSPITALITYSECTORPriyanka Kagra                                                                                 | 136-142 |
| 22 | ENGLISH TRADE AND THE MUGAL EMPEROR (1556-1707)Rita Sharma                                                                                                       | 143-146 |
| 23 | SPECIAL ECONOMIC ZONES AND EXPORTDr. Priyadarshini Sharma & Dr. Rameshwar Jat                                                                                    | 147-151 |
| 24 | RESHAPING FINANCIAL LANDSCAPE THROUGH E-FINANCE: ININDIAN CONTEXTDr. Jyoti Gupta & Dr. Pragati Johry                                                         | 152-156 |
| 25 | THE STRENGTHENING OF THE GOD'S INSTRUMENTS THROUGHEQUANIMITY AND YOGADr. Akhilesh Kumar Mishra & Ms. Archana Mishra                                          | 157-165 |
| 26 | MOTIVATION FOR ENTREPRENEURSHIP DEVELOPMENT: A STUDYTulasi Sushra & Dr. Hitesh Shukla                                                                            | 166-169 |
| 27 | MEASUREMENT OF TOURISM PERCEPTION TOWARDS HERITAGESITES AND TOURISM DEVELOPMENT IN AGRA AND GWALIORKrishna Narwariya & Prof. K Ratnam                        | 170-173 |
| 28 | TRANSFORMATIONAL LEADERSHIP (TFL) AND JOB STRESSMANAGEMENT(JSM): EXPLORING THE CONNECTIONAkansha Gautam & Dr. Pooja Jain                                     | 174-180 |
| 29 | A STUDY OF PREFERRED PAYMENT METHODS OF CONSUMERSSINCE THE OUTBREAK OF COVID-19 PANDEMIC ACROSS THEDEMOGRAPHIC FACTORS IN THANE CITYDr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande | 181-184 |
| 30 | CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY: AS A SOCIAL REACTIONDr. Sunil Kanoongo & Indra Choudhary                                                                        | 185-189 |

ISSN: P-2455-0515 E- 2394-8450

EDUCREATOR RESEARCH JOURNAL

State-VIII, Issues-IV

July-Aug 2021

١.

BNDE%

|       | Title                                                  | Author Name               | Page |  |
|-------|--------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|------|--|
| °. 3₹ |                                                        |                           | No.  |  |
|       | Remote learning and working is the Future of Work:     | Dr.Neeta Patil            |      |  |
|       | Skill set required for Bridging Gap between Industry & |                           |      |  |
|       | Academia During and Post Covid-19 Pandemic in Indian   |                           |      |  |
|       | Perspective                                            |                           |      |  |
| -     | Impact Of Covid – 19 On Hospitality Education          | Mr.Preetam Gupte          | 7    |  |
|       | Human Computer Interaction                             | Mr.Tejas .G. Dabholkar    | 12   |  |
|       | Educational Institution As A Bridge Between            | Mr.Aniket U. Sawant &     |      |  |
|       | Industry And Academia For Developing Students Career   | Mr.Dattaray Kawade        | · 16 |  |
| ÷     | Role Of Educational Institution In Bridging Industry   | Mrs. Chaitali.T.Khadapkar |      |  |
|       | Academia Gap For Student Career Shape                  |                           | 22   |  |
| 2     | E-Payments & Its Efficiency In India                   | Mr.Chirag Mahesh Chandan  | 27   |  |
| ~     | Repercussion Of Corona On The Stakeholders Of Higher   | D. P. Derain Smily        |      |  |
|       | Educational Institutions                               |                           | 32   |  |
| ς     | Impact Of COVID-19 On The Tourism Industry In India-   | Dr. Dhanashree Pramod     |      |  |
|       | An Overview                                            | Sawant                    | 36   |  |
| 9     | Digital India: Challenges And Opportunities            | Dr. Elisha Kolluri        | 41   |  |
| ()    | E-Commerce & Entrepreneurship                          | Dr. Mahesh B. Patil       | 47   |  |
|       | Vnergy among Hospitality Education & Industry          | Mrs.Vaishali Rajarshi     | 52   |  |
| 12    | Social Media Marketing                                 | Ms.Kirthana.D &           | 5.0  |  |
|       |                                                        | Ms.Nisha.P                | 58   |  |
| 1.3   | Impact Of Covid-19 On Education                        | Ms.Tejaswi Dinesh         |      |  |
| 1.1   |                                                        | Prajapati & Ms. Pooja     | 64   |  |
|       | To Interference The Late                               | Ramesh Raikwar            |      |  |
|       | Communication of the Influence Of Green Practices On   | Dr. Pallavi Mehta &       |      |  |
| -1    | Delhi-NCR                                              | Prasang Agarwal           | 74   |  |
| 15    | Digital India: Challenges And Opportunities            | Ms. Deepa Mishra          | - 80 |  |
| 16    | Impact Of Covid-19 On Education, Economics And         | Rohit Sunil Suradkar      | 01   |  |
|       | Society                                                |                           | 86   |  |

日代時代的

JAM RAVIE

Volume-VIII, Issues- IV

July - Aug 2021

IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON THE TOURISM INDUSTRY IN INDIA- AN OVERVIEW

NOT THE REAL PROPERTY OF THE CONTRACT OF THE SECOND

Dr. Dhanashree Pramod Sawant,

Associate Professor,

Dept. of Economics,

Sheth NKTT College of Commerce and Sheth JTT College of Arts. Thane.

Abstract:

Before the outbreak of COVID-19, the tourism industry was the fastest growing industry all over the world. Many countries in European continent, UAE and South Asian region have been developing the tourism business giving them good revenue.

Among the fast-growing business activities, the tourism industry had occupied a fair position in terms of employment and foreign exchange earning throughout the world as well as India. Available data on tourism indicated that around 9% of the people in the economy are employed in this sector. The foreign exchange earnings from this sector were 5931 million US dollars in 2005-06. India is blessed with a wide and diverse climatic condition, culture, history, beautiful coastline.

Sudden outbreak of COVID-19 has shaken almost all types of economic activities worldwide. Of all these, Tourism industry has been affected the most. The present study focuses on the impact of COVID-19 on tourism industry in India. The study reviewed the online reading material, reports and articles.

It is concluded that with a set of necessary efforts and hygiene maintenance at tourist places, tourists can be assured of security and protection from the disease. This will help tourism industry for its revival.

ģ CC farhat Publication & Aarhat Journals is licensed Based on a work at http://www.aarhat.com/crj. Introduction:

Before the outbreak of COVID-19, the tourism industry was the fastest growing industry all over the world. Many countries in European continent, UAE and South Asian region have been developing the tourism business giving them good revenue as well. Indian tourism industry was also growing well. Many countries had recognized the importance of tourism industry in economic development with the falling employment opportunities in traditional regions. This is because tourism industry has not just had positive impact on revenue to the governments, but also it created good impact on direct and indirect employment of people, such as travel agencies, hotel industry, tour managers, tour guides, restaurants, local business, local artifacts and many more.

Among the fast-growing business activities, the tourism industry had occupied a fair position in terms of employment and foreign exchange earning throughout the world as well as India. Available data on tourism indicated that around 9% of the people in the economy are employed in this sector. The foreign exchange earnings from this sector were 5931 million US dollars in 2005-06. India is blessed with a wide and diverse climatic condition, culture, history, beautiful coastline.

Educreator Research Journal

Jume-VIII, Issues- IV

July - Aug 2021

udden outbreak of COVID-19 has shaken almost all types of economic activities worldwide. Of all these, Tourism industry has been affected the most. The pandemic situation has affected tourism industry consisting of travel business, hotels, restaurants, tour agencies etc. Further leading to unemployment, losses, less revenue to the government and less nyestment.

Objectives:

- 1. To study the impact of COVID-19 on tourism industry in India.
- 2. To review the measures for the revival of tourism industry.

Importance of Tourism Industry:

Broadly, the role of tourism is summarized into following points viz.

- ) Overall utilization of natural resources,
- 11, • Increase in foreign exchange earnings,
- ii) Improvement in international trade relations,
- iv) Creation of employment or job opportunities,
- v) Development of markets or business,
- vi) Increase in national income,
- vii) Contribution to the government revenue,
- viii) Helps economic development and
- ix) Regional development.

Having known about the above role of tourism industry, let us study how the tourism industry has been affected severely due to COVID-19 in India.

Review of Literature:

A. Tourism Industry before COVID-19-

1. GDP share of Tourism Industry:

a. Article by Nidhi Singh, on "The Impact of Covid-19 on Travel & Tourism Industry in India and its Future" on 30th April 2020. In 2018, travel & tourism contributed 9.2% in India's GDP. She also pointed out that the restaurant industry in India, had an annual turnover of ₹4 lakh erore ($53 billion).

2. Creation of Employment:

- a. Article on "COVID-19 Impact on Travel and Tourism in India" published on 7th Sept. 2020. As per IBEF report, 4.2 erore jobs were generated in 2019 by tourism industry, however as per FHRAI report 38 million people have lost their jobs due to pandemic. Indian states like, Rajasthan, Goa, Sikkim and Keral who highly depend on revenue from tourism are severely affected.
- b. In 2018 tourism industry<sup>1</sup> generated 26.7 million jobs. The author pointed out that the tourism industry not only employed workers in cities but also provided an employment to rural population. Further she gave statistics the tourism sector, stating that it accounted for 12.75% of employment in India, 5.56% of it is direct and 7.19% is indirect. She mentioned that, over 87 million people were employed in the travel sector in 2018-19 in India. This industry provided direct employment to more than 7 million people. Adding to this Singh mentions about India's air transport industry which employed over 400,000 people directly and 940,000 are employed in related supply chains.

Volume-VIII, Issues-IV

July - Aug 2021

c. Goswami A. & Nirupama S. (2020) stated that the Indian tourism industry employed 8.75 erore people (12.75 per cent of the total employed population in 2018-19). Mostly overing the population from the hospitality industry, tour operators, travel agents, homestay owners, drivers, guides, small traders, artisans etc.

Educreator Research Journal

B. Tourism Industry after COVID-19:

1. Impact on GDP-

- a. Goswami A. & Nirupama S. (2020) pointed out that the sector also has strong forward and backward linkages to other sectors such as agriculture, transport, handloom and so on. The authors critically put that the disruptions in tourism sector will render many people in unemployed. Continuing that they stated that the food and hospitality sector is already reeling under pressure from high fixed costs and no footfalls. The authors stated that the Federation of Associations of Tourism and Hospitality Industry (FAITH). has estimated a loss of Rs 10 lakh erore for the industry due to COVID-19. This will also impact inflow of foreign tourists, which means a drastic fall in foreign exchange earnings which was close to Rs 2,10, 981 erores in Q1-Q3 2019.<sup>ii</sup>
- b. Business Standard viewed that the Indian tourism industry's projected revenue loss would be of Rs 1.25 trillion in calendar 2020 as a fall out of the shutdown of hotels and suspension in flight operations after the onset and spread of the coronavirus (Covid-19) pandemic.<sup>111</sup>
- c. During April-June, the Indian tourism industry is expected to book a revenue loss of Rs 69,400 crore, denoting a year-on-year (y-o-y) loss of 30 per cent.<sup>iv</sup>

2. Impact on Employment:

- a. Goswami A. & Nirupama S. (2020) stated that the Indian tourism industry employed 8.75 crore people (12.75 per cent of the total employed population in 2018-19). Mostly overing the population from the hospitality industry, tour operators, travel agents, homestay owners, drivers, guides, small traders, artisans etc. So, it can be said that due to COVID-19, tourism industry's employment has reduced to that extent.
- b. As per Nidhi Singh also tourism industry has lost 12.75% of employment in India, 5.56% of it is direct and 7.19% is indirect. Further The restaurant industry in India, which created jobs to more than 7 million people has been lost. She also pointed the loss of employment in India's air transport industry which employed over 400,000 people directly and 940,000 are employed in related supply chains.

3. Impact on Foreign Exchange Earnings-

- a. An article in the Business World stated that "During 112 2020, assuming the virus impact subsides, we expect FTAs to still be lower affecting the FEEs (foreign exchange earnings) by about 50 per cent to reach Rs 56,150 crore vis-à-vis Rs 112,300 crore during 112 2019," the report said.<sup>v</sup>
- b. Aviation business has been affected due to the pandemic situation. "It is one of the biggest hit industries, this sector has a high probability of suffering most from the recession without the direct intervention from the government. Since people are unlikely to travel for leisure for months to come, it will impact the inflow of tourists in all the countries drastically reducing the money flow in this sector."

A REALEVENED OF THE

4. Impact on Domestic tourism:

Educreator Research Journal

Volume-VIII, Issues- IV

July - Aug 2021

- NATIONAL BRANCH THE REPORT OF THE REPORT Given various travel restrictions imposed by the Indian government as well as governments across the a. globe, forward bookings for various conferences and leisure travel bookings to foreign destinations have already been cancelled. In India, most of the summer holiday bookings (for the states of Kerala, Rajasthan and Goa) have also been cancelled (about 40-50 per cent), thereby impacting domestic tourism.
  - "The National Restaurant Association of India (NRAI) which represent the majority of Indian restaurants Ъ. had advised its members to shut down their dine-in services when the lockdown began which majorly impacted the dine-ins, pubs, cafes and also food delivery platforms such as Swiggy and Zomato which faced drop of 60% in revenue.""

5. Impact on MSME sector:

Pravakar Sahoo, Ashwani (2020) estimated that India's MSME sector may have a decline of 2.1 per cent a. and this loss of 5.7 per cent. The writers further evaluated that, the loss is more skewed in manufacturing sector to the tune of 3.5 per cent in scenario A and 8.3 per cent in the scenario D. further they stated that the MSMEs dealing in trade and other services activities can bear the decline in GVA in the range of 1.4-4.5 per cent. So, they concluded that the impact of the pandemic across sectors and in different scenarios of complete and partial lockdown and at different levels of capacity utilization is massive on the Indian economy. The impact is particularly severe on trade, manufacturing and the MSME sector which contribute substantially to India's employment and growth.viii

Methodology:

ifferent online material has been referred to understand the statistics of the COVID-19 issue. Government surveys d reports are also reviewed to study the issue.

ndings:

- < found out that the tourism sector has been hit worse than any other sector due to COVID-19. Tourism sector has st affected foreign exchange carnings from international tourism but also affected domestic tourism in India.
- mugh the majorly affected sectors include travel and tourism, logistics, auto, metals, drugs and pharmaceuticals tail, among others, education as we know it, has completely changed and is impacted too."

gestions:

- t is suggested to identify areas, where public-private partnership approach and collaborative management can be prevailed for the development of tourism industry is necessary for the revival.
- It is suggested to provide sanitary and hygiene services at the tourist spots and use of these should be mandatory for hotels, restaurants, and other eateries.
- It is suggested that promotional efforts are to be undertaken to publicize tourism spots and its hygiene efforts. More publicity of the government efforts to develop tourism sites of Indian states need to be given.
- $\pm$  People should be assured of the availability of immunity foods, yoga or medical tourism

summary and Conclusions:

- is summarised that the tourism industry after the pandemic can be revived. With the introduction and enforcement precautionary steps to control the disease, the tourism industry can regain its past status.
- t is concluded that slowly the domestic tourism in India is trying to improve the tourism business in prominent tourist taces in different states of India. It can be expected that the international tourism would also regain its position in near ature.

ISSN: P-2455-0515 E- 2394-8450

Volume-VIII, Issues- IV

July - Aug 2021

References:

<sup>1</sup>Nidhi Singh`s article - https://www.tourmyindia.com/blog/impact-of-covid-19-on-travel-tourism-industry/ <sup>11</sup>Arindam Goswami & Nirupama Soundararajan, (2020), Business World- 16 June, 2020.

iii Business Standard website- First Published: Tue, April 28 2020. 19:42 IST

iv Business Standard website- First Published: Tue, April 28 2020. 19:42 IST

v ibid

<sup>xi</sup> https://reva.edu.in/blogs/impact-of-covid-19-on-indian-economy-few-key-points <sup>xii</sup> ibid

<sup>viii</sup> Pravakar Sahoo, Ashwani, Global Business Review September 2020, COVID-19 and Indian Economy: Impact on Growth, Manufacturing, Trade and MSME Sector

Educreator Research Journal

* https://reva.edu.in/blogs/impact-of-covid-19-on-indian-economy-few-key-points

ISSN: P-2455-0515 E- 2394-8450

Cert:erj/July-Aug 2021/13

Educreator Research Journal

Peer Reviewed Multidisciplinary Journal

CERTIFICATE OF PUBLICATION

This is to certify that, Mr./Mrs/Dr.

DR. MAHESH B. PATIL

has contributed a paper as author/co-author to Educreator Research Journal (ERJ) ISSN: P-2455-0515 E- 2394-8450,Volume No.VIII– Issue IV ,July - Aug 2021 (SJIF Impact Factor 7.092) .under the Title

E-Commerce & Entrepreneurship

The Editor in chief and The Editorial Board appreciate the Intellectual Contribution of the author/co-author

PRAMILA THOKALE Managing Editor

GOVT. OF INDIA RNI NO.: UPBIL/2015/62096 UGC Approved Care Listed Journal

SIK

0

SHODH SANCHAR Bulletin

An International Multidisciplinary Quarterly Bilingual Peer Reviewed Refereed Research Journal

Vol. 11

Issue 41

January to March 2021

Sm.

CUNIED EARP

ISSN

2229-3620

SPECIAL ISSUE

6

3

CONTENTS

ହ

| NO. | Торіс                                                                                                                                              |                                                     | Page No |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|---------|
| 1.  | ISSUES & CHALLENGES FACED BYGST CONSULTANTS DURING COVID-19                                                                                    | Prof. (CA) Bharat KhatriDr. Prakash G. Kadrekar | 1       |
| 2.  | WEAK FORM OF MARKET EFFICIENCY IN INDIANSTOCK MARKET- A STUDY ON BSE SENSEX                                                                    | Dr. Kavita                                          | 7       |
| 3.  | A STUDY OF IMPACT OF COVID ON FOOD INDUSTRY – WITHSPECIAL REFERENCE TO CATERING BUSINESS IN THANE SUBUR                                        | RBS Dr. Neetu Kapoor                                | 13      |
| 4.  | PRE AND POST COVID-19 SITUATION INUNIFIED PAYMENT INTERFACE (UPI) IN INDIA                                                                     | Sandeep KaurDr. Rupinder Katoch                 | 17      |
| 5.  | STUDY ON TRENDS AND EFFECTIVENESS OFDr.SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING STRATEGIES                                                                           | Varsha Sonavane MallahDr. Reshma R. More        | 21      |
| 6.  | RECOVERY OF NPA (NON-PERFORMING ASSETS)THROUGH DIFFERENT CHANNELS PRE AND POSTIBC 2016 OF SCHEDULED COMMERCIAL BANKS                       | Prof. Mayuree Tawade                                | 27      |
| 7.  | THE IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON FOOD CHAIN INDUSTRY,FOCUSING ON OPPORTUNITIES FOR STARTUPS WITH ANINFLUX IN ONLINE ORDERING OF HOME COOKED MEALS | Dr. Chandar H. Rohra                                | 34      |
| 8.  | TRANSFORMATION IN CONSUMERBEHAVIOR THAT WILL LAST FOREVER                                                                                      | Farida Khopoliwala                                  | - 39    |
| 9.  | IMPACT OF SOCIAL MEDIA ON READINGHABITS OF USERS : A STUDY                                                                                     | Vrushali Kulkarni                                   | 43      |
| 10. | A STUDY OF PERFORMANCE OF ATAL PENSIONYOJANA IN COVID 19 PANDEMIC IN INDIA                                                                     | Prof. Maya Hande                                    | 47      |
| 11. | MARKETING CHALLENGES IN RURAL AREAS                                                                                                                | Aarcha. S. S                                        | 53      |
| 12. | IMPACT OF COVID ON FRONTLINE WORKERS — WITH SPECIALREFERENCE TO POLICE PERSONNEL IN THANE SUBURBS                                              | Dr. Savita Punjabi                                  | 56      |
| 13. | A STUDY OF STUDENTS' PERCEPTIVE AND BEHAVIOR TOWARDNEW PATTERN OF ONLINE EXAMINATION POST COVID-19PANDEMIC – MCQS BASED ONLINE EXAMINATION | S Nishmita Ahuja                                    | 62      |

| 14. SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN AGRICULTURESECTOR : ISSUES AND CHALLENGES Dr. Gurjeet Virk Sidhu   15. A STUDY ON POSITIVE IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON Ms. Poonam Popat   16. INFACT OF COVID ON LIBRARIES IN TEACHEREDUCATION COLLECES IN MUMBAL: A CASE STUDY Dr. Pradnya Anil Bhosekar   16. IMPACT OF COVID ON LIBRARIES IN TEACHEREDUCATION COLLECES IN MUMBAL: A CASE STUDY Dr. Pradnya Anil Bhosekar   17. FINANCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE AND Prof. (Dr) Meena SharmaECONOMIC GROWTH IN BRICS ECONOMIES : Ms. Sunita   18. A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF GST COLLECTION-PRE AND POST COVID PANDEMIC Dr. CA Ravindra Prabhakar Bambardekar 9   19. AN ANALYTICAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE IMPACTOF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHEREDUCATION IN NAVI MUMBAI Ms. Jahara Mustafa Sakriwala 10   20. UNSKILLEDTO SKILLED Sunita Sherifani 10   21. THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z. Chahat Hargunani 11   22. OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES -LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID -19 Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar 12   23. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMIC Chandrashekher Ashok Chakradeo 12   24. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC <th>23</th> <th></th> <th></th> <th></th>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 23  |                                                                                                                           |                                                  |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 15. A STUDY ON POSITIVE IMPACT OF COVID-19 ON Ms. Poonam Popat The Bhavana Trivedi   16. IMPACT OF COVID ON LIBRARIES IN TEACHER Dr. Bhavana Trivedi State Stat | 14. | SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN AGRICULTURESECTOR : ISSUES AND CHALLENGES                                                  | Dr. Gurjeet Virk Sidhu                           | 67  |
| 16. IMPACT OF COVID ON LIBRARIES IN TEACHEREDUCATION COLLEGES IN MUMBAI : A CASE STUDY Dr. Pradnya Anil Bhosekar 24   17. FINANCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE ANDECONOMIC GROWTH IN BRICS ECONOMIES :AN ARDL APPROACH Prof. (Dr) Meena SharmaAS 95   18. A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF GST COLLECTION-PRE AND POST COVID PANDEMICOF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHEREDUCATION IN NAVI MUMBAI Dr. CA Ravindra Prabhakar Bambardekar 95   19. AN ANALYTICAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE IMPACTOF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHEREDUCATION IN NAVI MUMBAI Ms. Jahara Mustafa Sakriwala 10   20. UNSKILLED TO SKILLED Sunita Sherifani 10   21. THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z. Chahat Hargunani 11   22. OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES -LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID - 19 Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar 12   23. A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMIC Ms. Shehnaaz Mazkani 12   24. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC Ms. Shehnaaz Mazkani 12   25. CORPORATE SOCIAL ESPONSIBILITY :SELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPUR Dr. A. N. Barbole 13   26.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 15. | A STUDY ON POSITIVE IMPACT OF COVID-19 ONDIGITAL PAYMENTS WITH REFERENCE TO NEFT,RTGS AND MOBILE BANKING CHANNELS | Ms. Poonam PopatDr. Bhavana Trivedi          | 72  |
| 17. FINANCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE AND Prof. (Dr) Meena Sharma 9   17. FINANCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE AND Prof. (Dr) Meena Sharma 9   18. A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF GST COLLECTION- Ms. Sunita 10   18. A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF GST COLLECTION- Dr. CA Ravindra Prabhakar Bambardekar 9   19. AN ANALYTICAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE IMPACT OF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHER 10   20. UNSKILLED TO SKILLED Sunita Sherifani 10   21. THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING AND ShowROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMER 11   22. OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES - LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID - 19 Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar 12   23. A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATION TO FAMILY COHESION & BONDING 11   24. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPING Ms. Shehnaaz Nazkani 11   25. CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY : Dr. A. N. Barbole 13   26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACT Paryani Sunit Narayan 14   26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACT Paryani Sunit Narayan 14   26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACT <                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 16. | IMPACT OF COVID ON LIBRARIES IN TEACHEREDUCATION COLLEGES IN MUMBAI : A CASE STUD                                     | Y Dr. Pradnya Anil Bhosekar                      | 86  |
| 18. A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF GST COLLECTION-PRE AND POST COVID PANDEMIC Dr. CA Ravindra Prabhakar Bambardekar 9   19. AN ANALYTICAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE IMPACTOF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHEREDUCATION IN NAVI MUMBAI Ms. Jahara Mustafa Sakriwala 10   20. UNSKILLED TO SKILLED Sunita Sherifani 10   21. THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z. Chahat Hargunani 11   22. OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES -LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID - 19 Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar 12   23. A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMIC Ms. Shehnaaz Nazkani 12   24. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC Ms. Shehnaaz Nazkani 12   25. CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYMrs Birajdar Sphurti Sudhir 12   26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA Dr. Prakash Kadrekar 14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 17. | FINANCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE ANDECONOMIC GROWTH IN BRICS ECONOMIES :AN ARDL APPROACH                      | Prof. (Dr) Meena SharmaMs. Sunita            | 90  |
| 19. AN ANALYTICAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE IMPACTOF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHEREDUCATION IN NAVI MUMBAI Ms. Jahara Mustafa Sakriwala 10   20. UNSKILLED TO SKILLED Sunita Sherifani 10   21. THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z. Chahat Hargunani 11   22. OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES -LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID – 19 Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar 12   23. A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMIC Chandrashekher Ashok Chakradeo 12   24. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID -19 PANDEMIC Ms. Shehnaaz Nazkani 13   25. CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYMrs Birajdar Sphurti Sudhir 14   26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA Dr. Prakash Kadrekar 14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 18. | A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF GST COLLECTION-PRE AND POST COVID PANDEMIC D                                                   | r. CA Ravindra Prabhakar Bambardekar             | 95  |
| 20.UNSKILLED TO SKILLEDSunita Sherifani1021.THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z.Chahat Hargunani1122.OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES -LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID - 19Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar1223.A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMICChandrashekher Ashok Chakradeo1224.A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID 19 PANDEMICMs. Shehnaaz Nazkani1325.CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYSELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPURDr. A. N. BarboleA STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA1426.COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIAParyani Sunit NarayanDr. Prakash Kadrekar14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 19. | AN ANALYTICAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE IMPACTOF COVID-19 INDUCED E-LEARNING ON HIGHEREDUCATION IN NAVI MUMBAI          | Ms. Jahara Mustafa Sakriwala                     | 101 |
| 21.THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z.Chahat Hargunani1122.OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES –LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID – 19Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar1223.A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMICChandrashekher Ashok Chakradeo1224.A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMICMs. Shehnaaz Nazkani1225.CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :SELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPURDr. A. N. BarboleMrs Birajdar Sphurti Sudhir1326.COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIAParyani Sunit NarayanDr. Prakash Kadrekar14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 20. | UNSKILLED TO SKILLED                                                                                                      | Sunita Sherifani                                 | 108 |
| 22.OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES -LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID - 19Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar1223.A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMICChandrashekher Ashok Chakradeo1224.A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMICMs. Shehnaaz Nazkani1225.CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYSELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPURDr. A. N. BarboleMrs Birajdar Sphurti Sudhir1326.COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIAParyani Sunit NarayanDr. Prakash Kadrekar14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 21. | THE SIGNIFICANT STUDY OF WEBROOMING ANDSHOWROOMING CONCERNING CONSUMERPREFERENCE OF MILLENNIALS, GEN X & GEN Z.   | Chahat Hargunani                                 | 112 |
| 23. A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMIC 12   24. A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC Ms. Shehnaaz Nazkani 12   25. CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYSELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPUR Dr. A. N. Barbole 13   26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA Paryani Sunit NarayanDr. Prakash Kadrekar 14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 22. | OPEN EDUCATION RESOURCES –LIBRARIES RESPONSE TO COVID – 19                                                            | Dr. Sujata S. Rajpurkar                          | 121 |
| 24.A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMICMs. Shehnaaz Nazkani1325.CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYSELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPURDr. A. N. Barbole1326.COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 23. | A STUDY OF LOCKDOWN STRESS IN RELATIONTO FAMILY COHESION & BONDINGDURING COVID 19 PANDEMIC                        | Chandrashekher Ashok Chakradeo                   | 126 |
| 25. CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY : Dr. A. N. Barbole 13   A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BY Mrs Birajdar Sphurti Sudhir 14   SELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPUR 26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACT Paryani Sunit Narayan 14   ON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA Dr. Prakash Kadrekar 14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 24. | A STUDY ON GROCERY SHOPPINGDURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC                                                               | Ms. Shehnaaz Nazkani                             | 132 |
| 26. COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACT Paryani Sunit Narayan 14   ON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA Dr. Prakash Kadrekar 14                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 25. | CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY :A STUDY ON INITIATIVES TAKEN BYSELECTED FAMILY FIRMS IN SOLAPUR                  | Dr. A. N. BarboleMrs Birajdar Sphurti Sudhir | 138 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 26, | . COVID-19 PANDEMIC AND ITS IMPACTON DIFFERENT SECTORS IN INDIA                                                       | Paryani Sunit NarayanDr. Prakash Kadrekar    | 144 |

| S   |                                                                                                                               |                                                              | 80  |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 27. | UTILIZATION OF SOLAR POWER FOR SMART STREETLIGHTS, IRRIGATION SYSTEM AND ELECTRICITYGENERATION MONITORED USING IOT    | Simran Sherifani                                             | 148 |
| 28. | IMPACT OF COVID-19 PANDEMIC ON THEREAL ESTATE SECTOR OF MAHARASHTRA                                                       | Dr. Arpita PandeyDr. Saritprava DasSimandhar Randive | 154 |
| 29. | A STUDY ON EXPECTATIONS OF MSMES ANDSTEPS TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT OF INDIA FORMSMES WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO BUDGET 2021 | Gopal Chanchlani                                             | 158 |
| 30. | REFORMS IN TEACHING-LEARNING IN HIGHER EDUCATDURING LOCKDOWN PERIOD OF COVID-19 PANDEMIC                                  | TION CA Haresh Budhrani                                      | 164 |
| 31. | MANAGING STRESS AT WORKPLACE DURING COVID-19                                                                                  | Dr. Harjeet Kaur Virk                                        | 168 |
| 32. | AN ANALYSIS ON THE PHYSICAL AND PSYCHICTRAUMA AMIDST COVID-19 IN INDIA ANDIT'S IMPINGING ON NORMALCY                  | Manohar Kumar                                                | 172 |
| 33. | ENHANCING VISIBILITY OF ACADEMIC LIBRARIES :SUSTAINABILITY IN POST-COVID ERA                                              | Kiran Raikar                                                 | 176 |
| 34. | REFORMS IN EDUCATION SECTOR –TEACHING, LEARNING AND EXAMINATION                                                           | Dr. Umakant Vasantrao Deshmukh                               | 180 |
| 35. | AN ANALYSIS OF IMPACT OF COVID-19PANDEMIC ON MENTAL HEALTH OFUNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS                                   | Ms. Dipalee B. Mulmulay                                      | 184 |
|     |                                                                                                                               |                                                              |     |
|     |                                                                                                                               |                                                              |     |
|     |                                                                                                                               |                                                              |     |
|     |                                                                                                                               |                                                              |     |

GOVT. OF INDIA RNI NO. UPBIL/2015/62096

ISSN 2229-3620

Journal of The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda

Certificate of Publication

Certificate of publication for the article titled:

AN ANALYSIS OF AWARENESS AMONG LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ON LEGAL ISSUES INVOLVED IN NRI MARITAL DISPUTES

> Authored by Ms. Dipalee B. Mulmulay

ज्ञान-विज्ञान विमुक्तथे UGC

Volume No .56 No.3(II) .2022

Approved in armal Journal of The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda

ISSN : 0025-0422

(UGC CARE Group I Journal)

Journal MSU of Baroda

Journal of the Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda ISSN : 0025-0422

AN ANALYSIS OF AWARENESS AMONG LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ON LEGAL ISSUES INVOLVED IN NRI MARITAL DISPUTES

Ms. Dipalee B. Mulmulay

ABSTRACT

A sound and healthy marriage system is a root of Indian culture. However there has been tremendous growth in fake/fraudulent NRI marriages resulting in great hardships for abandoned Indian wives and their minor children. Legal practitioners are the protectors of justice and in any legal system. However due to non-implementation of Uniform Civil Code, Indian advocates face challenges to be thorough with various personal laws to deal with any marital issue. In NRI marital dispute, this challenge becomes an even more complex problem, as knowledge of Indian personal laws is not sufficient and he has to get himself informed about Foreign law which is applicable and provisions of Private International law. This paper is an attempt to analyse awareness among Indian lawyers about complexity of Indian and foreign laws associated with NRI marital disputes.

Keywords - NRI, Legal practitioners, marital disputes, Bill, Personal laws, Private International Law.

INTRODUCTION

In modern India, the very root of the marriage system and its sanctity has come to stake because of failed/fraudulent NRI marriages and marital grievances arising from them. As per Section 6 of the Income-tax Act, NRI is defined as "an individual is said to be non-resident in India if he is not a resident in India.

And an individual is deemed to be resident in India in any previous year if he satisfies any of the following conditions:

1. If he is in India for a period of 182 days or more during the previous year; or

2. If he is in India for a period of 60 days or more during the previous year and 365 days or more during 4 years immediately preceding that year.

However, in respect of an Indian citizen and a person of Indian origin who visits India during the year, the period of 60 days as mentioned in (2) above shall be substituted with 182 days. The similar concession is provided to the Indian citizen who leaves India in any previous year as a crew member or for the purpose of employment outside India."

Though one cannot deny that there can be injustice caused by NRI wife on Indian husbands, very rarely such disputes are reported. Typically, most of the cases reported are related with injustice caused to Indian wife by NRI husband. According to the Parliamentary Standing Committee on "The Registration of Marriage of Non-Resident Indian Bill, 2019" noted that 5,298 complaints have been received related to NRI marital grievances between January 2016 and October 2019. The problem Fake/fraudulent NRI marriages cause great physical and mental torture and agony not only to Indian wives, but also to their parents and their minor children. Day by day the craze among Indian girls to marry NRI husband is growing day by day. The prominent reason behind this is the respect the person gets if he is NRI. There are many other reasons as well behind interest of Indian girls behind such marriages and their increasing number, such as professional opportunities, not having adequate career opportunities in India, escape route for solemnizing inter caste or inter religious marriages, hope and expectation of economic wellbeing, glamour, freedom and liberal lifestyle. Another prominent reason

ISSN 2277 - 7539 (Print) Impact Factor - 5.631 (SJIF)

Excel's International Journal of Social Science & Humanities

An International Peer Reviewed Journal

May - 2021 Vol. I No. 17

EXCEL PUBLICATION HOUSE AURANGABAD

| AboutExcel Publication       | Contents                                      |     |
|-----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| The Philosophy                          | 1) The Question of Minority Development and          |     |
| Excel's International Journal of        | Constitutional Rights                                | 01  |
| Humanities and Social Science           | Amalesh Ki Flaunan                                   | 01  |
| (EIJHSS) is an open access, peer-       | 2) Introduction to Critical Theory                   |     |
| reviewed and refereed journal           | Mr. Rupesh                                           | 09  |
| published by Excel Publication House    |                                                      |     |
| is to provide an intellectual platform  | 3) Art and Society                                   | 15  |
| for the international and Indian        | Ms. Gaytri                                           | 10  |
| scholars. EIJHSS aims to promote        | 4) The Role of Family in Child Development           |     |
| interdisciplinary studies in humanities | Mrs. Poonam Ajay Singh                               | 18  |
| and social science.                     |                                                      |     |
| Submissions should indicate an          | 5) Parenting Styles and Juvenile Delinquency:        |     |
| understanding of the relevant           | Asst Prof Sunanda Waghmare                           | 24  |
| submissions to this body of             | ASSI, 1101. Summinu Hughman                          |     |
| research. Empirical articles should     | 6) Obesity & Zumba Fitness                           |     |
| have an appropriate methodology         | Dr. Mohit R. Shinde, Mrs. Poonam M. Shinde,          | 20  |
| and be able to relate their findings    | Miss. Leincy Peixoto                                 | 30  |
| to the existing literature.             | 7) Growth of Women Entrepreneurs in India: Issues    |     |
| Attempt to show how they further        | and Challenges                                       |     |
| existing theory.                        | Mrs. Ranjini M.                                      | 36  |
| The review process. The review          |                                                      |     |
| process followed by Excel Journal       | 8) A study of Challenges for Urban Local Governments |     |
| is systematic and thorough. Articles    | in India                                             | 17  |
| submitted to the journal are initially  | Madhukar Laxman Hiwale                               | 4/  |
| screened by the editor for relevance    | 0) Changing from E-Covernance to Mobile-Governance   |     |
| and overall quality as judged by the    | Dr. Prasad S. Madan, Namrata A. Deshmukh             | 55  |
| methodology and findings.               |                                                      |     |
| Inappropriate or weak submissions       | 10) Impact of Covid-19 on Indian Economy             | (0) |
| are not forwarded for a formal          | Prof. Manisha Dnyanoba Pawar                         | 69  |
| review. Those considered                | 11) A Brief Analysis of Women's Education in India   |     |
| double blind review process.            | Mrs. Sveda Hajera, Dr. Asmita Sharad Salve           | 75  |
|                                         |                                                      |     |
| Potential contributors: Every           | 12) Environment Protection and Human Rights in India | 06  |
| institution, and every research         | Madhukar Laxman Hiwale                               | 80  |
| student, faculty working anywhere       | 13) Clobalization of Indian Economy It's Constraints |     |
| in the world is invited to explore      | & Suggestions                                        |     |
| fruitful connections with Excel         | Dr. Prasad S. Madan                                  | 91  |
| Publication.                            |                                                      |     |
|                                         |                                                      |     |

wan ssor ijavidyalaya

ok, Thailand

nihar

Urdu and cil Member, car Marathwada angabad

li Khan

mmerce niversity, India.

Inthan Ior

Jniversity

Krish ages nces

| 14) Impact of Covid-19 on Indian economy                                                                                                       |     | 25)      |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|----------|
| Dr. Sayyad Abdul Aziz Maheboobsab                                                                                                              | 98  |          |
| 15) Investigating the relationship between operating costsand firm profitability using longitudinal data fromIndian Hotels             |     |          |
| Dr. Mohammed Abdul Raffey                                                                                                                      | 103 | 26)      |
| 16) A study of Political Obligation in MaharashtraMr. Nitin Manikrao Gaikwad                                                               | 113 |          |
| 17) Project Finance with Predetermined Lease forExpansion of Business                                                                      |     | 27)J |
| Prof. Sharda P. Bhudhwant                                                                                                                      | 116 | 28)      |
| 18) A study of an attitude of secondary school teacherstowards teaching profession in relation with theiradjustment in Aurangabad sity |     | 20)      |
| Shaikh Mohammadi                                                                                                                               | 121 | 29)      |
| 19) Health & Nutrition Education Program in AurangabadDr. Manjusha. S. Molwane, Dr. Khan Hameeda                                           | 128 | 30)      |
| 20) Theme of Identity: A Study of Indian DiasporaMs. Syeda Shaheda Afreen Sultana                                                          | 139 | 31)      |
| 21) Travelogue Writing: A Critical ReviewPornima Prasad Upasani                                                                            | 145 | 32)  |
| 22) Virginia Woolf's A Room of One's Own:A Woman in Search of Her Own IdentitySyed Abdul Quader                                        | 149 |          |
| 23) A Study of Working Conditions of Women DomesticWorkers                                                                                 |     |          |
| Ms. Sheetal Santosh Patil                                                                                                                      | 158 |          |
| 24) Impact of Global Economic Slowdown on IndianAutomobile Sector                                                                          |     |          |
| Ms. Geetanjali B. Chiplunkar                                                                                                                   | 164 |          |
|                                                                                                                                                |     |          |

- . . .

.

EXCEL'S INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF SOCIAL SCIENCE & HUMANITIES(An Peer Reviewed International Journal)ISSN 2277-7539Vol. INo.17 - May, 2021Impact Factor 5.631 (SJIF)

Impact of Global Economic Slowdown on Indian Automobile Sector

* Ms. Geetanjali B. Chiplunkar

Introduction:

According to current scenario, Indian economy is the fifth largest economy in the world. In 2019 GDP of India was $ 2.94 trillion which was more than United Kingdom and France. In Purchasing power parity, India's GDP was $ 10.51 trillion which is higher than Japan and Germany. From 2014 to 2018, an annual average GDP growth rate has been between 6% to7% which turned India into fastest growing major economy. According to World Bank report 2018, the annual growth rate of India's GDP was 6.8% which was more than GDP growth rate of Australia (2.9%), China (6.6%), Germany (1.5%), United Kingdom (1.4%), USA (2.9%) and UAE (1.9%). Important factors for this growth are a young as well as increasing working age population, increasing literacy rate, increasing per capita income resulted into increase in demand for consumer goods etc.In spite of these entire strengths India's growth rate was marked as slowest in the last six years. In first quarter of financial year 2020, GDP growth rate was 5% and in second quarter it was marked as only 4.5%. However Indian economy experienced economic slowdown i.e. slow economic growth from the year 2018. Demonetization, introduction of GST, collapse in private consumption and investment, higher debts etc. are responsible for economic slowdown in India. This slowdown is experiencing by some of the very significant sectors like FMCG, automobiles, steel, consumer durables and real estate. This paper will focus on impact of economic slowdown on Indian automobile industry.

* Assistant Professor, Dept. of Economics, Sheth NKTT College, Thane (W)

Impact of Global Economic Slowdown on Indian Automobile Sector____

Objectives of the Study:

- 1. To understand the causes of global economic slowdown.
- 2. To evaluate the effect of economic slowdown on Indian automobile industry.
- 3. To suggest some constructive measures to recover automobile industry in India from economic slowdown.

Research Methodology:

This paper is based on Primary as well as secondary data. Primary information was collected from different automobile companies through interview method and secondary data collected from sources like various reports of the government, websites of different automobile companies, newspapers, articles and research papers etc.

Brief Information about Automobile Industry in India:

The Indian automobile industry includes two-wheeler, three-wheelers, cars, buses and trucks. Before independence India was the major importer of vehicles. It only concentrates on servicing, dealership, financing and maintenance of vehicles. After independence Indian automobile industry experienced certain changes. Now India is known as Asia's 4th largest exporter of vehicles after Japan, South Korea and Thailand.Now India is one of the largest markets in the world in case of automobile sales. In the year 2017-18 automobile industry registered double digit growth rate. The automobile industry in India observed sales growth of 9.2% with total sales of 4.02 million units during the financial year 2018-19. Maruti Udyog Ltd., Ashok Leyland, General Motors in India, Ford India Ltd., Eicher Motors, Bajaj Auto, Daewoo Motors India, Hero Motors, Hindustan Motors, Hyundai Motors India Ltd., Royal Enfield Motors, Telco, TVS Motors, DC Designs and Swaraj Mazda Ltd. are the top and major manufacturers in Automobile industry in India. According to report of Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion (DIPP) Indian automobile industry has attracted Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) worth US $ 20.85 billion during the period 2000 to

165

-Excel's International Journal of Social Science & Humanities

2018. According to The New York Times, India's strong engineering base and expertise in the manufacturing of low-cost, fuel-efficient cars has resulted in the expansion of manufacturing facilities of several automobile companies like Hyundai, Nissan, Toyota, Volkswagen, and Maruti Suzuki. Renault, Datsun, Honda, Toyota, Nissan, BMW etc are the foreign automotive companies that manufacture and market their products in India.

Impact of economic slowdown on automobile industry:

From the last 11 months automobile industryin India is showing decline in growth. The automobile sector, which contributes more than 7% of India's GDP, one of the biggest employment providers is facing one of its worst downtrend. Domestic sales across passenger vehicles (PVs), commercial vehicles (CVs) as well as two- and three wheelers fell 12% year-on-year. The slowdown across the automobile sector has finally begun to impact the jobs within the sector. This slowdown was started from July 2018. Companies have, therefore, started to go for production cuts. Several companies such as Maruti Suzuki, Tata Motors, Ashok Leyland, among others have cut vehicle production for the days and weeks. Decrease in production leads to the increase in unemployment as companies started labour cut especially contractual employees. Companies are offering VRS to their old employees. Number of employees loses their jobs from automobile showrooms, service centers, suppliers. Economic slowdown affects top automobile companies in Indiawhich is shown in following table-

| Name of theCompany | Total Sales (Domestic and Export) |           | % Change intotal sales |  |
|------------------------|-----------------------------------|-----------|----------------------------|--|
| i satisticapi nelo     | 2018-19                           | 2019-20   |                            |  |
| Maruti Suzuki          | 1,555,691                         | 1,332,395 | -14.4%                     |  |
| Tata Motors            | 421,359                           | 305,491   | -27%                       |  |
| Ashok Leyland          | 14,718                            | 10,378    | -29%                       |  |
| Bajaj Auto             | 3,93,089                          | 3,54,913  | -10%                       |  |
| Hero Motors            | 5,82,660                          | 5,01,622  | -13.9%                     |  |

Table - 1 Total sales of vehicles by top automobile companies in India

Source- Data published in Economic Times, February 2020

166_

Impact of Global Economic Slowdown on Indian Automobile Sector_

The above shows that 5 top automobile companies in India has experienced negative growth due to economic slowdown in their total sales of current year as compared to last year. The automobile industry in India has been experiencing major stagnation for the past four quarters of the financial year 2019-20. Some of the important reasons for this slowdown are:

167

- Due to higher GST, customers are postponing their demands for the purchase of new automobile. Customers are also expecting discounts in the price especially in rural areas.
- NBFC crisis had curtailed financing to new vehicles at the same time NBFCs were financing customers who were not preferred for financing by banks. Hence, revival of lending by NBFC is critical for demand revival.
- In next two years, vehicle prices are estimated to be rise; insurance cost also rose due to higher GST. This increase in vehicle prices can restrict the recovery.
- Automobile industry is facing high competition from pre-owned car market. Demand for new car is shifting towards a pre-owned car market because of significantly lower costs of second-hand vehicles as compared to the new ones. The pre-owned car market in India has been expanding considerably in the past few years.
- The increased availability of rental automobile such as Ola, Uber and other companies, promotes consumers to rent vehicles instead of buying them.
- Factors like the lack of a clear migration policy towards Electric Vehicles (EV) creates confusion among buyers, deficit monsoon and liquidity crunch in the economy are also contributing towards a reduction in auto sales.
- In July 2018, the government increased the official maximum loadcarrying capacity of heavy vehicles by 20-25% with the aim of bringing down logistics costs. However, the decision adversely affected the sale of automobiles, particularly commercial vehicles and is believed to have a weightage of 10% in explaining the decline in the auto industry sales.

Suggested Measures to recover automobile industry from economic slowdown:

• Government should revise the GST. Government can modify the slabs or can remove the cess.

-Excel's International Journal of Social Science & Humanities

- Government can reduce registration fees, which have gone up very substantially and a roll back of the increases in road tax mandated by state governments after the introduction of GST.
- The industry has also been demanding that banks and other lenders pass the cut in rates by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to the consumers so that demand is revived. The auto industry needs to lend support for suppliers as well as the dealers.
- The government can develop India as a global manufacturing and R&D hub for automobile sector.
- There is a provision of income tax benefit on interest paid on Housing loan. A similar scheme on interest paid on car loan should be introduced.
- The government of India encouraged foreign investment in the automobile sector and allowed 100% Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) under the automatic route.

Some of the recent initiatives taken by Government of India for strengthening automobile industry are:

- Under Union Budget 2019-20, government announced to provide additional income tax deduction of Rs 1.5 lakh (US$ 2,146) on the interest paid on the loans taken to purchase EVs.
- The government aims to develop India as a global manufacturing centre and an R&D hub.
- The Government of India is planning to set up R&D centres at a total cost of US$ 388.5 million to enable the industry to be on par with global standards.
- The Ministry of Heavy Industries, Government of India has shortlisted 11 cities in the country for introduction of electric vehicles (EVs) in their public transport systems under the FAME (Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of (Hybrid) and Electric Vehicles in India) scheme. The government will also set up incubation centre for start-ups working in electric vehicles space.
- In February 2019, the Government of India approved the FAME-II scheme with a fund requirement of Rs 10,000 crore (US$ 1.39 billion) for FY20-22.

168-

Conclusion:

Global economic slowdown affects almost all the sectors of an economy. The automobile industry also coincides with an overall economic slowdown. However Automobile sales in India across categories declined 19.08% in February 2020 as economic slowdown continued to hit demand, besides lower production in view of transition to BS-VI emission norms affecting wholesale dispatches. Hence, government intervention is needed before there is further deterioration in sales because the auto industry has a multiplier effect on the economy, with linkages to consumer demand and industrial demand. The need of the hour is a corrective course of action by the government that will at least stop vehicle sales from falling further.

References:

- 1. Auto Component Industry in India: Growing Capabilities & Strengths, http://acma.in/pdf/Status_Indian_Auto_Industry.pdf
- Dr. Arun Kumar Rastogi and Mr. Nitin gupta An Analysis of Indian Automobile Industry: Slowdown as an Opportunity for New Development- INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF RESEARCH IN COMMERCE, IT & MANAGEMENT- VOL-UME NO.3(2013),ISSUE NO.10(OCTOBER) ISSN2231-5756.
- Report of working group on automotive sector for the 12th Five year plan (2012-17), Dept. of heavy industry.
- 2. https://www.dhyeyaias.com/current-affairs/perfect-7-magazine/slowdown-in-automobile-sector-and-its-impact.
- 3. https://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/blogs.
- 4. https://www.managementstudyguide.com.
- 5. Websites-Maruti Suzuki, Ashok Leyland, Hero Motors, Bajaj Auto, Tata motors.
- 6. Union Budget 2019-20.

Gertificate

This is to certify that the Research paper entitled "Impact of Global Economic Slowdown on Indian Automobile Sector" submitted by Ms. Geetanjali B. Chiplunkar has been published in "Excel's International Journal of Social Science and Humanities (An Peer Reviewed International Journal)" Vol. 1 No.17 May 2021 Issue, ISSN 2277-7539 (Print) Impact Factor 5.631 (SJIF). The Research contribution was greatly appreciated and well received by the Review Board Members. The excel publication house would like to express deep sense of gratitude for your esteemed contribution.

(Managing Editor)

Date: 01-06-2021

Sit.

Shodhsamhita शोधसंहिता

ISSN No. 2277-7067

CERTIFICATE OF PUBLICATION

This is to certify that

Assistant professor, Sheth NKTT college of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts, Thane (W).

> For the paper entitled A STUDY ON IMPACT OF SOCIAL MEDIA ON BUYING BEHAVIOR OF YOUNG MINDS

> > Volume No. VIII, Issue 2(I), 2021-2022

in Shodhsamhita

UGC Care Group 1 Journal

A STUDY ON IMPACT OF SOCIAL MEDIA ON BUYING BEHAVIOR OF YOUNG MINDS

Saummya Rai

Assistant professor, Sheth NKTT college of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts, Thane (W).

Abstract:

Social media is the most recent form of media and have also gained astounding worldwide growth. It has become a part of everyone's life. Social media is a very broad term and really encompasses several different types of media, such as videos, blogs, etc. It is a place where you can transmit information about other people. Social media is a vehicle for communication and it let everyone share content that other people can share, in turn, with their online connections. It provides young people with a range of benefits and opportunities to empower themselves in a variety of ways. Young people can maintain social connections and can access more information than ever before. It has become a place where we spend many hours of the purpose of business or leisure or socializing with others or other purposes. The present study attempts to find out the impact of youth in the usage of social media especially college students in various fields of arts and commerce streams. The study compromises of 130 students selected randomly from various academic institutions in Thane city. Keywords: Social media, youth, buying behaviour.

Introduction:

As per oxford dictionarysocial media are interactive technologies that allow the creation or sharing/exchange of information, ideas, career interests, and other forms of expression via virtual communities and networks.

Nowadays the cost of attracting customers can be massive, so it's important to keep them while we engage with them. Engagement will exist if the consumer is interested in buying and consuming more goods. Constructing a powerful brand with a positive viewpoint leads to the brand being the preferable and unique and over time the brand loyalty will be built. Modern consumers are exposed to a great number of advertising messages daily, as a result of which they quickly react by buying.

Media has a vital role to play in enhancing desires among females to buy various products ranging from foods to cosmetic. All formats of media including print, electronic and social media have become the most effective factor influencing consumers especially those housewives who watch television and use online networking sites to purchase different goods.

Social media is the most recent form of media and have also gained astounding worldwide growth. It has become a part of everyone's life. Social media is a very broad term and really encompasses several different types of media, such as videos, blogs, etc. It is a place where you can transmit information about other people. Social media is a vehicle for communication and it let everyone share content that other people can share, in turn, with their online connections. It provides young people with a range of benefits and opportunities to empower themselves in a variety of ways.

From the beginning of the 21stcentury, social media is in progress. People belonging to different age groups use social media. Social media plays a vital role in life. Information Technology (IT) changed the living standard. These tools provide several ways of interaction and different opportunities to learn foreign languages through worldwide. The world become a global village due to social media. Users can connect with other people within seconds and share their ideas and give comments by video conferencing. People of different culture can also talk on any issue. Social media links the people to their culture by showing different documentaries. Students use social media for learning purpose, for entertainment, and for innovation.

A social media is an online platform which people use to build social networks or social relations with other people who share similar personal or career interests, activities, backgrounds or real-life connections. The impact of social networks on young people is significant. It is becoming increasingly clear that social networks have become part of people's lives. Many adolescent people are using their laptops, tablet computers and smart phones to check Tweets and status updates from their friends and family. Due to the advancement in technology, people are pressured to accept different lifestyles. Social networking sites can assist young people to become more socially capable. Social media is a web-based form of data communication. Social media platforms allow users to have conversations, share information and create web content. Social media has different forms, together with blogs, micro-blogs, wikis, social networking sites, photo-sharing sites, instant messaging, video-sharing sites, podcasts, widgets, virtual worlds, and more. Billions of people around the world use social media to share information and make connections. On an individual level, social media allow us to communicate with our friends and relatives, gain knowledge of new things, develop your interests, and be entertained.

Social Media is a innovative idea with a very brilliant opportunity with additional scope for advancements. With the advancement of social media many organizations are making use of this medium to better their practices. With the use of social networking we can advertise or communicate in a more efficient way. Likewise people don't have to rely on the media or TV to get their daily dose of news it can all be obtained from a social networking site. People can track or get information from all over the world.

The social networking site on (SSN) is a platform for providing the youth a golden opportunity in exchanging knowledge, finding employment and social quotient among them. The youth specifically interested and sharing the personal experience, video and picture. There are two main impacts one is positive impact, and other one is negative impact. The Positive impact deal with the SNS helped for youth population in a various aspect. Now a day the young population lived in various location to share material on an experience person and using the research purpose.

Review of literature:

Paul Kirschner and ArynKarpinski define Facebook and other social network sites as an online directory that allows people to find their friends, family and colleagues through looking them up on social network sites (Kirschner and Karpinsk, 2010). Curtis states that teens all over the world are starting to lose interest in the use of Facebook and are using Snapchat, Twitter and Instagram (Curtis, 2013). Victoria Rideout states that, among the younger generation, the time they spend on social media, what she calls 'entertainment media' is "more than twice the average amount of time spent in school each year." (Rideout, 2012, p. 5) She also adds that an American child spends on average seven and a half hours a day just for having fun on the media, not only that, but they multi-task, between all the different media they use. For example, they can be listening to music, sending a tweet and also posting on Facebook. Rideout says, that since social media is seven days a week, unlike school or having a full-time job, over the years the amount of time one could spend over the internet "has exploded" (Rideout, 2012, p. . Abelardo Pardo believes that technology offers a platform for innovation, and allows its users to express their opinions about how they feel towards the information being published. He adds that, social media is also a platform that allows students to interact with one another, with their teachers and communities that share their same education. Pardo also states that these types of interaction are "an essential part of how humans learn." (Pardo, 2013, p. 45) Kirschner and Karpinski, discuss Wim Veen's new term, "Homo Zappiens", which refers to the learners of the new generation, and the new way they use to learn. This new way is known as "meta-cognitive skills," meaning they learn on their own without the need for instructions, it is also called "discover-based learning." They also add that, the younger generation shares an unclear bond with technology since their birth, leading them to multi-task. They note that 46% of the younger generation who access the internet use it to help them with their school assignments (Kirschner and Karpinski, 2010). June Ahn discusses in her research a theory called 'Signalling Theory', this theory refers to how individuals on social network sites present themselves, and develop their identities and build trust with others. She also adds that, by having many friends on the different platforms, this causes the individual to lose the trust of their friends because they start adding people they do not know, to show others how popular they are (Ahn, 2011b).

Objective of the Study

- To understand social media and its various uses.
- To understand buying behavior of young people on social media platform.
- To analyze various factors like convenience, brand awareness, variety, accessibility etc.

Research Methodology: A sample of 136 students were taken. Questionnaire was designed to collect primary data from the selected sample. In questionnaire, Likert scale (Strongly Agree, Agree, Disagree and Strongly Disagree) was utilized.

Research Findings:

33.8%

4) Use of social media for purchases

5) Is social media safe?

Conclusion: New media have been established over the last decades. An increasingly critical place in the lives of young people, providing numerous challenges and opportunities. Social media is one of the fastest modes of communication and it has huge impact in shaping the personal lifestyles of youth. As the impact of new media continues to expand, it will be important to develop evidence-based approaches to encouraging and making more effective use of social media in young people. From the above data, it can concluded that youth still uses social media for entrainment purpose. Most of our younger generation is not using social media to its full potential and still using conservative buying techniques.

References:

Ahn, J. (2010). The Influence Of Social Networking Sites on High School Students' Social and Academic Development. Diss. Faculty of the USC Graduate School University of Southern California.

Ahn, J. (2011a). Digital Divides and Social Network Sites: Which Students Participate in Social Media? Journal of Educational Computing Research, 45(2), 147-63. http://dx.doi.org/10.2190/EC.45.2.b

Ahn, J. (2011b). The Effect of Social Network Sites on Adolescents' Social and Academic Development: Current Theories and Controversies. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology, 62(8), 1435-445. http://dx.doi.org/10.1002/asi.21540

Cain, J., & Katherine, C. (2013). Exploring Social Media's Potential in Interprofessional Education. Journal of Research in Interprofessional Practice and Education, 3(2), 1-7. Print

Egedegbe, N. (2013). The Effect of Social Networking Sites on Students' Academic Performance in Girne American University, North Cyprus

Kirschner, P., &Aryn, K. (2010). Facebook® and Academic Performance. Computers in Human Behavior, 26(6), 1237-245. http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/j.chb.2010.03.024

Lavy, V., & Sand, E. (2012). The Friends Factor: How Students' Social Networks Affect Their Academic Achievement and Well-Being? The National Bureau of Economic Research. Hebrew University, University of Warwick, CEPR, and NBER. Moran, M., Seaman, J., &Tinti-Kane, H. (2011). Teaching, Learning, and Sharing: How Today's Higher Education Faculty Use Social Media, p. 1-32.

Naizabekov, S. (2012). Negative Impact of Social Networking Sites on Academic Performance of Students. Academia.edu. O'Keeffe, G., & Kathleen, C. (2011). The Impact of Social Media on Children, Adolescents, and Families. Pediatrics, 127(4), 799-805. http://dx.doi.org/10.1542/peds.2011-0054

Pardo, A. (2013). Social learning graphs: combining social network graphs and analytics to represent learning experiences. Int. J. Social Media and Interactive Learning Environments, 1(1), 43-58. http://dx.doi.org/10.1504/IJSMILE.2013.051652

Rambe, P. (2011). Exploring the Impacts of Social Networking Sites on Academic Relations in the University. Journal of Information Technology Education, 10, 271-93.

Richards Richards, L. (2012, August 8). Stats: Social media growth and impact across the Middle East.

Rideout, V. (2012). Children, Teens, and Entertainment Media: The View From The Classroom. Commensense.

Subrahmanyam, K., & Patricia, G. (2008). Online Communication and Adolescent Relationships. The Future of Children, 18(1), 119-46. http://dx.doi.org/10.1353/foc.0.0006

Trend Staff, Digital. (2014). The History of Social Networking. Digital Trends

Veen, W. (2006). Homo Zappiens and the Need for New Education Systems. Homo Zappiens and the Need for New Education Systems Wim Veen.

${\tt PNP}$ . Journal of Positive School Psych. ${\rm ~X}$

🔶 🤿 C 🔒 journalppw.com/index.php/jpsp

🖻 🖈 🖬 👗

Search

Journal of Positive School Psychology

+

CURRENT ARCHIVES ABOUT - AUTHOR GUIDELINES - ANNOUNCEMENTS CONTACT

A series A series of forcing france A systematic A systematic A series of the series of the series A series of the series of the series A series of the series of the series of the series A series of the series o

Journal Information ISSN: 2717-7564 Frequency: Monthly Indexing: Scopus, EBSCO

10:10 oumal of Po . . . PANPAN od) published nov esearch India 84080 1 nal covering positiv provides on intercation and school settings. Th lence of accelve asve and school settings. The UPSR which is published weive un access that publishes pasarch outcomes with significant which is published twelve in N. understanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in schedi sellings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and orientations that include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of populations across the life span

Make a Submission

Journal of Positive School Psychology

- (5 R 2 ......

Blended Teaching-Learning System, a new option for system in post-COVID period- A case study of Thane Colleges

Dr. Dhanashree Sawant

Vice Principal, Sheth NKTT College, Associate Professor, Dept of Economics, Affiliated to Mumbai, Thane, Maharashtra, India. Email: dpssawant@gmail.com

Abstract -

In the Post-COVID era, the different sectors have undergone massive changes, the not an exception to this. Educationists, students and policy makers and other stake giving their opinions and suggestions with respect to new education system. A Learning System (BTLS) may prove to be a new normal. Therefore, it is important to think about various pros and cons of the Blended Teaching-Learning System. The aims to understand, analyse the pros and cons of Blended Learning System and to Author of the study hypothesized that Blended Teaching-Learning System is g COVID period. However, it is imperative that sufficient and affordable internet co necessary infrastructure is available for BTLS. Author has taken primary data thro method from the stakeholders, i.e., students, parents and teachers of various collection is concluded that taking into consideration the post-COVID issues, Blended Teachi would be a new normal. However due precautions and sufficient infrastructure wo best results.

Keywords - Blended Teaching-Learning System (BTLS), Covid-19, education po and teachers

Introduction –

In the Post-COVID era, the different sectors have undergone massive changes, the education system is not an exception to this. Educationists, students and policy makers and other stakeholders have started giving their opinions and suggestions with respect to new education system. A Blended Teaching-Learning System may prove to be a new normal. The quality of

Research Methodology:

Researcher has made use consisting of books, journa have an update on the issue. undertaken primary data fi students (244), educatorsa parents (54). Teachers fin colleges of Thane citr questionnaire to fill up (

ISSN: 0025-0422

JOURNAL OF THE MAHARAJA SAYAJIRAO UNIVERSITY OF BARODA

सत्यं शिवं सुन्दरम् Estd. 1949 Accredited Grade 'A' by NAAC

VOL. 56 NO.1 (Science & Technology) Vadodara 2022

ţ

1

JOURNAL OF THE MAHARAJA SAYAJIRAO UNIVERSITY OF BARODA

EDITOR Prof. C. N. MURTHY

VOL 56 (2022) NO 1 (SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY) VADODARA 2022

|         | CONTENTS                                                   | Page No           |
|---------|------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------|
|         | Topic                                                      | 197-198           |
| Sr. No. | THE REAL STATE AND                                         |                   |
| 36      | EFFECT OF POSITIVE MILLOUR POPTS                           |                   |
|         | PERSONALITY ON SPORTS                                      | 199-201           |
|         | -Dr. Uday D. Mendulkar                                     | 177               |
| 37      | EMERGENCE OF HEUTAGOOT                                     | the sector of the |
|         | APPROACH TO LEARNING                                       | 202 200           |
|         | -Porishmita Saikia, Surajita Bora                          | 202-200           |
| 38      | APPROPRIATION OF WOMEN IN THE AROOR'S SHOW                 |                   |
|         | FEMINISTIC READING OF SHASHI THERE                         |                   |
|         | BUSINESS                                                   | 1                 |
|         | -Priyanka Marwaha, Dr Nancy Paul                           | 207-212           |
| 39      | ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABLE DEVELOT MERCE                    |                   |
|         | ROLE OF THE INDIAN JUDICIARY: AN ANALY TREAD               |                   |
|         | STUDY                                                      |                   |
|         | -Chandana Suba, Prof (Dr.) Sanjeev Kumar Chadha            | 213-220           |
| 40      | DETERMINANT OF JOB SATISFACTION: A STUDY ON                | Lo I al monto     |
|         | EDUCATORS FROM HIGHER EDUCATION SECTOR                     |                   |
|         | -Ms Orooj Siddiqui, Dr Gaurav Bisaria                      | 221-225           |
| 41      | A STUDY OF CONSUMER BEHAVIOUR TOWARDS                      | 221-222           |
| 1       | BUYING OF NECESSITIES AND NONNECESSITIES                   |                   |
| ~       | DURING COVID-19 OUTBREAK                                   |                   |
| 10      | -Dr. (MS.) H. A. Change                                    | 226 228           |
| 42      | A HISTORICAL STUDY OF FIRST SCHISM IN THE                  | 220-220           |
|         | SANGHA WITH REFERENCE TO SECOND BODDINST                   |                   |
|         | Bain Bawat, Dr. Saniay Kumar                               |                   |
| 12      | THE OUAL TIES OF A KING AS DEPICTED BY THE                 | 220 221           |
| 45      | CDEAT POET KĂI IDĂSA                                       | 227-231           |
|         | Dr. Line Devi                                              |                   |
| 4.4     | AEDO AMERICAN CONSCIOUSNESS AND TONI                       | 232,232           |
| 44      | MODRISON: A CRITICAL EXPLORATION OF THE BLUEST             | 252-255           |
|         | EVE                                                        |                   |
|         | Dr Brahma Dutta                                            |                   |
| 45      | HEALTH INSURANCE IN INDIA: A STUDY OF                      | 234-238           |
| 45      | STANDALONF HEALTH INSURANCE COMPANIES IN                   | 251250            |
|         | INDIA                                                      |                   |
|         | Dr. Ritesh Kumar Singhal                                   |                   |
| 46      | EMOTIONAL MATURITY: A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF                 | 239-242           |
| 40      | INSTITUTIONAL AND DAY SCHOLAR ADOLESCENTS                  |                   |
|         | Ruchi Chauhan                                              | All states        |
| 47      | DIAGNOSTIC IMPORTANCE OF TRIVIDHA PARIKSHAN -              | 243-246           |
| 4/      | A DEVIEW                                                   |                   |
|         | Km Meena Yaday* Sachin G. Rohani, Vinayak N. Joshi, Shirke |                   |
|         | lijaba Mahinati                                            | 1.1.1.1           |
| 19      | PHYTOCHEMICAL ANALYSIS AND IDENTIFICATION OF               | 247-252           |
| 10      | DRUG LEAD COMPOUNDS FROM MEDICINAL PLANT                   |                   |
|         | EXTRACTS                                                   |                   |
|         | Sandsen Waghulde* M. K. Kale, V. R. Patil                  |                   |

| C C Active Summa Husan Al-Obads5134-5143           C C Active Summa Husan Al-Obads           6134-5143           C C C Active Summa Husan Al-Obads           D E Husan Nayef Al Njadal. Or Alted Ham Ibranim Almasiden, Dr Somaya Al-Jaraten           S C C C Active Summa Husan Al-Obads           P D C           Impact of ethical and philanthropy responsibility on customer's loyaity: A study on Jordanian food products           C C Mar Almad Al-Jarata Husan Mond Antf, Fathyah Abu Bakar, Yazan Yasaen Yousef Alsmarat           C C C Mar Almad Al-Jarata Active Husan Mond Antf, Fathyah Abu Bakar, Yazan Yasaen Yousef Alsmarat           C C C Mar Almad Al-Jarata Husan Al-Obads                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|--|
| Dr. Bushta Saman Husaan Al-Obaad513-613                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 6 7  | C n journappre.com/hodex.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | File/grap/insue/views/29                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Events For the set of t                      |      | Dr. Bushra Saiman Husain Al-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Obalda                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Examples of explored and philanthropy responsibility on customer's loyalty: A study on Jordanian food products companies. Der Armad Ab Janvan, Arfabul Husna Mond Antf, Fathyyah Abu Bakar, Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alsmaard Explored                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Evaluation the educational outcomes of graduate students in light of the global goals for the 21st century at A-Balqa Applied University.Dr. Eman Nayef Al Njadal . Dr. Ahed Hamiltrahim Almsaiden. Dr. Somaya Al-Ja'aitinG19- 610                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |      | Per la construcción de la constr |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Dr. Eman Nayef Al Njadal. Dr. Ahed Hani Ibrahim Almsaiden. Dr. Somaya Al-Ja'afren6149- 6160PDFImpact of ethical and philanthropy responsibility on customer's loyaity. A study on Jordanian food productscompanies.Omar Ahmad Als Jarwan, Aritatul Husna Mohd Anff. Fathiyyah Abu Bakar. Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alsmairat6161-6174pdf                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |      | Evaluation the educatio                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | nal outcomes of grad                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | duate students in lig                                                                            | ht of the global g                                                                                     | cals for the 21st c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | entury at                                                        |                                                              |                                               |  |
| PDFImpact of ethical and philanthropy responsibility on customer's loyaity. A study on Jordanian food productscompaniesOmar Ahmad AB Jarwan, Antatul Husna Mohd Antf. Fathiyyah Abu Bakar. Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alsmairat6161-6174                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |      | Dr. Eman Nayef Al Njadal Dr.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Ahed Hani Ibrahim Almsa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | iden. Dr. Somaya Al-Ja'a                                                                         | fræti                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| FDFImpact of ethical and philanthropy responsibility on customer's loyalty: A study on Jordanian food productscompaniesOmar Ahmad A& Jarwan, Anfatul Husna Mond Anff, Fathyyah Abu Bakar, Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alsmarat6161-6174pdf                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |      | 6143-6160                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Impact of ethical and philanthropy responsibility on customer's loyalty: A study on Jordanian food productscompaniesOmar Ahmad AB Jarwan, Arifatul Husna Mohd Ariff, Fathiyyah Abu Bakar, Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alsmairat6161-6174                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |      | PDF                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| companiesOmar Ahmad Ak Jarwan, Anfatul Husna Mohd Anff. Fathiyyah Abu Bakar. Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alsmairat6161-6174                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |      | Impact of ethical and pt                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | lianthropy responsit                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | allity on customer's I                                                                           | ovally. A study on                                                                                     | Invianian food r                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | moducts                                                          |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Omar Ahmad Ali Jarwan, Anfatul Husna Mohd Anff, Fathiyyah Abu Bakar. Yazan Yaseen Yousef Alismairat6161-6174pdf                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |      | companies                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | and a set of the set o | any on outputter s i                                                                             | oyany A study on                                                                                       | i bordaniari 1000 j                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 1000013                                                          |                                                              |                                               |  |
| Ing                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |      | Omar Ahmad Ali Janwan, Anta6161-6174                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | tul Husna Mohd Anff, Fath                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | iyyah Abu Bakar. Yazan Y                                                                         | aseen Yousef Alsmain                                                                                   | ĸ                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |      | pa                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                  |                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| provided any and activation and activate The 1990 which a subject of the                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |      | Journal of Positive School                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | JOHT D D DEELICVEWEU                                                                             | CONTROL LOWCING DUGIN                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |                                                              |                                               |  |
| psychology in coucation and school settings. The unsup which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant control                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education and                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7I school settings. The JPS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | P, which is published two                                                                        | times a year, is an op                                                                                 | en-access that publist                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outcon                                               | nes with significa                                           | nt contribut                                  |  |
| understanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and originicant contact include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognith                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Psychology (ISSN 2717-71 school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoplogy of education and seventive, cross-cultural, and           | times a year, is an oprvices in school settingd developmental pers                             | en-access that publistgs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research oulconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | ties with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu | nt contributis and orientucation of p |  |
| psychology in cooleation and school settings. The proof which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contratunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Psychology (ISSN 2717-71 school settings. The JPSnent of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | <li>P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, an</li> | times a year, is an oprvices in school settingid developmental pers                            | en-access that publishgs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outcompasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologieregarding the edu   | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in cooleation and school settings. The proof which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contracunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitivacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7I school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P which is published twology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, an              | tunes a year, is an oprvices in school settingid developmental pens                            | en-access that publishgs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | ties with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu | int contributs and orientucation of p |  |
| Psychology in cooleadon and school settings. The Jr-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contribution of access and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and one include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of across the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7J school settings. The JPSment of the positive psycho-re, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | P; which is published twoplogy of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | tunes a year, is an oprvices in school settingid developmental pers                            | en-access that publisis. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| Psychication and school settings. The 3r-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contribution of access and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and one include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of across the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitivacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7I school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | pointai coreaning pointtimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers | en-access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologie:regarding the edu  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| Psychology in ecoleation and school settings. The Jr-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contribution and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and one include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of across the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | :: } | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitivacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7d school settings. The JPSment of the positive psycho-re, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | P; which is published twology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar             | turnes a year, is an oprvices in school settingid developmental pers                           | en access that publistgs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologueregarding the edu   | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in ecoleation and school settings. The Jr-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contribution of access and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and one include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of across the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitivacross the life spanType here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Psychology (ISSN 2717-71 school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar             | turnes a year, is an oprvices in school settingid developmental pers                           | en-access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | int contributs and orientucation of p |  |
| psychology in education and school settings. The JP-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contracunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education oracross the life spanP Type here to search O Et O Et O E E                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7d school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | times a year, is an opvices in school settingd developmental pers                              | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outcorpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in ecoleation and school settings. The Jr-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contracunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7J school settings. The JPSment of the positive psycho-ve, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | P, which is published twology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar             | turnes a year, is an opnvices in school settingid developmental pers                           | en-access that publisproduces that publisproduces the unit of the termproduces the unit of the termproduces the unit of the termproduces | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the ede  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in ecoleation and school settings. The JP-SP which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contractunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life spanP Type here to search O Et O Et O E E                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717-71 school settings. The JPSnent of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | times a year, is an opvices in school settingd developmental pers                              | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significatof methodologiesregarding the ede | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in education and school settings. The JPSP, which is published we times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contractunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life spanP Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J school settings. The JPSment of the positive psycho-ve, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | P, which is published twology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar             | turnes a year, is an opnvices in school settingid developmental pers                           | en access that publisjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in education and school settings. The Jr-SP, which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with significant contractunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education aacross the life spanP Type here to search O C C C C C C C C C C C C C C C C C C                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitivacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Psychology (ISSN 2717.71 school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers   | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significatof methodologiesregarding the ede | nt contrabuts and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in education and school settings. The JPSP which is published wo times a year, is an open-access that publishes research inclosives with arginitizant contractunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and oneindicate entractionat, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitinacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Psychology (ISSN 2717-7d school settings: The JPSment of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers   | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outcorpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significatof methodologiesregarding the edu | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in education and school settings. The urse, which is published two times a year, is an open-access that publishes research outcomes with sightfacin contreunderstanding and improvement of the positive psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and orainclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education oracross the life spanP Type here to search O C th |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognitivacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, closs-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingd developmental pers    | en access that publisjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outorpasses a full rangeublishes research i  | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | nf contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in deucation and school settings. The psychology of education and services in school settings. The journal encompasses a full range of methodologies and orainclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education oracross the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cognithacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers   | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outorpasses a full rangeublishes research i  | nes with significatof methodologiesregarding the ede | nf contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| psychology in colucation and ochool settings. The JPSPr which is purchase in school settings. The journal encompanses a hult range of methodologies and cealinclude educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.71 school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers   | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outcorpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with signification of methodologies regarding the ede    | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| peychology in ecolocation and achido settings. The Jurish which is published two times a year, and open access that publishes research coationes with significant contributions include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, coos-cultural, and developmential perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education a across the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J achool settings. The JPSnent of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnyices in school settingid developmental pers   | en access that publisjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outcorpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significatof methodologiesregarding the edu | nf contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| peydodagi in conclusion and school setungs, the L +O <sub>2</sub> which is published two times a year, and open-access that published with significant contribu-include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J school settings. The JPSnent of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnyices in school settingd developmental pers    | en access that publisjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outorpasses a full rangeublishes research i  | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| perconcepts de la concepts de la co             |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improvedinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.71 school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers   | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outorpasses a full rangeublishes research i  | nes with significatof methodologiesregarding the edu | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| percentage in education and achoos estings. The J-SP, which is prototed we times a year, is an open-access that purpose and cells and inprovement of the postupe percentage and ceal include educational, cognitive, social, behavioral, preventive, cross-cultural, and developmential perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education of across the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | -    | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717-71 school settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published hwoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | turnes a year, is an opnvices in school settingd developmental pers                            | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research outcorpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with signification of methodologies regarding the ede    | nf contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| percensaria de calculation and solucion sectuality. The ar-SrV, which is probabled we times a year, is all rough of the calculation and calcul            |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improvedinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J achool settings. The JPSnent of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published hwoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering posatimes a year, is an opnyices in school settingid developmental pers   | en access that publisjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research outorpasses a full rangeublishes research i  | nes with signification of methodologies regarding the eds    | nf contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| productive monocardin and activols resingly. The driver which is published we time is a year, is an open-acces that published relevant contradius and activity of education and services in school settings. The current encographies and that response the hold comparison of the productive of education and services in school settings. The current encographies are estimated and activity of education and services in school settings. The current encographies are estimated and activity of education and services in school settings. The current encographies are estimated and activity of education and services in school settings. The current encographies are estimated and the education of activity the education of activity of the education of activity the education of activ            |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improverinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.7J achool settings. The JPSnent of the positive psychore, social, behavioral, prevDSS O                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | P, which is published twoology of education and seventive, closs-cultural, ar            | ponnan coverning posatimes a year, is an opmyces in school settingd developmental pers     | en access that publisjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | es research oulconpasses a full rangeublishes research i | nes with significaof methodologiesregarding the edu  | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |
| productive in exclusion and activol resingly. The driver which is published we three is y lead, is an open-acces that published relevant contrastinclude extractional, cognitive, social, behavioral, proventive, cross-cultural, and developmental perspectives. The JPSP publishes research regarding the education ofacross the life span.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |      | Journal of Positive Schoolpsychology in education andunderstanding and improvedinclude educational, cogniteacross the life span7 Type here to search                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Psychology (ISSN 2717.71 achool settings. The JPSment of the positive psychove, social, behavioral, prev                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | P, which is published hwoology of education and seventive, cross-cultural, ar            | Journal Covering pointtimes a year, is an opnvices in school settingdi developmental pers  | en access that publistjs. The journal encompectives. The JPSP p                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | es research oulorpasses a full rangeublishes research i  | nes with signification of methodologies regarding the ede    | nt contributs and orientucation of p  |  |

Journal of Positive School Psychology

17-03-2022

Dear Author (s) Dr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande

Associate Professor and Head, Department of Economics, Sheth N.K.T.T. College of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts, Thane, Maharashtra, India.

Corresponding Author: Dr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande

The title "A study of affordability of consumers during Covid pandemic and impact of gender on buying decisions of consumers"

It's our great pleasure to inform you that your above-mentioned manuscript has been reviewed and accepted for publication in Journal of Positive School Psychology with ISSN 2717-7564. This letter of acceptance is considered as an official acceptance of your manuscript with no further amendments required.

Your article will be published in forthcoming Regular Issue.

With warm regards

Lu/m

Editorial Board

Journal of Positive School Psychology Resat Bey Mahallesi,Ataturk Caddesi Mimar Semih Rustem Is Merkezi No:18 Kat:8-9, Seyhan,Adana /Turkiye https://journalppw.com/index.php/jpsp

6

TURKIYE

Journal of Positive School Psychology 2022, Vol. 6, No. 2, 2705 – 2710

http://journalppw.com

A study of affordability of consumers during Covid pandemic and impact of gender on buying decisions of consumers

Dr. (Ms.) H.A.Chande

Associate Professor and Head, Department of Economics, Sheth N.K.T.T. College of Commerce and Sheth J.T.T. College of Arts, Thane, Maharashtra, India.

Abstract

Gender affects buying decisions of consumers. Women seem to find pleasure and satisfaction while they shop. Covid pandemic has contributed to a change in the working pattern. Work from home became more acceptable pattern of work which is expected to lead to saving of travelling expenses. Present paper attempts to find impact of gender on buying decisions of consumers and attempts to find out whether there is any change in the consumption patter due to saving in travelling expenses. Researcher found no significant association between the impulsive buying of necessity products across the Gender of respondents. The affordability of the respondents to buy more products during Pandemic as they are saving on travel expenditure is found to be significantly different.

I. Introduction

Buying decisions of consumers are affected by gender. Covid pandemic has contributed to a change in the working pattern. Work from home became more acceptable pattern of work, leading to saving of time and cost to travel to workplace. In present paper researcher attempts to find out impact of gender on buying decisions of consumers and whether there is any change in affordability of consumers during Covid pandemic as they are saving on travel expenses.

II. Review of literature

According to Bakshi swarna (2020), men and women work differently with regard to the need recognition through the evaluation of alternatives to the post purchase behaviour with different types of stimuli and different parameters of evaluations. Women seem to find pleasure and satisfaction while they shop whereas men appear to be more disdain towards shopping. Study by V. Vijaya Lakshmi et al. (2017) pointed out that men and women approach shopping with different motives, perspectives, rationales, and considerations. Gender has an important role in consumer behaviors. The differences between men and women about expectation, want, need, life-style etc. reflect to their consumption behaviours. According to Maria Nicola et.al. (2020) savings on petrol will not lead to rise in expenses by consumers as there is uncertainty about jobs and also as they are instructed to practise social distancing.

III. Research Methodology

Objectives

 To study whether impulsive buying of necessity products is dependent on Gender.

2. To compare across gender whether making purchases make the respondents feel better.

3. To study whether purchases made during Covid pandemic made the respondents happy

4. To study whether respondents can afford to buy more products during Pandemic as they are saving on travel expenses.

Hypothesis

1. There is a significant association between the impulsive buying of necessity products across the Gender of respondents.

2. There is a significant association between 'feeling better about purchase' and the Gender of respondents