Career opportunities and employability

Today, the Beauty and Wellness sector has gained prominence in India and displayed consistent and remarkable growth, making it a potentially significant contributor to economic growth and a leading employer creating millions of employment opportunities across the breadth of the country. The single-most reason for the popularity of beauty and makeup courses in India is that they make you employable in a matter of just few months or even weeks. The beauty and wellness industry is high-paying and a person with minimal education in India cannot match the earnings of a beauty professional with the same level of education background.
